The Daily News.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 23.

On the seventeenth instant the last spike was driven in the Canada Pacific Railway branch between Lake Superior and Winnipeg, and by this time the line is probably open for traffic. The vigour of the Government in pushing the work through rapidly has been seconded by the energy of the contractors, Messrs Manning, McDonald & Co., who have left nothing undone to complete the section at the earliest possible moment. The event is one of great importance to the people of Canada, as it opens a new route to two lands in the North West and saves us the necessity of using the American railways The competition between the two will not only lead to the supplying of ample accomodation for traffic, but will also prevent the charging of unreasonable freight rates which are said to have been exacted on the Northern Pacific railroad and connections had a monopoly. The promptitude with which this branch of the great interconomic link has been put in operation will undoubtedly be considered a token of the determination of the Government to end the period of hesitation and delay and to make this dream a reality within a few short years.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT.

The Toronto World announces that the ex-Finance Minister has decided to retire from public life, and gives as the reason for believing that the World is rightly informed. It also says truly that the Liberal party want no more of his company, regarding him as a dead weight; we have had such sentiments repeated to us by Reformers in this city. But, when our contemporary proceeds to say that "the abuse heaped upon Sir Richard by the Conservative press is the outcome of mere venom" it sacrifices the truth to an anxiety to make a point against party journals. It is undoubtedly true that the ex-Finance Minister is not much loved by his political opponents, but his political friends are little warmer in their feelings towards him. And, why, we may ask, should "Tory venom" find a more congenial object in Sir Richard than in other leading Grits? Why should Mackenzie, Blake, and others be esteemed in a more kindly light than their late colleague? The truth is that since his desertion from Sir John Macdonald, the defeated knight has seemed to be the embodiment of envy, hatred, malice, and all unchartitableness. His attacks upon the leader whom he abandoned have been marked by extreme bitterness; his controversial style per has always been in a white heat; generosity or chivalry, have not entered into his conduct or manner in the slightest degree. We would advise the World to read up his speeches in 1873 and the following sessions of Parliament, and if it does not find sufficient there to explain his unpopularity, let it recall the fierce malignity of the declaration in 1876 that he had "driven the last nail in John A's political coffin." Sir Richard has always been keen, clever, and strenuous, but he got hold of the wrong corpse when he waked up Sir John Macdonald, and he is now paying a just penalty for his political sins and his public manner. Sir John stands high in the hearts of the people of Canada; his grateful admirers have handsomely elected him in two constituencies; his interest for has been left without a seat, and with little prospect of securing one.

THE USES OF ADVERSITY.

The result of the general elections has been decidedly unfavorable to the Reform party, but it remains with them to decide whether they will turn that result into a calamity or not. When the following year John Macdonald were routed in 1873, when that statesman went down before a storm of obloquy and fortunes engendered, inspired by false cries, the equanimity and unbroken spirit with which he deported himself show that he might have borne the motto of Warren Hastings, "mens aequa in arduis." The good nature and sincerity with which he aided the Government by his suggestions, and the temper and cheerfulness with which he headed what appeared to most people a forlorn hope, were a sight for the gods. It is now in Mr Blake's power to assume even a more commanding position, and to win laurels for himself by his bearing under defeat and discredit. "Sweet are the uses of adversity," it is a touchstone which tries a man's virtue as much as the height of prosperity, and it enables a politician, who aims at being considered a statesman, to show that he is that "just man, tenacious of his purpose," who refuses to bend before any storm, and refuses to sacrifice one tithe of principle for the sake of popularity. Such men may triumph temporarily, but time avenges them.

The duty of the hour with the Reform party is to adhere to its free trade principles, to show that its opposition to protection was not merely factious, but patriotic, to show that the welfare of the country is its guiding star. If it be otherwise, if Reformers show that they take up theories and cross for political purposes, and that they daily with principles for minister ends, they lose all title to respect as a party, they cannot political suicide, they destroy all moral grounds for appealing to the electorate for support. It is true that weakness and vacillation have already been observable in the conduct of their leader, and that many of their public men and representative journals have compromised their position and changed front in the presence of the enemy, but there still remains an opportunity to retrieve this mistake, since the Globe, and with it such men as Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr Mackenzie, has consistently preserved its position and consistently stuck to its advocacy of free trade.

