GREAT EXPRESS ROBBERY.

Leader in a Sensational Steal-And He Made a Handsome Haul.

JIM CUMMINGS.

On the 26th of October the country was startled by the news of a great robbery committed on the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad, fifty-three thousand dollars being taken from an express car near a Pacific Junction. Detectives were put on the track for the arrest of the men who had made such a splendid haul, and the day before Christmas Pinkerton agency captured at Chicago Fred Wittrock alias Jim Cummings.

His statement that he overpowered the express messenger, exculpating that person from a suspicion that he was in league with the robbers, is generally believed. The above picture of Wittrock is from a photograph of him taken in jail at St. Louis. Wittrock was doing business as the proprietor of a coal-yard and feed store in Chicago, and was greatly respected. The arrest of Wittrock, his wife and several men, including her brother, has resulted in the recovery of about fourteen thousand dollars. Mrs. Wittrock, gave up $450, and $1,900 were taken from a skirt she hadworn. Considerable money besides has been secured as the result of the arrests in Chicago and elsewhere.

Wittrock is of a most estimable family. His mother, a widow, went to Leavenworth some years ago, and with her three children has resided there ever since. While attending school Fred acted as carrier on a newspaper. After some years he became bookkeeper for a firm who were prison contractors. Becoming involved in a quarrel Wittrock drew a revolver and fired at his antagonist. He then became attached to a government surveying party that was at work on the Lower Mississippi and the jettles near New Orleans. He was addicted to gambling and won quite a sum of money before leaving the south. He went to Chicago in May, 1885, and engaged in the coal and wood business, the money, about $1.800, being furnished by his mother. FARMERS' UNION FORMED.

An Organization Established in Pittsburg -Vatious Matters Presented.

A meeting was held at Barriefield on the 27th inst. for the purpose of forming a farmers' union. Quite a number of gentlemen were present, and they seemed to be impressed with the necessity of forming an organization for the purpose of enabling farmers to combat the rings and monopolies which are constantly preying upon them. It is also intended that the union shall take up and discuss topics which are of interest to agriculturists, and ventilate any grievances which may be redressed by legislation. R. J. Dunlop was appointed chairman, D. Rodgers treasurer, and F. G. Brooks secretary pro tem. The general opinion of those present was that it would be advisable to amalgamate with some society or union already in existence, and the secretary was intructed to communicate with W. A. Macdonald, secretary of the dominion farmers' council, and procure copies of the constitution and by laws of that organization. Mr. Dunlop read an article from the Farmer's Advocate, setting forth the disadvantages under which farmers are laboring owing to combinations among buyers and manufacturers. H. Bawden made some observations upon the same subject, and indeavored to impress those present with the many advantages to be gained by united effort on the part of the farmers. R. Milton read a letter from a gentleman in Colorado describing a joint stock company, formed among the farmers in that state for the purpose of grinding their own wheat, the result of which was that they now receive ten per cent. more than they formerly did for their

A motion was made by Mr. Bawden and seconded by Mr. Sibbit, that Messrs. D. Rodgers, George Moore, R. Milton, R. J. Dunlop and the mover be a committee to visit the various school sections and hold meetings with the object of securing the cooperation of the farmers of the township. It was also moved by Mr. Bawden, and seconded by Mr. Milton, and adopted, that the membership fee be fifty cents per annum.

A communication was read from Mr. Shaneman proposing the formation of joint stock company for milling purposes. The matter was left for consideration at an adjourned meeting to be held in Barriefield on February 24th, at 2 o'clock p.m.

Breaking for Liberty.

Several days ago Thomas Davy and Gage Nelson, of Ernesttown, were arrested for stealing flour from a Napance baker. The police magistrate committed them for trial. Yesterday, while being taken from the gaol to the judge's chambers to be arraigned, they broke for liberty though handcuffed together. They had gone quite a distance when they were covered by the gaoler's revolver, and, in the confusion, stumbled and were recaptured. Deputy Sheriff Pruyn was in the city to-day and placed Davy in the penitentiary where he remains for five years. He was given a very heavy sentence because of his previous record. His comrade, Nelson, was given twenty-three months in the central prison.

BROADBRIMS LETTER.

THE USUAL WEEKLY BUDGET OF METROPOLITAN NEWS.

A Case Which is Exciting a Widespread Interest-The Fr. McGlynn Difficulty Not of Recent Date—He has Long Been Accustomed to Have His Way-Commotion Among Liquor Sellers.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 28.—Not in the memory of living men has the catholic church been awakened as it is now. It is rather a question of discipline and faith, but each party plants itself on the principle of absolute right, and it now looks as though nothing but a special interposition of providence can settle the vexed question. The trouble which has culminated in the silencing of Father McGlynn did not commence with Henry George. It dates back years ago, when Bishop Hughes was building up the catholic parochial schools, and Father McGlynn took a bold stand in favor of our common school system, maintaining that temporal and spiritual teaching should be separate. During his lifetime he differed on this subject from his eminence Cardinal McCloskey, but that excellent divine, knowing the worth and works of Father McGlynn, never thought of punishing him for his contumacy. No two men could be more different in character than Cardinal McCloskey and Archbishop Corrigan. Father McGlynn was a power in New York, beloved by thousands. Father McGlynn is not a rich priest. I doubt very much if he would have been rich if he had the wealth of the Vanderbilts and Jay Gould eombined. Charity never applied to him in vain; the poor were his constant companions; for them he labored, with them he worked, and he built St. Stephen's church ham street Methodist church to morrow. up from a poor weak congregation to be one | Rev. From this standpoint the rebellion is unheard of. Father Donnelly, the priest appointed to succeed Father McGlynn, walks into his priestly residence, and the housemaid won't make him a bed, the cook won't give him anything to eat, the porter won't light the fire, the choir refuse to sing, and the collectors refuse to gather the charitable alms of the worshippers. It looks as if there was an irrepressible conflict close at hand, which may lead to very serious re-

