has an annual sale, the 1st of June, and the largest merchants on the continent in tend it. The plan he adepts is most simpie, and is sure to scentre a fair price without open competition. The fure are valued in one lot by the merchants, and the sale is by sealed tender, and the lot goes to the highest tender without further competition. The sale this year amounted to the handsome sum of ten thousand three bandred and fifty-two dollars, seventy cents, and the purchasers were J. C. Mayers & Son, New York. By this system of tendering the purchasers have but one chance, and that each competitor was eareful to offer a fair value, the following will show :
