REBELLION IN BULGARIA.

It was Effectually Suppressed-Capture o the Leading Insurgents.

RUSTCHUK, March 4.—The commander at Silistria seized the government of the town on Monday last. Troops from here and from Rosgrad and Varna suppressed the revolt. With the exception of the killing of the commander the affair was bloodless. On Tuesday Major Ouzounoff, with a battalion of engineers, surrounded Rustchuk barracks, arrested all the officers, and proclaimed Metropolitan Clement regent of Bulgaria The inhabitants rose in arms against the insurgents. The fighting continued throughout Wednesday, when the insurgents attempted to retreat across the Danube, but, owing to a heavy fire, poured into them from the shore, they were compelled to abandon their boats and take refuge on an island, where they were finally captured. All the insurgents were found to be wounded. The authority of the regent is restored, and the whole town is rejoicing over the downfall of the rebels.

VIENNA, March 4. It is reported that the czar has convoked a council-of-war to consider the Bulgarian revolt.

VIENNA, March 4. - Advices say that notwithstanding that the rising in Silistria has been suppressed the position of the Bulgarian regency is critical. Pesth, March 4.—Count Kalnoky, speak ing before the budget committee of the Hungarian delegation yesterday, said that apart from the serious character of the Bulgarian question grave doubts as to the continuance of peace existed in countries that were scarcely concerned in Bulgaria. Putting aside unforeseen events the peace of Austria was not directly threatened, but all the states of Europe were arming, and the government was impelled by a sense of its responsibility, to place the country in a state complete preparation. The measures adopted were of a purely defensive character. The government had no reason to change its peaceful, conservative policy.

The European prospect is again black. To-day the worst news is that the whole force of the Austrian cavalry is massed on the Galician frontier. An experienced diplomatist gives his opinion, however, that war will not break this year. If Russia, he thinks, meant to attack this year, she would have begun earlier. The immediate danger is the Bulgarian revolution. If we escape that peace may yet be preserved.

Anarchy is spreading in Bulgaria. Sofia, March 4. - The leaders of the revolt at Rustchuk have been ordered to be BUCHARES, March 4.—Several persons were killed in fighting at Silistria, between the insurgents and loyal troops. Two officers and sixteen privates who were engaged in the revolt were captured and shot.

RESCUED FROM THE RUINS.

Kesults of the Earthquake-Building Huts for 7,000 Homeless People. ROME, March 4. - One person was excavated alive yesterday from the ruins at Diano-Marino, and a whole family was rescued from a cellar in Taggia. They had all been immured since the first shocks occur red. The engineers report that only a few houses are safe in Oneglia. It will be neces sary to build huts for the accommodation of 7,000 persons, rendered homeless by the earthquake.

CHARLESTON, S.C., March 4. A slight shock of earthquake was felt here at 2.15 this morning.

ROME, March 4. Continued trembles were felt throughout the Riveria to-day. NICE, March 4. - Another slight shock of earthquake has been felt here.

German Liberals Gaining.

Berlin, March 3. - The second ballots so far have been favorable to the german liberals, where thirteen were elected, including Her ren. Hickert, Schraden and Stauffenberg. Besides these there are elected five national liberals, four socialists, three centrists and one free conservative.

BERLIN, March 4. - At the first sitting of the new reichstag Von Moltke occupied the chair. He fixed the election of the president and vice-president for to-day, and the house adjourned.

Berlin, March 4. - Vossischezeitung, Boersen Courser, and Post, in their comments on the emperor's speech, say the vague reference to foreign relations is not likely to calm the public mind.

He Paid His License.

Isaac David, second-hand dealer, was some months ago charged with selling junk without a license. He did not intend to keep a second-hand store this year, but said he wanted time to sell off the goods he carried over from last year. His case was adjourned. To-day he appeared, and, having changed his mind, paid the license, $5, and the costs of the court, $2.35.

The Parson's Love Letter.

CHICAGO, March 4 .- A comic valentine was sent by a precocious Sunday school boy to Rev. John Miles, of the Baptist church. The valentine hurt the reverend gentleman's feelings so badly that he refused to officiate and, waving the unfortunate valentine over his head, hotly denounced the insult. He refuses to be comforted, and will resign.

Prospects Good For Burk.

