THE DIAMOND FIELDS OF SOUTH

There certainly never has been such a l stir in this colony before, excepting at the time of war. Every town and disrrict in the colony has sent its contingent to the army of workers at the Vaal Fields, and still the movement goes on. In May there were street, Kingston. about one hundred men at the diggings. Before the end of June there were seven over one thousand: and at present it 1) Parker's Drug Store. is estimated that there are at the Klip Drift, Phiel Hebron and Kleskamma Fields no less than two thousand men. When it is remembered that the European population in ' the colony is scattered over a large surface and at the best but small, and that distances here are very great, it will be understood that pretty strong motives must have been at work to occasion so large a movement. The discovery of the "Star of South Africa," now known at home, las been followed by that of other stones, which, if not so valuable as that superb gem, are of great excellence and in large numbers. As the fields! are in a country owned by no one who can substantiate his claim, there is no organization of labour and there are no means of ascertaining the actual discoveries. Some keep their good fortune to themselves, and again there are cases in which a diamond is talked about until it becomes several dia monds. The customs returns will, after a while, give trusworthy statistics. At present it is estimated that the Natal Company has sent home diamonds to the value of £15,000; that Mosenthal & Co. shipped! £450 and the Northam £2,800, while it is said that Cambrian will now receive £30,-
