HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE,

Critical Notices of the Press.

It is the foremost Magazine of the day. The fireside never had a more delightful companion, nor the million a more enterprising friend, than Harper's Magazine.—Methodist Protestant (Baltimore.)

The most popular Monthly in the world.—New York Observer.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellences of HARPER'S MAGAZINE—a journal with a monthly circulation of about 70,000 copies—in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as an evidence of the American People; and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each Number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good wood cuts; and it combines in itself the racy monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Tribune's Guide to American Literature, London.

The volumes bound constitute of themselves a library of miscellaneous reading such as can not be found in the same compass in any other publication that has come under our notice.—Boston Courier.

FLAX, HEMP, JUTE AND RHEEA FIBRE.

Prepared without Scoutching

BY

J. Hill Dickson's Patent Portable Machine

To be worked by
HAND, WATER, OR STEAM POWER.

117 Gt. Dover Road Boro, London.

THE advantages and economy gained in converting GREEN FLAX STRAW by Machinery, into Stronger and Finer fibre for being spun, on Cotton, Silk, Worsted, or Flax Spinning Machinery, than if retted by steeping in either Cold or Hot Water (which process frequently by over decomposition produces as much Tow, as long Fibre) arises from the following facts, respecting a system that avoids Tow and Waste.

1st.—The seed bolls or husks can be taken off in the field as the flax is pulled, by turning the side-projecting rollers that are upon the ends to permit of only about six inches of the top or seed ends, to pass down between them to break the seed bolls without crushing or injury to the seed, or taking off any portion of the fibre.

2nd.—The wood inside the fibre is so crushed and ground into dust when laid on the grate-like moving table, which admits of such stuff falling through, that whether the Flax Straw, Retted, in the usual way, the woody and dusty substance is entirely got rid of without scutching, and the reeds or (as it is called) hart of the fibres are so preserved from being broken into tow, that they appear like as many narrow ribbons. Flax spinners are certain to appreciate this great improvement in preparing, as no Tow or Waste can be seen, and as a consequence there is a gain of fully one-third more fibre from a given weight of flax straw than by any other invention or system known, see report of Messrs. Marshall & Co. of Partington & Leeds, taken from the Belfast Flax Society reports and copied at page 214 in the work of Dixon on the Fibre, Plants of India Flax, Hemp, &c., &c.

3rd.—The Flax and Hemp being when free from the wood, covered over with a natural Green Gum, is made perfectly soft and two-thirds White, by a simple run of Hot Water, as the fibre passes through in a few minutes, the washing part of the invention, and then wrung dry at the end, by this means the fibres are stronger and better adapted for the Flax Spinners than any retted flax, and the yarns from it will be nearly white without alkalies or acids to injure the strength, and ready for weaving without boiling.

4th.—If very fine quality be required for Cotton, Silk or Worsted spinning purposes, the cottonizing part of the Machine must be worked and the softening liquid applied and by such means flax equal to the best Courtrae, Flax at £100 £150 per ton can be produced, and practical instructions will be given to parties purchasing the machine by the Inventor and Patentee.
