son, and Howard Hill, and Charles Finney and other giants of soul reaping are resting from their almost supernatural labors, their doors thronged with converts just arrived, coming to report themselves.

But brilliant as the sunset, and like the leaves for number, are the celestial homes yet to be awarded, when Christ to you, and millions of others, shall divide the spoil. What do you want there? Take your choice on the banks of the river, in longer, wider, deeper roll than Danube, or Amazon, or Mississippi, if mingled in one, and emptying into the sea of glass, mingled with fire. Do you want your kindred back again? Go out and meet your father and mother without the staff or the stoup, and your children in a dance of immortality. Do you want a throat? Select it from the million burnished elevations. Do you want a crown? Pick it out of that mountain of diamonded coronets. Do you want your old church friends of earth around you? Begin to hum an old revival tune and they will flock from all quarters to revel with you in sacred reminiscence. All the earth for those who are here on earth at the time of continental and planetary distribution, and all the heavens for those who are there.

That heavenly distribution of spoils will be a surprise to many. Here enters heaven the soul of a man who took up a great deal of room on earth, but sacrificed little, and among his good works selfishness was evident. He just crowds through the shining gate, but it is a very tight squeeze, so that the doorkeeper has to pull away to get him in, and this man expects half heaven for his share of trophies, and he would like a monopoly of all his splendor and to purchase lots in the suburbs, so that he could get advantage from the growth of the city. Well, he had a little grace of heart, just enough to get him through, and to him is given a second hand crown, which one of the saints wore at the start, but exchanged for a brighter one as he went on from glory to glory. And he is put in an old house once occupied by an angel who was hurled out of heaven at the time of Satan's rebellion.

Right after him comes a soul that makes a great stir among the Celestials, and the angels rush to the scene, each bringing her a dazzling coronet. Who is she? Over what realm on earth was she queen? In what great Dusseldorf festival was she the cantatrice? Neither. She was an invalid who never left her room for twenty years; but she was strong in prayer, and she prayed down revival after revival, and pentecost after pentecost, upon the churches, and with her pale hands she knit many a mitten or tippet for the poor, and with her contrivances she added joy to many a holiday festival, and now, with those thin hands so strong for kindness, and with those white lips so strong for supplication, she has won coronation, and enthronement, and jubilee. And Christ says to the angels who have brought each a crown for the glorified invalid: "No, not these; they are not good enough. But in the jeweled vase at the right hand side of my throne there is one that I have been preparing for her many a year, and for her every pang I have set an anemist, and for her every good deed I have set a pearl. Fetch it now and fulfill the promise I gave her long ago in the sick room: 'Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown.'"

But notice that there is only one being in the universe who can and will distribute the trophies of earth and heaven. It is the divine ruler, the commander in chief of the centuries, the champion of the ages, the universal conqueror, the son of God, Jesus. You will take the spoils from his hand, or never take them at all. Have his friendship and you may defy all time and all eternity; but without it you were a pauper, though you had a universe at your command. We are told in Revelation that Jacob's twelve sons were so honored as to have the twelve gates of heaven named after them—over one gate of heaven Naphtali, over another gate of heaven Issachar, over another Dan, over another Gad, over another Zebulon, over another Judah, and so on. But Christ's name is written over all the gates, and on every panel of the gates, and have His help. His pardon, His intercession, His atonement I must, or be a forlorn wretch forever. My Lord and my God! make me and all who hear me this day, and all to whom these words shall come, be Thy repentant, believing, sworn, consecrated and ransomed followers forever.

What a day it will be! This entire assemblage would rise to your feet if you could realize it, the day in which Christ shall in fulfillment of my text divide the spoil. It was a great day when Queen Victoria, in the midst of the Crimean war, distributed medals to the soldiers who had come home sick and wounded. At the Horse Guards, in presence of the royal family, the injured men were carried in or came on crutches—Col. Trowbridge, who lost both feet at Inkerman; and Capt. Sayer, who had the ankle joint of his right leg shot off at Alma; and Capt. Currie, his disabled limb supported by a soldier, and others maimed and disfigured, and exhausted—and with her own hand the queen gave each the Crimean medal. And what triumphant days for these soldiers when, further on, they received the French medal with the imperial eagle, and the Turkish medal with its representation of four flags—France, Turkey, England and Sardinia—and beneath it a map of the Crimea spread over a gun wheel.

And what rewards are suggested to all readers of history by the mere mention of the Waterloo medal, and the Cape medal, and the Gold Cross medal, and the medal struck for bravery in our American war. But how insignificant all these compared with the day when the good soldiers of Jesus Christ shall come in out of the battles of this world, and in the presence of all the piled up glories of the redeemed and the unfallen, Jesus, our king, shall divide the spoil. The more wounds, the greater the inheritance. The longer the forced march, the more vivid the trophy. The more terrific the exhaustion, the more untrodden the transport. Not the gift of a brilliant ribbon, or a medal of brass or silver or gold, but a kingdom in which we are to reign for ever and ever. Mansions on the eternal hills, dominions of unfading power, empires of unending love, continents of everlasting light. Atlantic and Pacific oceans of billowing joy. It was a great day when Aurelian, the Roman emperor, came back from his victories. In the front of the procession were wild beasts from all lands, 1,000 gladiators richly clad, wagon loads of crowns presented by conquered cities; among the captives, Syrians, Egyptians, Goths, Vandals, Sarmatians, Franks; and Zenobia, the beautiful captive queen, on foot in chains of gold that a slave had to help her carry, and jewels under the weight of which she almost faints. And then came the chariot of Aurelian drawn by four elephants in gorgeous caparison and followed by the Roman senate and the Roman army, and from dawn till dark the procession was passing. Rome in all her history never saw anything more magnificent. But how much greater the day when our conqueror, Jesus, shall ride under the triumphal arches of heaven; his captives, hand or foot or in chariots, all the kingdoms of earth and heaven; in procession the armies celestial on white horses. Rumbling artillery of thunderbolts never again to be unlimbered. Kingdoms in line, centuries in line, saintly, heroic, seraphic, archangelic splendors in line, and Christ seated on one great rolling hosanna, made out of all hallelujahs of all worlds, shall cry halt! to the procession. And not forgetting even the humblest in all the reach of his omnipresence, he shall rise, and then and there, his work done and his glory consummated, proceed, amid an ecstasy such as neither mortal nor immortal ever imagined, to divide the spoil.