The Montreal Witness, another unwavering champion of free trade, advises the establishment of free trade clubs throughout Canada and "the intelligent indoctrination of the people in the elements of political economy."

It is only politicians of such a firm temper as this, only those whose principles are inscribed with the motto "No surrender," who are worthy of any consideration or respect.

ELECTION RETURNS.

Since our last issue we have received further returns of the elections which slightly alter the appearance of affairs. In West Ontario, Wheler, Grit, has been elected. In Lothiniere, Rinfret, Grit, replaces Ross Conservative, and in Portneuf, Dr. De St. Georges, Grit, replaces Vallee, Conservative. In Lanesborg N.S., the old member, Kaulbach, Conservative, replaces Keefer, Grit, and in Queen's P.E.I. Brecken, Conservative, ship, and is awaiting the arrival of the Empress of Britain to proceed to sea.

For Eastern Ontario the returning organ of great activity and exhilaration at the continued triumph of the Liberals. The results of Eastern Ontario constitute a unmitigated rout, records are thronging the departing ships. Two large French Canadian steamers arrived in Quebec on the refugees. The commission to inquire into the massacre was dissolved yesterday on account of its negligence and incapacity. The Irish commissioners is not much better.

ANNEXATION AGITATION.

Last night while I was walking in the square Arabi drove past, the head playing a fife and drum. As he passed me an Arab put two fingers against me, kicking me severely in the leg and hurting me. Every other Arab was out of sight before I could do anything. This outrages the present position of Europeans here, and I have applied to the Consuls with the new Ministry. It is generally believed that if the Khedive goes to Cairo I will be murdered.

Nor is that all. Those made a declaration touching the basis of the settlement of the House of Commons this afternoon similar to that of Lord Dufferin.

French Paris has received a telegram from the Nationalists saying how to endeavour to subscribe Arabi Pasha's defence fund. The standing order for the first sitting of the conference, and stating that Arabi Pasha is satisfied with the attitude of Arabi. All political Arabs will decline to go. The Sultan has issued a proclamation declaring Arabi and his associates to be rebels, and promising to confirm the settlement arrived at by the conference.

The rumours of troubles in the British Army, and of reference to intervention in Egyptian affairs, are false, and are artificial to stock speculators.

An Alexandria correspondent telegraphs that he is informed on the best authority that the Khedive's England Prefect interferes actively in Egyptian affairs, and is backing up the Suez Canal, and the railway to Cairo, and opposes the late arrangements with the Arabs in Abyssinia. It believe, he will cause to the desert, whose he pay, and the support of 30,000 Bedouins partisans of Prince Hamin. The Egyptian Ministry are prepared to sanction the action of the Khedive if successful.

Alexandria, June 23.—Brothers Watson and Harvey have returned safely from Arabi. All the Americans, except the family of Iron Master, are leaving or are in safety. The steamer of the Messageries Maritimes has left for Liverpool. The British Admiral is in favour of the Government, but the landing of the troops at Alexandria. The Egyptians are showing signs of great anxiety and consternation at the arrival of the fleet. The arrival of warships at the landing stages of great anxiety and consternation at the arrival of warships. The sanction of fugitives continues. Many are thronging the departing ships. The commission to enquire into the massacre was dissolved on account of negligence and incapacity. The Irish commissioners is not much better.

$40,000 In a Cave.

J. B. Critchfield, a trusted correspondent, writing to the Republican from Gallipolis, says: "Mr. H. K. Spilker, a prominent merchant of Gallipolis, and Major W. S. Mundy, while exploring the cave recently discovered on the farm of Colonel Isaac Alexander, which for the last five years has been the rendezvous of the James brothers gang of outlaws, discovered a large flat rock in one of the chambers, and thinking some of the secrets of the gang might be hidden away under it, removed it with great difficulty. Upon doing so, to their astonishment, a large cast iron soap kettle, filled with specie and jewels of various kinds, met their view. They could hardly believe their senses, but immediately managed to examine the treasure and found that there was over $40,000 in specie, besides numerous gold watches, rings, diamonds and other jewelry of great value. Major Mundy guarded the great treasure while Mr Spurers hastened to Gallatin, and securing his team, got the valuable stuff as soon as possible to the cave. They placed the kettle and its contents in the wagon and drove rapidly to Gallatin, where at once deposited their treasure in the vaults of the Summer Deposit Company. The greatest excitement prevailed and the Sumner guards have been ordered to the cave to prevent a hungry horde of curiosity hunters and true save workers from completely ransacking it.

