Aver's Hair Vigor keeps the hair soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, causes it to grow luxuriantly, eradicates Dandruff, cures all scalp diseases, and is the most cleanly of all hair preparations.

AYER'S Hair Vigor has given me nearly bald for six years, during which time I used many bair preparations, but without success.- Indeed, what little hair I had, was grewing thinner, until I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. I used two bottles of the Vigor, and my head is now well covered with a new growth of hair. - Judson-B. Chapel, Peabody, Mass.

In the report of an interview between Secreta, y of State Bayard and Sir Charles Tupper at Washington Mr. Bayard is brown credited with the statement that, after a careful analysis of the whole case, he thought a settlement of the fishery quesstion could only be effected upon the asks her lover most often is: "Do you basis of reciprocity of trade between Canada and the United States, M. Bayard further said that neither the United States government nor the United States senate would have any thing to do with partial or limited reciprocity. He thought, however, that he could promise commercial union, and he could say also that if commercial union were brought about the American people would not allow Canada to suffer through the loss of revenue on imported goods that would necessarily follow, but would be prepared to treat her in the most generous and liberal spirit, up whatever defimight arise from that Commercial union, in opinion, was the only device by which a final and mutally satisfactory settlement Carpets ! of the fishery difficulty could be made. Sir Charles Tupper denies the accuracy of the interview, characterizing it as in almost every respect the reverse of correct. The report, however, was dated at Washington, and is doubtless an expression of American opinion upon the subjects dealt with. It is evident that a certain class of Americans are anxious for commercial union, and knowing that our American cousins never lose sight of the main chance, we may well examine their motives. What the Americans desire is may be in a position to do our manu-

With unreatricted trade between the two countries. the immense manufacturing establish ments of the Eastern States, with all the advantage that large capital land unequalled facilities for turning out goods on an extensive scale gives them, would become active competitors with Canadian manufacturers in the home market, and our young industries would be crushed And would the Canadian farmer be

The farmers of Canada are now as well off as attenuated by Mr. Mills. their fellow agriculturists in the United States. A paragraph of a report of the Wathington Department of agriculture respecting the progress of New York state rays: "On the whole, farmers are more in debt than they were ten years ago. Probably one third of the farms in the state would not sell for more than the cost of the buildings and other improvements owing to this shrinkage." The farme s of New York state have enjoyed the blessing, of free trade with all the other fully prospered because of that fact. The far ners and manufacturers of this country are equally interested in its prospecty. Diversified industry is calculated to promote that prosperity. Canadian farmers are better off to-day with a multiplicity of manufactures carried on in the count, than they were when Canadian industries were few in number and, under a low tariff, the Americans made of Canada a slaughter market. One of our largest exports to the United States is that of barley, and the Americans buy our barley and, to a great extent, pay the duty; because of the superiority of the Canadian grain. Were commercial union to become a fact, our farmers would not receive a larger price for their barley, but the grain would cost the American brewer less money. Canadian farmers cannot expect to sell food supplies to a people who already have a surplus of such products, and they would do well to hold fast to their home markets.
