I here is an unseen battlefield, In every human breast,

Where two opposing forces meet And where they seldom rest. That field is weil'd from mortal night,

One army clusters strong and fierce, Their chief of demon form; Mis brow is like the thunder cloud, His voice the bursting storm.

His captains, Pride, and Lust, and Hate, Whose troops watch night and day, Swift to detect the weakest point, And thirsting for the fray. Contending with this mighty force

And glowing on his naked breast,

Of countenance serene;

A simple cross is seen.

His captains, Faith, and Hope, and Love, Point to that wondrous sign; And gazing on it, all receive Strength from a source divine.

They feel it speaks a glorious truth, A truth as great as sure, That to be victors they must learn To love, confide, endure. That faith sublime in wildest strife

For every deadly blow a shield, For overy wound a balm. And when they win that battlefield Past toil is quite forgot; The place where carnage once had reign

Becomes a hallowed spot.

Imparts a holy calm;

A spot where flowers of joy and peace Spring from the fertile sod, And breathe the perfume of their praise Un every breeze to God.
