Mr Schrob, the presentor, who used to lead the western cattle in droves during the recent campaign, was down on the robbers of Ontario. He is taking a rest now as clerk in the statistics department of the Ontario Government.

The resignation of Mr Bright, which has been accepted by the Premier, is probably due to the decided measure taken by King and in Egypt. Mr Bright believes that when England is struck on one cheek she would carry the other to the offender's face. It is not calculated to be successful.

The achievements of science in the century are fast making old things new. Scientific men foresee that during the development of Alexandria a telephone was about to be established in Malta, and the booming of the cannon in Egypt was likely to be heard in England.

As Mr Cowdray has recently shown, there is a tendency on the part of the United States Government to lavish expenditure. The pension list for the year which has a magnificent historical setting already amounts to $100,000,000, and now $30,000,000 is to be voted for the improvements of rivers and harbours. The government takes advantage of a surplus to throw away millions, and a half of taxes in a year, and then launch into extravagance.

The offer made ten years ago by the Dominion Government to refer the question of the boundaries of Ontario to the decision of the Privy Council is still open for the acceptance of the Ontario Government, but, as no disposition to consult has been shown by that government, the Dominion advises us to have delayed to have the matter settled, in spite of the delay of Mr Mowat and his friends, by bringing it before the courts of the province in the first instance. If this it may be carried, if necessary, to the Privy Council. The Hon John Hamilton, late Postmaster General, has been entrusted with the conduct of the case.

The Toronto Telegram is indignant that we should be asked to believe that England has entered into the eastern conflict in a righteous cause. The Telegram should calm its troubled feelings, though everyone else may hold this belief in question, for the temporary is not asked to share it for more than a day, it always has the privilege of changing its views as often as the editor changes his coat. We might point out to the Telegram that its sympathy for the national aspirations of the Egyptians is tardily wasted. The Egyptians manage their themselves and they know it, the European control introduced economy in the place of extravagance and produced comparative prosperity, and the ascendancy of England is not likely to be more oppressive than that of the Turks

One of the Buffalo papers confesses the following advertisement out from the London Advertiser:

"At the Salvation Barracks at the Starting Block, York street Budge will hold a salvation meeting, Sunday, July 9th, at 3 o'clock for knee drill. A large crowd expected. All Christians invited. Grand parade at 10 a.m. from the rink to the market. Come and see the salvation soldiers. At 11 a.m. grand Hosanna meeting on the rink. Hearty sing on the market at 4-45 p.m. A general engagement with the enemy expected. In the rink, at 7.40, glory fish will speak for half. Several other subscriptions have been expected to figure on the night. Do stand up with a glory halleluiah. Come and get there early or you won't get a seat."

It is to be presumed that those who consider themselves on the Salvation Army side have determined not to be outdone in novel and attractive advertising, by negro minstrel troupe, nor to leave the Imperial to monopolize the habit of talking with freely about sacred things.

It is wonderful what a national gossip the English are. Their journals and politicians are always deploring the disorganization of the army, the uselessness of the navy, and the feebleness of British power. Admiral Lord Dunsany considers the navy unserviceable, Lord Henry Lennox pronounces it contemptible, and Capt Sarsfield has declared it to be annihilable. Yet the £10,000,000 have been expended upon it this year, it comprises the most superb ships, and land armament might be improved, and when brought into action if accomplished its task with marvellous skill and success. Then the army estimate of £16,000,000 sterling, the maintenance of a regular army of 135,000 men, and beside these there are reserves and volunteers amounting, it is said, to 400,000 an Indian army of 150,000 men, and colonial volunteers who could be had if necessary.

"All men are free and equal, but this circumstance alone not stand them much in stead during life — the land of liberty does not always. While was travelling from Albanta to Savannah he took three berths in a sleeping car, one of which was meant for his wife and baby. After considering this, he went to give up one of the tickets and take back the money. He refused to do that, and the clerk informed the porter of the sleeping car, whose duty it was to collect the tickets of the company. He, deeming that argument would be in vain, went quietly to the negro and demanded that the latter should be put through Jonesborough, and he added, if the people of Jonesborough find a negro in a sleeping car, they will undoubtedly mob him shortly after. The astonishment of the author of Mr Wilde had retired from the sleeping car, and the agent returned the ticket and got back his money.

A number of Indiana journals have been writing nonsense since the elections about the Globe being a heavy burden for the party to carry. There are some reports in which the leading organ does serious injury to the cause, for instance, its vindictive effort to blacken the character of Sir Charles Tupper, which naturally alienates moderate people who are lovers of fairness. But, we are afraid that it is not such blemishes as this which excites the indignation of the lesser lights, it is rather the matters concerning of commercial union, such as the Globe's consistent adherence to free trade, that are least appreciated. In such matters both journals and statesmen can afford to brave temporary unpopularity with those who are ready to take up any cry or any position for the sake of apparent advantage. The man with courage to say, whether these be right or wrong, commands the respect of friend and foe, and eventually achieves success. Home we think that the extreme critics and assailants of Mr Blake setting his wants in the future and putting weight with the public in the past, will be disappointed with the result.
