PROROGATION.

John Beverley Delivers His Last "Speech"—The Closing on Saturday.

His Honor Governor Robinson went down to the Parliament Buildings Saturday afternoon and prorogued the last Assembly that he will be officially connected with as chief executive officer. The affair was rather tame and uninteresting. Rev. Vicar General Rooney and Baron von Heimbold were about the persons of distinction out of the House. About twenty-five members were present. The House sat till 15.15 Saturday morning and it was a pretty sleepy party of legislators and newspaper men that left the dingy old barracks at that hour; none of whom cared much if they returned or not to take part in the prorogation ceremonies.

The House passed to a third reading a total of 90 bills during the session, the most important being:

An act further respecting powers of the Committee of Supply of the House of Commons to amend the High Schools Act, 1885.

An act respecting the indemnification of minors.

An act to amend the Customs and Excise Taxes.

An act to amend the Public Parks Act.

An act to amend the Ontario Medical Act.

An act respecting the examination respecting assignments for the benefit of creditors.

An act respecting the operation of the Land Titles Act.

An act respecting the apportionment and proceedings of police magistrates.

An act for further improving the law.

An act respecting the Statute of Limitations.

An act to amend the Ontario Medical Act.

An act respecting the taxation of patented lands in Algoma.

An act respecting the operation of the University of Toronto College with other universities and colleges.

An act with reference to the publicity of certain matters affecting trifling.

An act respecting the judicial determinations.

An act to extend the Last-List Act to the outlying districts.

An act to amend the Ontario Factories Act, 1884.

An act to make further provision for the public health.

Amid the booming of canon His Honor read this "speech from the throne".

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislature As.

In relating you from further attendance upon your legislative duties, I have much pleasure in expressing my thanks to you for the attention and interest with which you have applied yourselves to the business brought before the House during the session now about to close.

I was greatly gratified at being afforded the opportunity of addressing you in the name of the Queen Victoria your loyal congratulations on her having been graciously pleased to assent to the bill respecting the reorganization of the great improvement which she has witnessed in the conduct of our affairs during that time, and on the wonderful progress which has been made in the public service since the ascended the throne.

The result of the day of review of various public statutes of the province having been completed, the report of the committee will soon be available for general adoption.

I have noted with pride your constant vigilance with respect to the public service, and the care with which you have applied yourselves to the consideration of the condition of the working classes. You have shown a decided interest during this session both on the operation of previous legislation, and in the welfare of the working classes. I trust, however, that you will continue next year to perfect the laws for the protection of the working classes, and as the principal schools of England.

The extension of the operation of the Land Titles Act to such parts of the province as may desire to be included will be of great benefit to the agricultural population.

The improvements made in the municipal law of the province will be of increased efficiency to that already existing.

I heartily approve of your resolution to bring to an end the contract between the government and labor by contract, and I trust that there may be substituted some system more open to objection, while, securing employments for those who are willing to work, and also provide that statutory disabilities.

I congratulate you on having completed the arrangements for the opening of the new school year in the Falls, to which I have more than once before had cause to call your attention, and on the selection of a name for it which reflects credit upon the Queen and Her Most Gracious Majesty, while retaining the name of the old school.

I consider that this grant of natural phenomena I could have been compelled for the erection of new public buildings, and that we will do credit to the province, and I am able to assure you that the attention of the public will be directed to the same.

The honor of opening and proroguing this session has been to me an unexpected one. As my successor is about to assume the responsibilities of the office of legislator, and I desire to express my personal thanks to you all for your courtesy and courtesy of all your respective homes.

The Provincial Secretary then declared the Assembly prorogued, in accordance with His Honor's request.

An Indiana Cyclone.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 21.—On Friday night a tornado passed up White River, crossing the Evansville and Terre Haute Railroad at Hazelton, thirty-eight miles north of here, doing great damage, killing Jacob Ladd, a fiddler, and Sam Soltz, a blacksmith, who fell under a barn, and fatally injuring another man. The small village of West Evansville Vista was completely leveled, only two houses remaining uninjured.

MINUTE DESPATCHES.

Brief, Intersections, and From All Parts of the World.

The steamer Northern Light has escaped from the ice jam off Pictou and reached Georgetown.

Officer J. R. McMahon, wounded in the hay market ride a year ago at Chicago, is in a critical condition.

The reports of dissection between the king and queen of Savoia are officially declared to be untrue.

The Ghizlais have defeated the Amer's troops and killed a hundred of them at Balo Castle near Khela.

It is announced that Y. B. Stevens, chief clerk of the Empire fast freightline, in Cleveland, Ohio, is a defaulter.

There were a large number of unsuccessful students this year, as the exams were still. Some three or four in the final class are among the slain.

A torn and ragged remnant of some student's tattered coat at half-mast on the university flag staff to-day, in mourning, no doubt, for the plucked ones.

Copies of the last number of the Vie Parisienne have been confiscated in Berlin on account of an illustrated article ridiculing the German imperial family.

It has been decided to petition against the election of Mr. Allsopp, conservative, as member of parliament for Taunton on the ground of bribery and corruption.

Among the immigrants arriving at Winnipeg on Friday was a large number of Dakota and Minnesota farmers, who have bid farewell to Uncle Sam's dominions and will take up land in Manitoba.

The St. Louis Republican's correspondent at Washington asserts that at least one member of the cabinet has said again and again recently that the president neither wanted nor would accept a nomination.

The New York Post's Washington despatch says there are indications that non-intercourse with Canada will be proclaimed and that a joint commission will be appointed to adjust the matter in dispute.

Fred. W. Garvin, secretary of the Toronto lacrosse club, is not at all satisfied with the explanation given by the Montreal Gazette regarding their article insinuating that he had descended to the mean trick of altering private correspondence and then publishing the same. He will enter suit unless an apology and a retraction are made.

A man who lived four miles of Remsen, N. Y., died a few days since, and the death was impossible on account of the recent thaw. The friends kept the body in the house ten days, and then were obliged to put the coffin on two tandem hand-sleds and draw it to the cemetery by hand. The Ogdensburg Journal says that the sleighing in that portion of the country was good last Saturday, and will be for several days to come.

Hundreds of people weekly extol Willson's cough balsam. We really believe it to be the best chest reliever ever sold. It is truly a "long cure" and should be kept in every household. Only sold at the pharmacy.
