A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life. — Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician at once ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure. — H. E. Simpson, Rogers Prairie, Texas.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family. — Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

The Best Remedy

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers. — Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class. — J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark.

CAMPBELL'S

TONIC ELIXIR

—OR—

This agreeable yet potent preparation is especially adapted for the relief and cure of that class of disorders attendant upon a low or reduced state of the system, and usually accompanied by Pallor, Weakness and Palpitation of the Heart. Prompt results will follow its use in cases of Sudden Exhaustion arising from Loss of Blood, Acute or Chronic Diseases, and in the weakness that invariably accompanies the recovery from Wasting Fevers. No remedy will give more speedy relief in Dyspepsia or Indigestion, its action on the stomach being that of a gentle and harmless tonic, exciting the organs of digestion to action, and thus affording immediate and permanent relief. The carminative properties of the different aromatics which the Elixir contains render it useful in Flatulent Dyspepsia. It is a valuable remedy for Atonic Dyspepsia, which is apt to occur in persons of a gouty character.

For Impoverished Blood, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, and in all cases where an effective and certain stimulant is required, the Elixir will be found invaluable.

In Fevers of a Malarial Type, and the various evil results following exposure to the cold or wet weather, it will prove a valuable restorative, as the combination of Cinchona Calisaya and Serpentaria are universally recognized as specifics for the above-named disorders.

Sold by all Dealers in Family Medicines.

WAGES UNDER THE N.P.

The workingmen known well that during the glacial period of Mr. Mackenzie's ascendancy work was scarce and difficult to obtain; his wife knows that wages are higher now, and that a dollar will purchase more than then. Wages have in fact increased twenty five per cent since the grits went out in 1878. In forty branches of manual employment which have been examined skilled workmen who then received $1 77 on an average now receive $2 22. Unskilled laborers who then got $1 37 now get $1 72.

The workingman then is paid more dollars a week than he was; but each dollar is worth more. To obtain this purchasing power investigation was made (1) into the prices of thirty different articles of food and drink. In this case it was found that the power of the dollar in 1886 had increased 12½ cents as compared with 1878. That is, a man's wife could go out last year and buy $1 worth of each of the thirty articles, and find that of the whole she had one eighth more in quantity in he larder than the same money would have brought her in 1878. For example: with a dollar to buy sugar, last year the wife could get one-third more sugar than in 1878; of tea one fifth more; of butter, eggs, and some other things she would not get as much; of other things she would get the same in 1886 as in 1878. Lumping all together, she would get one-eight more in 1886 than in 1878.

With respect to rents, though they were lower in 1878 than in 1886, it must be remembered that the workman had no money to pay even the lower rent with. The number of people who were "sold out" because they could not pay their rent in 1878 was, as everyone knows, very great. It was the same throughout all the Cartwright tariff years.

WORK, WORK, WORK!

Our friends in this city are ever confident of the result of the contest. There is much to warrant an assurance that we will carry the constituency. Our candidate is a statesman, not a voting machine; a leader, not a follower. Our party is united and organized. Our cause is righteous. What kind of opposition have we? Just this. Our opponents, without a possible candidate except Mr. Gunn, are attempting to drag that gentlemen into the contest against which all his feelings revolt. He has shown his indifference to their distress by keeping away from the country, allowing his supporters to remain in the dark as to his whereabouts, and permitting them to make a laughing stock of themselves by their contradictory stories and guesses about his movements. The grits have to face the prosperous condition of the city, and the memory of the grit starvation period, 1873 1878. They have to work against the manufactures flourishing in our midst, manufactures which owe their existence to the national policy. All these things presage success, but it must not be assumed that failure is impossible. Every true soldier of the party will buckle on his armor, and take care that as far as he is personally concerned nothing is left undone to make victory sure. Steady and unceasing work is what is required; after we have gained the city, we will have plenty of time for crowing.

ADDINGTON CONTEST.

The contest in Addington lies between Mr. John Bell, a farmer of the county, a man of sterling character and ability, and Mr. Harry T Shibley a young man whose most prominent quality is an itching for notoriety. The friends of Mr. Bell consider the opposition to him as beneath consideration, and they have not thought it necessary to exert themselves in the same manner that they would against a formidable foe. In this contempt of their opponent lies the sole danger in Addington. The riding is thoroughly conservative and strong in its allegiance to the sitting member, but our friends should remember that it is folly to despise the enemy; let every person who desires the cause of good government to prevail in Addington, go out and work from this to polling day. Let every man be brought out to vote on that day, instead of sitting by the fire in the confidence that Mr. Bell is sure of election.

