A Very Bad Boy, Yesterday merning there appeared he police court, a small lad, only eight years of age, who was charged with the sreepy of a pair of socks from a clothes ino. He is the son of respectable parents, and owing to his youth the Magistrate thought that he was not responsible for what he had done. The charge was proven, but the magistrate allowed him to go, intending to hold sentence over him. This morning the lad again appeared in court, charged with stealing a number of cigars from the store of Robert Baker. Officer McCulloogharrested him and placed him in the cells. Mr. Baker was in the rear of the store, when hearing a noise in front, he discovered the boy in the shop, California Bartlett Pears, and at the same time noticed that his elgar boxes were disarranged. Searching his pockets over fifty cigars were found, after which the constable tock him into custody. Kingston, in Kingston. | which was written up to simost the end of Oatober, he had no papers remaining The diary was continued in two books, and contained for the most part prayers and long comments.

During a long conversation on prominent characters of the rebellion of 1885 Father Andre passed his opinion upon some of the most prominent. Michael Dreon will hold down third base for Damais, he said, had no influence amongst the halfbreeds, and was a man of very James Little the first baseman of the little account, and as for Maxime Lepine, Park Nine, broke the little finger of Lin, he knew him to be a very faint hearted fellow, and on the authority of several witnesses stated that at the Fish Creek badger and wept copiously, never firing a shot the whole day, After the fight he was conspicuous by his I ud talk Gabriel Belleville to morrow morning. A train Dumont was also rather inclined to show the white feather, and was credited with rived for the halfbreeds, who were hemmed in by the troops, he clined- to return to the fight After the Batoche fight, when Dumont was making for the boundary line, he was told that Louis Riel was at a house about three miles away, and esked to take him with him as it would be a sure means escape for the rebel leader but with shrug of his shoulders Gabriel reglice "What do I want with Louis Riel " and left him to his fate.

The Atlanta's Gups. Washington, Aug. 2 - The naval board | Cloths, to a rive in a few weeks. report yesterday made a detailed report relative to the Atlanta. It states that no serious deficiencies were found in her guns proper. There was some sticking in the breach plugs of some guns and a giving way in screws and clips. Some of the smaller guns could not b moved with facility, and the line of sight was sometimes obstructed. Some of down arrangements. When some of the guns are fired, the crewa of others can not 001001-300-516 3 remain at their posts because of the blast, ranged to obviate this trouble. Secretary Whitney says the defects reported by the board, and the damages sustained by the ship are trifling as compared with those rumored to have been discovered, and that they are such as can te easily and speedily remedied.