Next to the religious excitement comes the question of lager beer, and this too looks like a moral question, which may eventually come under the supervision of the church. They talk of reducing it to three cents a glass. This produces the wildest excitement in the saloons, and the "Rumseller's Protective Benevolent Association, has overwhelmed us with the frightful threatthat if the lager beer men persist in their well. His eldest sister is a teacher in the felonious purpose, they will within sixty | Sharbot Lake, $30.52; Wilmur, $56.89. What a view of paradise this promised reduction affords. To get respectably fuddled on ten cents and gloriously drunk on a quarter; to get your pocket pistol filled with double XX sour mash for fifteen cents, and a gallon of the real old stuff, warranted to knock you out on the first round, for a doller. I now begin to understand the true value of my American citizenship, and to realize that Elysium is not a dream nor Hesperides a fable. Whiskey at five cents ing officer for the commons election, has, a glass ! It won't bear thinking of. Shades by proclamation, named the following of John B. Gough and Father Matthew, what are we coming to ?

A shocking case is now before the courts of a mother who had her fourteen year old daughter arrested for vagrancy. It came out upon the trial that the wicked mother had sold her own child on the human shambles two years before, and for all that time had lived on the wages of her shame. This shocking revelation shakes our faith in our common humanity. The society for the prevention of cruelty to children has the case in hand, and it is to be hoped that the daughter may be rescued and the wicked mother punished. The toils close slowly around the boodle aldermen, and the infamous scoundrels who bought them. Will Billy Maloney, the man who divided the plunder, come back ! "Aye, there's the rub." If he tells what he knows, good-bye to the bribers. It's a hard necessity which makes such despicable rascals ministers of justice; but, we could not have landed McCabe in the states prison except for Duffy, and Jachne might still have been an alderman engaged in receiving stolen goods if it had not been for his fellow scoundrel, Waite. Most big fish are caught with smaller ones. We have not altegether got over our coal scare, though there is no scarcity, for one million and eight hundred thousand tons are all ready for shipment to this city, if any. body can be found to load it and carry it across the river. But over there two or three hundred strikers stand watch and ward they won't load the coal themselves, and they will prevent anybody else doing it if they can. Meanwhile thousands of poor people are suffering; they don't hurt the rich man with whom they profess to be at war; they suddenly raise the price of his product millions of dollars, but the poor man with whom they profess to have sympathy made to pay the piper. It is the poor who suffer by this coal strike. God help them in this bitter, frosty weather. To show the heartless tyranny of the strikers, a benevolent assembly-man, out of his salary of $2,500, gave $1,000 to the World to buy coal for the poor. The strikers were asked to unload it, and although it was to keep some of their own class from perishing they refused to do it. This act of theirs, striking at the poor and suffering when charity comes to their aid, deprives them of all sympathy from the public.

late been said by some of her most prominent preachers to be a very wicked city : but even supposing it only to be up to the general average that is certainly bad enough. But it is tolerably certain that the devil is not going to have it all his own way in Brooklyn, for Dr. Munhall is now conduct ing a revival at Dr. Talmage's tabernacle, and the harvest has been great. I do not know exactly how many have been converted, but on last Sunday between three and four hundred joined the church, and Dr. Talmage stated the church membership was nearly four thousand. It was a great day for the tabernacle, and Dr. Talmage said so, As I sat looking at his happy, ugly face, beaming with delight and satisfaction as he shook hands with the new lambs and welcomed them into the fold, and as I watched the windmill swing of his arms and listened to the hard, metallic, nasal sound of that terrible rasping voice, and then looked at the mighty congregation, I could not help recalling those beautiful lines with which my dear old mother sometimes rocked me to sleep long years ago:

"God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform."

By the way, New York is very much exercised just now at the recent news from the other side of the terrible evictions in Kerry. where poor people have been driven from homes, and in many cases the houses themselves have been leveled with the ground. This is terrible, but it may be news to the people throughout the country, that there is not a day in the week in this city, through all this bitter winter weather, that poor people are not thrown out on the sidewalk by cruel landlords because they cannot pay their rent. Our organized charities and individuals work constantly, but the field is too large for the harvesters. It was only on Saturday that I saw an eviction as cruel as any in Kerry, and the landlord was Irish as well as the tenants he evicted. On one occasion I saw a woman and her children thrown out upon the sidewalk, where they remained all night, huddled together; and on another, a couple of old women, the youngest over seventy, and they, too, spent the entire night upon the sidewalk. So that all the cruel evictions are not in Kerry .-BROADBRIM.

In addition to town and city councils, which have passed resolutions urging the government of the province to establish in Kingston a school of practical and applied science, in connection with Queen's university, the councils of the following counties have, this week, taken similar action: Prince Edward, Hastings, Lennox, Addington, Frontenac, Leeds, Grenville, Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry. In all cases the resolutions were passed unanimously, and a delegate or delegates appointed to co-operate with the deputation from Kingston. Probably other county councils will fall into line.
