POLITICAL INCIDENTS.

No Estimates Prepared General Business Suffering-Display at Quebec. Sir John Macdonald may succeed Sir

Charles Tupper as high commissioner to England. The Conservatives of Truro, N.S., have re-nominated Hon. A. W. McLelan for the house of commons. Sir Donald Smith has sailed from England his business being in connection with his candidaturefor Winnipeg. Thirty-six members of the Quebec legislature will take part in the opposition demonstration at Quebec on the 26th inst. Full returns from the district of Parry Sound give Mr. Armstrong, independent liberal candidate for the Ontario legislature, a majority of 101. The recount for the county of Glengarry sustains Mr. Rayside, the liberal candidate, for the provincial legislature. His majority is increased from 26 to 32. In Laprairie it is doubtful whether Mr. J. Tasse will face the music as Mr. Charlebois' close escape in the last contest is not at all reasuring.

Mr. James Taylor, a well educated native and halfbreed, is in the field for Lisgar as an independent. Goldwin Smith has gone to Lisgar, to try and boom his candidature.

The Manitoban, the government organ, Winnipeg, announces that the dominion parliament has been dissolved, and nominations are to take place on the 8th, polling on the 15th February.

The Globe says the business of the country is seriously disturbed by the uncertainty regarding the federal elections, and calls upon Lord Lansdowne to compel his ministers to announce their intention.

passed a resolution welcoming Sir Charles Tupper back to Canadian public life, and demanding a county convention which should request him to stand for Cumberland. Sir John Macdonald has tried to conciliate the French Canadian vote by creating Senator, Dr. Casgrain, of Essex county, the father of Mr. T. Chas. Casgrain, one of the crown counsel against Louis Riel. It would be surprising if the appointment was not very successful as a means of conciliation. A conservative politician, who has been visiting in every part of Nova Scotia, has today admitted that after a careful survey of the field the most favorable conservative indications are thirteen liberal and eight conservative Nova Scotian members in the the tories only five. There is not a department in the public service in which any steps have yet been taken to prepare the estimates for the next fiscal year. It is always customary to have the estimates completed before the first of the year, but in the present case nothing has been done. This fact in itself goes to show that there will not be another session of the present parliament. In case of defeat the government do not wish to leave their estimates for the information of their opponents.

THE KISSING HABIT.

A Queer Case Tried so Lately in a New York Divorce Court.

A very queer case, that of Pye versus Pye, was called in New York court. It was a divorce suit, and the evidence went to show the kissing habit is more easy to acquire and more difficult to shake off than the opium or cocaine habit.

From the evidence it appears that Mr. Tompkins, one of the boarders at the Pye mansion, drifted into the habit of kissing Mrs. Pye. In fact, it is very little exaggeration to say that he became a chronic Pyebiter. They became so brazen that their kisses were suggestive of the ringing of a patent gong. In the Pye family the kissing seems to have been almost as persistent and promiscuous as that to which the witnesses testified in the Beecher case.

Mr. Dempsey, who boarded at the Pye house, was put on the stand and examined by a lawyer. Lawyer-Did you ever see Tompkins kiss

Witness-Lots of times; and when I didn't see him I heard him. There was a plaintive, sobbing gurgle about it that reminded one of the exhaust of a bath tub. It could be heard all over the house." When did Tompkins kiss Mrs. Pye? Whenever he had a chance, but I noticed he didn't kiss her when he was down town. The only time when he didn't kiss her was when he was not there.

Who did kiss her then? I did, I liked her a little myself. O, you did, did you? Did not Mr. Pye object to you kissing his wife?

No. Why should he? I didn't object to his kissing her; why should he object to my kissing her? There was nothing objectionable about it; it was a mere friendly salutation.

Did you see Mrs. Pye kiss Mr. Pye? No, but she may have done so when none of us boarders were around. She is a sly

How did you come to kiss Mrs. Pye ? Put my arms around her neck and kissed her in the usual way. Did she ask you to do so?

Well, I noticed that no matter how many times she and Tompkins kissed before he went out, she never got enough to last until he came back, for as he opened the door they were at it again, so when he was away I kissed her, more as a matter of accommodation than anything else.

O, he was nowhere. That is enough. You can step down.

Where was Mr. Pye?

Jan. 6.

IN MEMORY Of Mr. Jacob Sharman, who died Dec. 31st, 1886, respected by all who knew him. Beloved father, thou art gone, No more to meet or greet us here;

But yet again we hope to meet In yonder bright celestial sphere. Dear father, thou from earth hast passed. Thy pilgrimage below is run; Still with submissive hearts we breathe And ery, 'O God, thy will be done.'

But then 'tis hard to give thee up. And lay thee in the ground so cold; "Tis hard to part and say "Good-bye," And leave thee in the grave to mould.

For thou hast been so kind and true, Our guardian in our tender years; And, when we think of all thy love. Our eyes are filled with briny tears. Dear father, we will miss thee here.

We'll miss thee from our hearth and home;

In that celestial world to come. Dear mother, too, she'll miss thee oft. No more she'll lean upon thy breast, Or journey with thee side by side To that resplendent land of rest.

But hope we'll meet thee over there,

O, yearning of our lowly hearts, To always dwell with thee above, While on their tablets are engraved Your many deeds and acts of love.

Dear father, tears are falling fast, How can we say a last farewell; How can we lay thee down beneath The damp cold earth with worms to dwell!

Farewell! Some day, dear father, dear, We'll meet, no more to say farewell; With hearts so sad, so full of grief, We cry "Farewell! father, farewell!"

Free Trade. The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the cousumers, as well as relieved the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving onefifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower, for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the German Syrup for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remai
