The Queen's Birth Day.

Her most gracious Majesty's Birth Day is for once going to be honoved by her loyal lieges of Kingston in a manner worth of the occasion. The various national and benevolent Societies are busy brushing up their regalia and overhauling their banners to enable them to make a respectable appearance at the procession, which is intend ed to form the principal attraction of the day. At noon a general Review of all the Troops in Garrison, by the Commander, Colonel Plomer Young, will take place on Barriefield Common, when a feu de will be fired. A noval salute will also be fired at Fort Henry, and every other demonstration of respect paid both military and the citizens which is d a toyal people to a beloved Sovereign hanced by the universal esteem v mother and a virtuous woman.