TORONTO, March 4.—The latest returns last night gave Mr. Dawson, conservative, a majority of 131 in Algoma. Returns were, of course, not in from the Manitoulin Islands. A despatch from Sault Ste Marie states that Mr. Burk will have 250 majority in the islands, and it is not improvable that he will have sufficient to overcome the majority given Mr. Dawson elsewhere.

ORATORS CHOKED OFF.

THE NATIONALISTS HAD ANOTHER STORMY NIGHT OF IT.

They Threaten to Carry on the Plan of Campaign in Spite of the Government Bloodshed Talked of The Fire-eaters Finally Sat Upon. LONDON, March 3 .- Sir W. V. Harcourt writes to the Times to show that the tronbles in Ireland arise from the attempt of the government to enforce the payment of rents which their own land commission declared that the people are unable to pay. He quotes from the speeches of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, and other conservatives, made last year, in which it was admitted that if Parnell was able to prove all the premises of his tenants' bill the government would be bound to attempt to supply a remedy. "The land commission," says the writer, "proved Parnell to be in the right. Yet the government, instead of bringing a bill to deal with the judicial rents, proposed fresh coercion measures."

LONDON, March 4. - In the house of commons last night Mr. Dillon, commenting on the vote of $150,000 for the Irish police, said he was informed that the costs of the Woodford evictions amounted to $6,500, while the total amount in dispute between the landlord and tenants was only $125. No amount of expenditure would ever suppress the plan of campaign or the public meetings. He warned the government that the meetings would continue to be held in defiance of them, and if blood-shed should follow the shame and crime would be on the head of the government.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach contended that the expenditures for the Irish police were necessary in order to maintain order while agitators like Dillon and his friends incited the people to resist the law. The police expenditures were necessarily greater. The plan of campaign, for which Dillon was largely responsible, was a mere organized system of robbery. (Cheers.)

Mr. Dillon appealed to the chair, asking if the expression was justice, The chairman replied that the expression did not impute robbery to the member. Sir Michael, continuing, said that certain members of the Dublin jury recently refused to believe Dillon's own statement, admitting that he was concerned in the plan of campaign. The house was now told that convictions could never be secured. The government intended to ask parliament for such changes of the law as would make it possible to obtain convictions. (Conservative cheers and cries from the Irish benches of "Rightly or wrongly.") He protested against the doctrine of resistance to the law, preach ed by Dillon, namely that if the law were not altered as he (Dillon) and his associates chose to dictate, they would not obey it. Dillon's speech to-night afforded additional proof of the necessity of giving further powers to the government if law and order were to be restored in Ireland. (Conservative cheers.

Mr. J. O'Connor protested that the police had used violence at the meetings in Cork. where they had used their batons upon the

The chief secretary for Ireland said the meetings alluded to had been called to intimidate the jury, and the parnellites ought not to be surprised if something worse than batoning occurred.

The latter phrase caused an angry scene in which several parnellites accused the chief secretary of threatening an honorable member. This the chief secretary denied. The chair called upon Healy to withdraw objectionable language. Several members expressed their disapproval of the chief secretary's expression, which Healy, speak ing later, said could only mean that the government intended to substitute fire arms for batons. At a late hour the vote asked for the Irish police was agreed to, 246 to

A Change in Their Attitude.

London, March 4. - There is a beginning of a very important, say a vital change, in the political situation. In the first place the round table conference has taken a turn, more favourable than the most sanguine politicians on either side could have imagined. Mr. Chamberlain is so impressed with the prospects of liberal reunion that he has abstained from all support of the government in the rather critical divisions of the closure which are going on. More than this, there is very good ground for the statement that a home rule bill, proposed by Lord Salisbury and accepted by all parties, is a contingency by no means impossible. Such a measure is not likely to see the light this year, but next year something like the agreement of all parties which took place upon the question of the redistribution of seats may be realized. Lord Salisbury's change of front, if it is a change, results largely from the pressure of the unionists, who feel that Ireland is virtually in a state of anarchy. Mr. Chamberlain has long felt this. Lord Hartington is beginning to feel it. The whig leader long ago laid down four conditions under which home rule is certain to come one day. Lord Salisbury will be asked whether he accepts. If he does not then an appeal must be made to Lord Hartington's old friends. In any case home rule presents itself at this moment as the only alternative of coercion.

The Irish Question.

