The interests of the City of Kingston depend in a great measure upon the agricultural productions of the County of Frontenac and the adjoining Countles; and it is the duty of the citizens to foster and cultivate relations of muand benefit between the farmers and themselves, but unfortunately at the present time, the City Authorities by the imposition of High Tolls and Market Fees, are driiving the Farmers out o their Market, -and unless something le soon done it may tade a long time to reconcile parties? whose interests should be identical, and who should work well together. Besides, instead of imposing restrictions on the farmers, every facility should be afforded to them, and the certain way to increase City Revenues is to make their Tolls so reasonable that it is not worth. while for any man to evade them.