The praise of an opponent is so diametrically opposed to grit principles and practice that the Whig thinks the eulogy of Mr Gunn as a citizen by the conservative speakers, on Saturday night, a sufficient reason for electing him to parliament. Oh, no! As a private individual, we admire and respect Mr Gunn; but as our representative in parliament, "we prefer the leader of the government to the tail of the opposition," and from the tone of Saturday night's meeting it is evident that that is the feeling animating a large majority of our citizens.

The American papers still continue to exercise themselves unnecessarily over the state of their coast defences in the event of war with Canada. It is needless to tell Canadians that there will be no war. We have too much faith in the level headedness of Americans generally and Canadians in particular to think of ruining our trade for years to come and reducing ourselves to a state of bankruptcy on account of a paltry dispute which can, and no doubt will be settled amicably by arbitration to the satisfaction of both parties.

The dignified position taken by the government on the fishery question is one that has commended itself to the fairness of the British authorities, as well as to the disinterested people of the United States—not the fishermen who are vexed at being kept out of the three mile limit, nor the politicians who are on the hunt for votes—but all who look at the subject from a fair and honest point of view.

The spread eagle oratory of Senators Frye and Ingalls has had the effect intended, and wormed out of the U. S. senate an appropriation of $21,000 000 of boodle which will no doubt be judiciously expended by the senators and their friends for coast defences and ordnance in such a manner as to make them solid with their constituents.

"Blake and repeal" is the rallying cry of the grits in Nova Scotia while the conservatives cheer just as loudly for "Sir John and the union." Ye loyal men of Kingston! What think ye of these cries? How can you vote for the party of disloyalty and secession?

POLITICAL NOTES.

In 1877 Montreal shipped to Great Britain 3,400,000 feet of lumber, and to South America 8,000 000 feet. In 1886 the shipments to Great Britain amounted to 98 000 000, and to South America 21,500,000 feet.

Indeed Wentworth Dr Russell does not indulge in the stale and silly pretense that he is a protectionist. He and Mr Awrey, who travel together, both oppose the national policy to the best of their ability.

During the year just ended a single Nova Scotia house sold 70,000 pairs of skates in the upper provinces of Canada. And yet the grit secessionist orators of Halifax tell the people they get no benefit from confederation.

At a conservative demonstration held at Martintown last week, two prominent gentlemen of liberal leanings, Mr Geo H McGillivray and Lieutenant-Colonel McLennan, spoke in favor of Macmaster's candidature. The Purcellites learned of the fact with dismay.

"I don't want to eat your orange," said one boy to another. "I only want to suck the beastly unwholesome juice out of it." And in the like spirit Mr. Blake says: "I don't want to destroy the national policy; I only want to take the beastly unwholesome spirit of protection out of it."

Facts Versus Free Trade.

[Hamilton Spectator.]

The St. John's Globe, the leading grit journal in New Brunswick, does not pretend that its hostility to the national policy has abated. It says:

A protective tariff causes over-production.
Over-production causes failures and throws many people out of employment.
A high tariff induces smuggling.
To prevent smuggling employ an army of men—who pay no taxes.

1. A protective tariff does not cause over-production. Under the national policy there was over production of one line of cottor goods and one or two lines woolens. That was a temporary evil which has now been remedied, and there is steady production in all branches of industry which is readily taken up by the consuming market.

2. The failures under the protective tariff have not been one half so many or one third so disastrous as under the old Cartwright tariff.

3. There is less smuggling now than under the old tariff.

4. The customs department does not employ so many men in proportion to the revenue collected as were employed in Mr. Mackenzie's time.

Every statement made by our free trade contemporary is disproved by the facts.

To Business Men.

(Montreal Gazette.)