DUBLIN, March 4 .- At the Sligo assizes to-day a man named Armstrong was sentenced to 20 years' penal servitude for killing a farmer.

LONDON, March 4.- The government intends to call the attention of the vatican to Archbishop Croke's letter, advising the nonpayment of taxes in Ireland.

Queen's Drawing Room.

LONDON, March 3. - The first of the queen's jubilee drawing rooms was held to-day at Buckingham palace. The attendance was greater than at any preceding affair of the kind during the reign of the queen. Crowds congregated in the parks and roadways numbering many thousands.

The Party in Danger.

LONDON, March 4.-St. James' Gazette and Dublin Express continue to give warning that the government will ruin the party unless they adopt a vigorous Irish policy.

A "No Tax" Manifesto.

LONDON, March 4. -It is rumored that the Irish leaders are contemplating the issue of "a no tax" manifesto.

WINNIPEG, March 3. - The recount in the Winnipeg contest was commenced to-day. At two o'clock Mr. Scarth had gained six votes, but afterwards Mr. Sutherland gain ed four, leaving Mr. Searth with a net gain of two, or fourteen majority at the close of the day's proceedings.

ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.

THE LEGISLATURE IS UNDER FIRE FOR NEARLY AN HOUR.

Mr. Evanturel, of Prescott, Makes a Lively Speech and Defends Lis Fellow-Countrymen-The "Mail's" Correspondent who Went East Badly Sat Upon.

Toronto World. It took the Ontario Assembly three hours and five minutes to dispose of the debate on the address on Wednesday. The floor of the chamber was full and so were the galleries. The only member not in his seat was Mr. Lyon, of Fast Algoma, detained in his constituency by the dominion election. The debate was rather flat as a whole, although Mr. Evanturel, the member for Prescott, who seconded the address, threw some life into it by a three-quarters of an hour dash of what might pass for fiery ora-

Mr. Donald Guthrie, Q.C., the mover of the address, has filled a similar office before. In 1875, as a member of Mr. Mackenzie's party in the house of commons, he was the mover of the address to Lord Dufferin in that year. Mr. Guthrie's face, which is completely covered over with a massive red beard, is well known in the courts of Toronto, where he has been engaged in several important cases. He sits for South Wellington and lives in the royal city of Guelph. Mr. Mowat, it is said, considers Mr. Guth rie a valuable addition to his following, and has given him a seat right behind himself and next to the minister of education.

Mr. Evanturel, the seconder, is a representative French Canadian. While Mr. Guthrie was speaking the member for Prescott was all attention. He levelled his rimless, single-barreled eye-glass at the member for South Wellington and drank in every word he uttered. Mr. Evanturel's upper lip is covered with a thick, stubby, jet black moustache, which extends barely to the corners of his mouth. He wore the favorite coat of his fellow-countrymen, a black Prince Albert, and until he arose to speak a brown Christie stiff was tilted jauntily on the side of his head. Mr. Evanturel's seat is quite close to the ladies' gallery, which was well filled, and he seemed to be conscious that his oratory made quite an impression on several of the fair occupants of the enclosure, for more than once he was detected squinting that way. Mr. Evanturel is a lawyer, and speaks very good English, and speaks it fluently, far more so than either Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Sir Hector Langevin, Hon. Mr. Caron, or Mr. Laurier, the four leading French members of the house of commons. One of his few mispronunciations is "trone" for "throne." He sits beside Mr. Robillard, the French Canadian member for Russell, and a straight line across, at the back of the chamber, would land a visitor at the seat of Mr. Gaspard Pacaud, the youthful looking French Canadian member for Sol. White's old seat. North Essex. These three gentlemen complete the French contingent of the sixth Ontario legislature.

The members who were not called upon to do any of the talking listened languidly to the four favoured ones. Of course the members of the ministry were all attention while the mover and seconder were talking. The commissioner of public works wheeled his chair in full and complete view of Mr. Guthrie, then ditto with Mr. Evanturel. Apparently Mr. Fraser is the critic of the cabinet. He noted carefully every point or impression that either of the speakers made on the house, and when the time for applause came he was as liberal as any of them in bestowing it. The house got promptly to work at 3 o'clock, and ten minutes or so were spent in carting up petitions to the clerk's desk. Then the provincial secretary laid a number of returns and reports on the table.

The attorney general announced the select committee to strike the standing committees and the committee of ten to control the li brary of parliament.
