Dominion Parliament.

Ottawa, March 11.—The Speaker took the chair at 3:30. Several petitions were presented praying for an Act to prohibit the manufacture of intoxicating liquor. Petitions were also presented in reference to the North Shore and the Canals. The Clerk read the Order of the day. being the consideration of His Excellency's Speech from the Throne. Mr Stephen Tobin (Halifax) then rese to move the Address in reply. He said that the privilege last year was assigned to an honorable member for Victoria, whilst today it was accorded to one who was a dweller on the Atlantic shore. The honof the present Ministry in all its details. He was strongly of the opinion that since the advent of Union the country had progressed from one end of it to the other. He referred to His Excellency the Governor General in flattering terms, and dwelt with much eloquence upon the particulars in connection with the Pacific Railway and its construction. He was quite assured that the Canadian Pacific Railway would be built, from ocean to occan, right through the heart of the which might be thrown in the way. In referring to the Bay Verte Canal project, he said it was one that more directly concerned the members of the Maritime Provinces. It would be a canal sixteen miles, and it would save five hundred miles of a journey by water, thus bringing Quebec and St. John that distance nearer to each other. He was an enthusiast in the matter of railways and CICH canals. He was in favor of the proposed OLLIUII change by which a Bureau of Statistics was to be established, and as to the election laws. the evidence of the last few days showed that they needed revision. He then concluded by referring to the prosperity of the country and the good results attendant upon the infusion of new blood, and it was in the hands of the Parliament to make the Cana-

Mr Palmer seconded the adoption of the Address, he referred to the loyalty of the people of New Brunswick, and his own. With regard to the canals he was glad to see the Government indicating itself. The principal thing that struck him, was what it did not contain. In referring to better terms he said he believed that the people JUST THE GOODS for Spring of New Brunswick, had been dealt with members the mover and seconder of the address. He quite recognized that the resolutions had been drawn out with the intention not to commit any member of the House. He referred to the crisis prevailing for the last few years, and attributed it to the financial policy of Sir Francis Hincks. If there was peace and amity prevailing with the United States, it had been brought about by bartering the Canadian interests. The exception they (his party) had taken to the Government policy of the Pacific Railway, was that they had bound themselves to construct the road within a given period. The Government had studiously shut out all competition with the avowed object of giving a ring control of the public monies and subsidies which had been guaranteed. The people of British Columbia had no security for the bona fide construction of the road. With reference to Canals he would say that the welfare and prosperity of the country depend upon the extension of the canals. He believed the surveys were incorrect. He understood that the engineer of the Baie Verte Banal was an individual who once occupied a position in the Public Works Department, and who had been dismissed for incompetency. He would not refer to the Welland Canal as there was no report. He referred to the Insolvency law which is in agitation, but which was not mentioned in the address. He was