"This is the second find of valuables found in the cave since the death of Jesse James. Large quantities of watches have been found and thrown by Colonel Alexander, and it is only by the most strenuous efforts that the greater contents are spared from such acts of carelessness of the great hunter."

The above is the portion of the jewelry in its original form as they left the premises, and it is evident the addresses of many jewelers throughout the West, and also a few in the East. A watch bears the inscription of Jno. Greer, Natchez Miss., and a pair of bracelets are marked Mrs W. J. Johnston, Natchez, Miss. Other articles are marked in full and will be returned to the owners, provided they can be found and can prove their property. Colonel Alexander has already spent a great many of the former lot to several parties in various portions of the United States. Further exploration will be made as soon as possible, and other valuables may still be hidden in the cave.—St. Louis Republican.

Putnam's Safety.

Washington, June 23.—Lieut. Danenhower thinks that Master Putnam who left the ship on the ice on the 20th in St Lawrence Bay may have reached St. Lawrence Island and have found safety and chance of escaping alive. Danenhower wants a revenue cutter sent after Putnam. At the Navy Department the opinion is expressed that a search for him would be fruitless.

At an artesian well sunk near St. Bernard, Ohio, the flow is 90 gallons per minute and that amount of water contains a bushel of salt.

General Lynch, of Lima, Peru, has published a decree silencing the Peruvian press and suspending "La Situation," a Chilian paper. None but Chilians are allowed to engage in the publication of newspapers.

EGYPT'S EMBROGLIO.

The Situation Critical—Reinforcements Constantly Arriving

Alexandria, June 22.—The British admiral is making disposition supporting the landing of troops at Alexandria. The European residents which will receive ample notice to clear in the event of matters getting warm. May 1 Malak, a British officer of the intelligence department, who recently made a visit to the interior of the country, has arrived on board the Admiralty ship, and is awaiting the arrival of the Empress of Britain to proceed to sea.

HAMILTON FATALITIES.

Fatal Accident on the G. W. R.—The Forbes Matter.

Hamilton, June 22.—A terrible accident occurred here this evening on the Great Western Railway. No. 5 St. Louis express from the east, due here at 11.30, was five minutes late, and running fast to make up time, when near the city, opposite Sawyer's works, the train ran off the track, and ran on open switch, on which were standing six freight cars, into which the passenger train dashed. The engine and baggage and express cars were ditched and badly wrecked, and two freight cars were smashed to splinters. John Bradley, of London, engineer, jumped from his engine after putting on the brakes, but too late, and was struck by falling timbers, and killed, and died in two hours. He leaves a widow and five children, and was forty-five years of age, having been twenty-five years on the road. Thomas Bell, of London, the fireman, jumped just before the engineer, and escaped with a slight bruise on his forehead. No passengers were hurt. The wreck was cleared away, and a train sent east in an hour and a half. A train was also made up, and the passengers, mail, and express, on the wrecked train sent west within an hour and a half after the accident. An inquest was held by Coroner Woolverton this afternoon. The jury viewed the body and the wreck, and the inquest was adjourned till Monday. A man who has not been identified, and who is believed to be a tramp, was killed instantly. Harvey Forbes, who was arrested on the charge of murdering and burning several times in giving her testimony. The case was adjourned till to-morrow. Ralston was arrested for the murder to-day. Mrs Mrs Forbes will be buried by her father to-morrow.

Last night some miscreants got into the Nautilus boat-house and cut the fourteen shell with a knife, and then tore a number of cushions out of the single shell, and a lapstreak were also cut.

Tidal Wave on Lake Erie

Cleveland, Ohio, June 23.—A tidal wave two miles wide and eleven feet high swept the lake on front of here this morning, the same in the wake of a dense, angry looking, black and grey cloud, which moved from the northward over the city. There was a rush for land, which moved from the northward over the city. There was a rush for land, but no one, on the lake shore. Some ran full and the wind fell and the waves subsided. Vessels parted their lines at the moorings. The tug Hecla was ordered to Egypt, and will reinforce the ship guarding the Suez canal. Haunted Me

A workingman says "Debt, poverty and suffering haunted me for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did no good. I was completely discouraged until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you need not keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost."—Christian Advocate.
