and put them out of sight, and take down their pictures from the wall and put in the frame a harvest scene or some bright and gay spectacle? "Ah," you say, "if I should remove all these mementoes of my departed friends, that would not take away the killing pictures that are hanging in the gallery of my own heart." Well, if that does not help you, why do you not plunge into society and try to wash off in worldly gayeties all these assoilments of the soul? "Oh," you say, "I have tried that! but how can I hear other children laugh when my children are silent! How can I see other happy families when my own happy family is broken uph Trouble, trouble!" But doyou gain anything by brooding over your misfortunes, by sitting down in a dark room, by a comparison of the sweet past with the bitter present? "No; that makes things worse." But I have to tell you to-day that the Christ of all sympathy presents Himself. Is there anybody in this house that can get along without sympathy! I do not think I would live a day without it. And yet there are a great many who seem to get along without any divine sympathy. Their fortune in the counting room, or in the store, or in the insurance company, takes wings and flies away. They button up a penniless pocket. They sit down in penury where once they had affluence, and yet there is no Jesus to stand by them and say: "Oh, man, there are treasures that never fail, in banks that never break! I will take care of you. I own the cattle on a thousand hills, and you shall never want." They have no such do ine Saviour to say that to them. I do not know how they get along. Death comes to the nursery One voice less in the household. One less fountain of joy and laughter. Two hands less to be busy all day. Two feet less to bound through the hall Shadow after shadow following through that household, yet no Jesus to stand there and say: "I am the shepherd. That lamb is not lost I took it off the cold mountains. All's well." Oh, can you tell me the mystery? Can you solve it! Tell me how it is that men and women with aches, and pains, and sorrows, and losses, and exasperations, and bereavements, can get along without a sympathizing Christ! I cannot understand it.

But I come here to say this morning that if you really want divine sympathy you can have it. There are two or three passages of Scripture that throb with pity and kindness and love. "Cast thy burden on the Lord and he will sustain thee." "Come unto Me all ye who are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest." Oh, there are green pastures where the heavenly shepherd leads the sick and wounded of the flock! When all the other trees of the orchard fail, God has one tree of fruit for his dear children. Though the organ wails out its requiem, there comes afterward a song, a chant, an anthem, a battle march, a coronation, a victory. Do you not want the sympathy of Jesus! I offer it this morning to every man and woman in this house; you need him. Oh, how much you need him!

There was a chaplain in the army wounded unto death. While lying there on the field he heard at a great distance off some one crying out in great pain: "Oh, my God!" and he said to himself: "I am dying, but I think. perhaps, I could help that man. Although I can't walk, I'll just roll over to where he is." So he rolled over in his own blood, and rolled over the bodies of the slain, and rolled on until he came to where the other man was dying, and put, as it were, his wound against that wound, and his sorrow against that sorrow, and helped to alleviate it. And so it seems to me that Jesus Christ hears the groan of our sorrow, the groun of our poverty, the groan of our wretchedness and comes to the relief. He comes rolling over sin and sorrow to the place where we lie on the battlefield, and He puts over us the arm of His everlasting love; and I see that arm and hand are wounded, and as He puts that arm over us I can hear him say: "I have loved thee with an everlasting love." Oh, that you might feel this morning the power and condolence of a sympathizing Jesus'

Further, I remark The last great installment paid for our redemption was the demise of Christ. The world has seen many dark days. About fifteen summers ago there was a very dark day when the sun was eclipsed The fowl at noonday went to their perch, and we felt a gloom as we looked at the astronom ical wonder. It was a dark day in London. when the plague was at its height, and the dead with uncovered faces were taken in open carts and dumped in the trenches. It was a dark day when the earth opened and Lisbon sank, but the darkest day since the creation of the world was the day when the carnage of Calvary was enacted. It was about noon when the curtain began to be drawn It was not the coming on of a night that soothes and refreshes; it was the swinging of a great gloom all around the heavens. God hung it. As when there is a d- ad one in the house you bow the shutters or turn the lattice, so God in the afternoon shut the windows of the world. As it is appropriate to throw a black pall upon the coffin as it passes along, so it was appropriate that everything should be somber that day as the great hearse of the earth rolled on, bearing the corpse of the King.

