TUESDAY ETENING, MARCH 11.

Ir .- The Toronto organ has discovered that if eight men had changed votes last Friday night, or if all the members had been present, or if certain other circumstauces had not occurred, the rule of the Right Hon, Sir John A. Macdonald would have been at an end in the Dominion. Well that is consoling. But if the opposition do not get those eight votes, and the members will not come to time in great. er force than they did on Friday night, and if other circumstances combine to increase the majority, how then? We certainly have as much right to deal in probabilities this greater plea that there is a reasonable prospect that ours will come true. If the first voto of the session, with choice of ground and all other accessories secured a majority of 16, what may we look for when measures are brought in which must command the good sense of every lover of his country. ? Drowning men catch at straws, and others in no less hopeless case seem to build their greatest hopes on a slippery foundation of Ifs.