No class in the community is more deeply interested in the result of the pending elections than the business men, unless it be the workingmen. Those who desire a continuance of the present commercial prosperity owe to themselves and to their country to exert every effort to maintain the present government in office. They cannot look at the state of public affairs without acknowledging that to give the liberals, led by Mr. Blake and Sir Richard Cartwright, another lease would be ruin to Canada. They must perceive that the elections are altogether likely to result in a majority for Sir John. They must see how important it is that the majority shall be a large one. Necessarily it follows that every business man, every man who wishes to see settled, prosperous times, every man who desires to save the country from convulsions that might "smash" it, ought to go to work with all his energy to increase the government majority. Far better for the business man to give a week or two now to political work than to risk the disasters that might easily result from a disputed election.

Union vs Secession.

[Ottawa Citizen.]

At the political meeting held in Halifax on Friday night, which was remarkable for the disorder which prevailed, Mr A G Jones, the liberal candidate, openly advocated secession, and said the liberal party in Nova Scotia would fight for repeal to the bitter end. When he concluded his address the liberals cheered for their candidates and repeal, and the conservatives for their candidates and the union. Mr Jones is one of Mr Blake's lieutenants, and if a grit government were formed would in all probability be a member of it, for he was a member of the Mackenzie administration. Every man who believes in maintaining the union should vote against the party of disintegration.

A New Brunswick Opinion.

(Ottawa Journal, Independent.)

The New Brunswick correspondent of the Toronto Mail says: A fair political survey of the province gives Restigouche, Gloucester, Northumberland, Kent, Westmoreland, King's, York, Victoria and the St. John seat to the government, the remainder to the opposition—nine out of sixteen—New Brunswick will thus, according to my calculation, sustain the government by a majority of two. Impartial judges here say this, with small majorities in Ontario, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and British Columbia, and equally small liberal majorities in Quebec and Nova Scotia, will give the government a majority of about 20.

TRICKS OF HORSE TRADERS.

A Horse Whose Owner Will Make Something If Victims Don't Squeal.

"I've got a trick horse in my stable at this moment," said my friend, the veterinary surgeon and trader, "that will make me big money before people get onto his tricks. Snider's coming to try a trade with me today, and if you wait till he happens along you'll witness the full racket. Ah! here's the Jim dandy now, as I'm a sinner!"

Snider is a milkman who varies the monotony of dairy devices by occasionally resorting to traders' tricks.

I make this statement on the authority of people who own barometers and have swapped horses with Snider; not necessarily to cast any reflection on the gentleman's probity or his public usefulness.

"How-do, Snider! How's the colt?"

"No better, Doc."

"Guess I'll have to take him myself, Snider?"

"Bout the size of it, Doc."

"Gimme $50 to boot and my new mar's yours!"

"Lemme hev another look at that new mar, Doc, 'fore I close."

The new mare was brought out and Snider went over her very carefully.

"She looks all right, Doc."

"Sound as a fresh egg, I'll warrant, Snider."

"I guess I'll risk her in other ways and go you. Here's the coin. Take the colt and gimme the mar."

"You gimme the colt and take the mar, Snider! That's the way to put it! Hyar, Lou, move!"

The Doc yelled this last at his animal and administered to her a vigorous kick on the flank at the same time. The mare, heretofore lively and obedient, suddenly stood still and planted her four feet in the soil as if she meant to take root.

"Take her off, Snider!" exclaimed the Doc, putting away his $50. "I'm in a hurry."

Snider proceeded. But the mare wouldn't. He coaxed, he jerked, he slapped, he shoved, he goaded. The mare was as immovable as a stone fence.

Schemes of various kinds were resorted to to waken her up, but all in vain.

Then Snider, sweating and swearing, decided to give it up as a bad job.

He accordingly delivered himself of this mutulied oration: "Doc, you know well that if there is any—thing—on—this—earth I hate worse'n Satan, it's a darned balker. You've got one onto me this trip. Call the dicker off, an' say it's only a cool?"

"Can't think of it, Snider!" quietly replied the Doc. "A bargain's a bargain. Take the mar 'n git, 'fore you rile me with yer funk!"

"Take mr' git!" exclaimed Snider. "Don't you see an airthquake wouldn't budge the brute. Say, Doc," he proceeded in a more conciliatory tone, "I'll drop $25 on the deal and never say another word about it. Come!"

"Well, said the Doc thoughtfully, "I hate to give back good money I win on the square spec; but seein' it's you, Spider, here's half yer boot and the trade's off." Git back to yer stall, Lou!" and by a magic touch the balky mare was made to frisk into the stable without another word.

