THE RECIPROCITY QUESTION.

How far Mr. Derby's report on the Reci procity Treaty expresses the opin Secretary McCulloch is a point which it i the Secretary of the Treasury had it in charge to examine the subject and report thereon. In doing so, he would be Treasury and in would not be at all suring to the Provincial delegates propositions prising if that fundtionary had been makwhich differ very considerably from these. However that it may be, this report ens a new vein of discussion. The firs proposition contained in the digest which has reached us is to extend by bill the March, the day it would otherwise expire. But the proposition is something very different from an extension pure and simple It is clogged with conditions which would vention. In the first place, Canada is askcars, locomotives, vehicles of all kinds. machinery, furniture, tools, implements soap, starch, boots, shoes, leather, horseshors and horseshoe nails, harness, tacks, brads, watches, music and musical instroments, clocks, tin and wooden ware, musin delaine, coarse shawls, satinets and sheeting and shirtings, worth less than one dollar a pound." We need not entire repeal of duties on these articles; for it is but of the question to think of last? Nothing of the kind. These revenues proposition : Can we afford to dispense [ what, then, in the name of common wonder, with the revenue which those articles | has any party to do with it, but those who yield, and would the extension of the actually belong to it?" treaty be worth not only this sacrifice but all the other concessions which the report seeks to exact? If it came to a pinch, there can scarcely be a doubt, we reduction or repeal of customs duties, gency. The other question can only be answered by taking all the propositions contained in the report together, and seeing whether they do not demand too great a sacrifice for what we should receive. But before pageeding to the consideration of tha question, it will be well to examine the propable effect of the proposed repeal of duties We are not told whether the remission of do ties on the articles named would be recipro cal, or whether it would be made by Canada alone, but we think the nature of the who
