THE FARMERS' UNION.

Meetings in the Township of Pittsburg—Some Good Addresses Made.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather there was no meeting held at No. 8 school house, Pittsburg, on last Tuesday evening. The farmers of No. 11 school section, Pittsburg, met on Thursday evening at the school house, and, although the weather was very disagreeable, and the roads in a bad condition, the attendance of farmers proved that they meant business in this movement. Mr. W. H. Franklin was called to the chair, and announced the presence of Messrs. R. J. Milton, D. Rogers, Jr., and H. Rawden, who would present reasons to the farmers of that vicinity why they should join the proposed union. Mr. H. Rawden was called upon to introduce the subject. He said that a recent speaker and writer of some note had made the remark that the agitation going on at the present day, among all who toil for a living and do not receive a fair and just proportion of the products of their toil, might be defined as a universal feeling of unrest seeking utterance. It was largely owing to this feeling that farmers were prompted to give expression to their views on subjects of vital importance to their industry. A great deal had been already written upon the subject of uniting farmers, and it was to the honor of this township that her sons should be the first to make an attempt to show how the farmer was oppressed and to point out the only practical way to remedy existing evils. Associations of all kinds were formed to advance the special trades of their members. The professions had their law and medical societies, and the industrial classes had their labor unions. The farmer only was isolated, through want of union, and in consequence was the prey of society and pack mule in general for everybody's burden. Then, again the farmers had no organization that was sufficiently strong to cope with the combinations that were made against them, and he trusted that those meetings would have the effect of awakening farmers to the necessity of devising and applying some plan of action which will result in general good to all classes. Mr. Rawden spoke on the subject of forestry at some length and showed that evils, which were the result of bad legislation, could only be remedied by an amendment of the statutes which created them.

Mr. R. J. Milton addressed the meeting on the subject of farmers' banks. He said that farmers were victims of money lenders and lawyers, and it was time the government gave the farmers relief from the burden of excessive interest. He showed how "cheap money" would make everything hum and benefit the farmer. He also showed how the eastern farmer was the victim of railroad combinations, and advised the farmers to unite and place an effective check upon the system. The discrimination of freight rates in favor of the western farmer was a bonus that was taken out of their pockets. It was time the Torrens land act was in general use; then lawyers could take Horace Greeley's advice and "go west." The combinations of grain dealers was a great drawback on their industry, and he would like to know how it was that Kingston was always about ten cents a bushel lower than the Toronto market, when we were nearer the great New York and Liverpool markets. It would be easy to import a buyer if they were united and thus put a stop to a monopoly which had existed in Kingston for a generation. A variety of topics could be discussed at their meetings, and he urged them to unite and be led no longer by prejudices which put nothing in their pockets. He gave a list of subjects for discussion and his remarks were well received.

Mr. D. Rogers, Jr., said they well knew that in "union was strength," and it was full time the farmers should unite. There were so many advantages of union already presented that it might be thought the ground had been covered; but the fact was that a much larger list of benefits to be derived from union could be made out. They might not only benefit in selling, but they might also benefit in buying. It was important to them that they should keep up the fertility of their lands, and if by combination they could purchase such artificial manures as salt and lime plaster, they might make something in that direction. It was very true that a "penny saved was a penny earned," and he felt that they were imposed on in many ways. He endorsed all that had been said by the previous speakers, and would like to see this union accomplished. He read some extracts from the address of the president of the dominion grange, which were well received.

Short addresses were made by Messrs. Gally, Donaldson, Agnew, Birmingham, Joyce and others, who all spoke favorably of the object in view. It was decided to hold no more section meetings until after the general meeting at the township hall, Barfield, on the 29th at 2 p.m. Any farmers in the surrounding townships who take an interest in this movement are invited to attend that meeting. A vote of thanks was passed to the chairman for kindly performing the duties of the position. Cheers were given for Rawden, Rogers, Milton and the chairman in that vicinity.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to the taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.

Lame back and nervous debility, associates ed with rheumatism, is sometimes met with in every day life, but as a rule we find not more than two of these complaints in the same party. Be this as it may. The only sure and perfect cure is electricity and the best form of administering it is by Norman's electric belts and insoles. W. J. Wilson is my agent and from him you can procure testimonials and circulars relating to any of your complaints. Try and be cured. W. J. Wilson, sole agent for Kingston.