"As I was telling you, just before Snider came up, I want only a trick hoss whose tricks are worth something. I got that mar, Lou, down pretty fine in three weeks' lessons, ain't I? She'll make a pile for me if each sucker as he gets kitched on her doesn't squeal and give the snap too dead away."—Exchange.

Where it Grinds the Editor.

"Tell me, O Aristarchus, tell me, by the shield of Pallas Athene, what find you in the exchanges this day that you briskly apply your never to be satiated and early devouring shears."

"Of a truth, O Musetheus, the times go hard, for neither on the all thundering editorial pages, nor in the columns of the argus eyed local reporters, nor yet even in the from everywhere selected miscellany can I find matter worthy to be culled for our all pervading sheet. And, by the gods immortal, I do esteem it to be cruel fortune that at this time, when news is scarce and advertising slow, it is required of me to bring to the altar of the remorseless printers fresh and plenteous hecatombs of reprint!"

"You speak true things, O Aristarchus, wielder of the nimble scissors! But, by the dog, how hardly shall it go with me, who, when these papers bear me no word provoking pointers, am forced to sit me down to gaze at the four walls and to invoke of mendacious Mercury the aid which he alone with his inventive arts can bring!"—Eugene Field in Chicago News.

Too Old.

A young man with an expression of confidence on his face entered a Michigan avenue clothing store yesterday and asked:

"I am straight business. I want a suit of clothes. There are seven of us who will buy our clothes at the same place. I have been sent on ahead to get prices."

"Humph!"

"If I bring the other six here to buy, what will you make this $20 suit for?"

The clothier went over and sat down by the stove with a disgusted look on his face.

"You didn't answer my question."

"My frendt, please go outt. You make me werry tired!"

"What's the matter with you? Don't you want me to bring the party here?"

"No, my frendt, I don't. All my sales to-day goes to an orphan asylum, and I like to keep 'em down to a summer coat und a pair of second hand pants! Better try der man two doors below."—Detroit Free Press.

Why Were the Witnesses Not Produced?

In a will case before a court and a rustic jury, Jere Black appeared as counsel for the youngest of three sisters, and sought to break the will on the ground that the two elder sisters had, with the assistance of his learned brother, the counsel on the other side, cajoled and coerced the dead father during his dying hours into signing a will giving them all his property and leaving the youngest daughter out in the cold. Black, who was young then, made a great speech to the jury, in which "King Lear" very naturally appeared.

"Goneril was at that bedside, gentlemen of the jury," he exclaimed. "Regan was there. But where was Cordelia?"

The jury remained out for some time. At last they came in, but the foreman reported that they could not agree. All of them except one man were in favor of the youngest sister, but the one man was not satisfied and could not be satisfied about what he thought a flaw in the evidence.

"What is it?" asked the court of the obstinate juror.

"Why, your honor," said the fellow, "if Mr. Goneril and Mr. Regan were present, as that lawyer said, why didn't he put them in the witness box?"—Philadelphia Record.

A Hopeless Case.

In a certain city in Connecticut there lived a very small boy with a liberal share of small "original sins." It is charged that one day he was playing in front of the house and overheard some street gamin using slang expressions profusely. "Mamma, mamma, what's a gone sucker?" Now, mamma did not in the least know, but as her son had been disobeying her that morning she took the advantage of the opportunity to point a good moral. "A gone sucker, my son! Why, it means a naughty little boy who doesn't mind his mother." That night, as Johnnie was saying his prayers, the full measure of his sin seemed to occur to him with awful significance, and stopping short the usual petition he cried out in the abandonment of his remorse: "O Lord, I'm a gone sucker!"—Harper's Monthly.

EPPS'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency of disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in packets by grocers, labelled thus:

To those who like

A GOOD CUP OF TEA,

Ask for and drink only

REDDEN'S

CHINESE MIXTURE.

Drink it alone, it is pure, and therefore cheap. It is much stronger than any other tea, and the same quantity must not be used—two teaspoonfuls will go as far as three of other sorts, therefore it is much more economical.

BEWARE

OF WORTHLESS IMITATIONS

As there are many inferior goods, corded with jute, hemp, etc., offered and sold as Coraline by some unprincipled merchants trading on the reputation of our genuine Coraline, we warn the ladies against such imposition by drawing their attention to the necessity of seeing that the name is stamped on inner side of all Coraline goods. Without which none are genuine.

'CROMPTON CORSET CO.'