A man's last hours are ordinarily kept sacred. However you may have hated or caricatured a man, when you hear he is dying silence puts its hand on your lips, and you would have a loathing for the man who could stand by a death bed making faces and scoffing. But Christ in his last hour cannot be left alone. What! pursuing him yet after so long a pursuit! You have been drinking his tears, do you want to drink his blood! They came up closely, so that, notwithstanding the darkness, they can glut their revenge with the contortions of his countenance. They examine his feet. They want to feel for themselves whether those feet are really spiked. They put out their hands and touch the spikes, and bring them back wet with blood, and wipe them on their garments.

Women stand there and weep, but can do no good. It is no place for tender-hearted women. It wants a heart that crime has turned into granite. The waves of man's batred and of hell's vengeance dash up against the mangled feet, and the hands of sin and pain and torture clutch for His holy heart. Had He not been thoroughly fastened to the cross they would have torn Him down and trampled Him with both feet. How the cavalry horses arched their necks and champed their bits, and reared and snuffed at the blood. Had a Roman officer called out for a light his voice would not have been heard in the tumult: but louder than the clash of the spears, and the wailing of womanhood, and the neighing of the chargers, and the bellowing of the cruciflers, there comes a voice crashing through, loud, clear, overwhelming, terrific. It is the groan of the dying son of God. Look! What a scene! Look, oh world, at what you have done! I lift the covering from that maltreated Christ to let you count the wounds and estimate the cost. Oh, when the nails went through Christ's right hand and Christ's left hand-that bought both your nands with all their power to work, and lift, and write. When the nail went through Christ's right foot and Christ's left foot-that bought your feet, with all their power to walk, or run, or climb. When the thorn went into Christ's temple-that bought your brain with all its power to think and plan. When the spear cleft Christ's side-that bought your heart with all its power to love, and repent, and pray. Oh, sinner, come back!

If a man is in no pain, if he is prospered, if he is well, and he asks you to come, you take your time and you say: "I can't come now, I'll come after a while. There is no haste.' But if he is in want and trouble you say: 'If must go right away. I must go now," To day Jesus stretches out before you two wounded hands, and He begs you to come Go and you live. Stay away and you die. Oh, that to Him who bought us, we might give all our time, and all our prayers, and all our success! I would ve could think of noth ing else, that we could do nothing else but come to Christ. He is so fair, He is so loving, He is so sympathizing, He is so good, 1 wish we could put our arms around lift neck and say: "Thine, Lord, will I' be for ever." Oh, that to-day you would begin to love

Him! Would that I could take this audience and wreathe it around the heart of my Lord

Jesus Christ.

When in 1865 the Atlantic cable was lost. do you remember that the Great Eastern and the Albany went out to find it! Thirty times they sank the grapple two and a half miles deep in the water. After awhile they found the cable and brought it to the surface. No sooner had it been brought to the surface than they lifted a shout of exultation, but the cable slipped back again into the water and was lost. Then for two weeks more they swept the sea with the grappling books, and at last they found the cable and brought it up in silence. They fastened it this time. Then with great excitement they took one end of the cable to the electricians' room to see if there were really any life in it, and when they saw a spark and knew that a message could be sent, then every hat was lifted, and the rockets flew and the guns sounded until all the vessels on the expedition knew the work was done, and the continents were lashed together. Well, my friends, Sabbath after Sabbath we have come searching down for your soul. We have swept the sea with the grappling hook of Christ's Gospel. Again and again we have thought you were at the surface, and began to rejoice over your redemption; but at the moment of our gladness you sank back again into the world and back again into sin. Today we come with this Gospel searching for your soul. We apply the cross of Christ first to see whether there is any life left in you, while all around the people stand, looking to see whether the work will be done, and the angels of God bend down and witness, and oh, if now we could see only one spark of love and hope and faith, we would send up a shout that would be heard on the battlements of heaven, and two worlds would keep jubilee because communication is open between Christ and the soul, and your nature that

From Symnes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hali, Simla, Jan. 5, 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir, - We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility we must question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bassars, and judging from their sale, we fancy that their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances "ad infinitum" of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhosa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Cholera, Diarrhosa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of the opinion that the substitution of of any other than Collis Browne's is a DELIBERATE BREACH OF PAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST, TO PRESCRIBER AND PATIENT ALIKS. We are, Sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharmacy Society of Great Britain,

His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION—Vice Chancellor Sir Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Brownews undoubtedly the inventor of Chlohodynk; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to. See "Times," July 13, 1864.
Sold in bottles at 1s, 1jd., 2s. 3d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr.
