In the proclamation other than that of the personal gratification of the President directs citizens of the United States to observe and fulfil the clauses and provisions of the Treaty.

There is a state of public feeling exhibit ing itself in France which bodes no good to the peace of Europe. The supplementary elections and the excitement over the sucpower will be obvious to everybody except these heated Frenchmen. It need not be said that the desire for vengeance is unnatural or not to be expected. On the contrary, French national life has been one or other, possibly not long, the French good collection of pigeons by Mr Carson was a army will once more turn its face towards | pleasing addition, but the white fantails were if the chances of war at all favour, push on each variety, and name them correctly, and to Berlin and there wipe out the disgrace which has fallen on Paris.
