THUSDAY EVENING, MAY 4. SEE LAST PAGE.

A late despatch or two from Washington and the tone assumed by the New York Herald go to show that there is a disposition rising among a certain class of American politicians to find fault with the result of the Joint High Commission. The Herald, the stolen rope tucked under the bed-tick. The Station to receive the Waterloo, Hamburg. to have the injuries and losses sustained by to deter others from committing similar offences British subjects in the American war taken into account as a set-off to the Alabama claims. General Butler, the firebraud politician, is reported to be intensely disgusted at the conclusion arrived at, and is said to be preparing to oppose the ratification of the treaty. As this worthy is not a member of the Senate his influence can only be exerted indirectly. Senator Sumner is reported to be hostile to the ratification of the treaty, for tonight has been skilfully selected, and but his opposition will be of a different notwithstanding the unfavourable appearance took place, the choir at the same time singing, that delightful park, the home of the ariskind from that animating General Butler. of the weather, we have little doubt but that "All praise now God."
