ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Still Discussing the Budget-The Fire of the opposition Exceedingly Weak.

TORONTO, March 17.-When Mr. O'Connor's, bill to abolish distress for rent, was reached yesterday, the attorney-generalasked that it stand, as the government proposed to introduce a bill on the subject of rent.

The second reading of Mr. Clarke's bill to amend the municipal act, by which it is proposed to make all members of township councils ex-officio justices of the peace, come up. The attorney-general was far from agreeing with Mr. Clarke. He said there were too many magistrates, and that the proposition to increase the number by 2,500 would never do. Mr. Meredith supported the bill. Whether Mr. Clarke's bill becomes law or dies in committee special police magistrates will be necessary if the Scott act is to be efficiently enforced.

The budget debate was resumed by Mr. Awrey and Mr. Waters. Their presentation of the case for the administration was conclusive, and in no way weakened by the feeble attack of Mr. Biggar and Dr. Wylie. But there were unusual features. Dr. Wylie, of West Ulster, charged the government with carrying the country by the sectarian cry, and proceeded to resurrect the No Popery bogie. He mourned the influence of the "Good old man up at the palace," asserted that Archbishop Lynch was premier of the province, and protested against the amount of money granted to the Roman Catholic benevolent institutions.

Mr. Pacaud made a speech that did him credit. His contention that the government crushed rather than nursed the sectarian cry accurately describes the situation.

The position of the new districts was ably ventilated by Mr. Marter and Mr. Arm strong.

Dr. Willoughby and Mr. Hudson repeated some of the familiar charges against the government's financial administration, and Mr. Murray and Mr. Evanturel contributed stirring speeches to the debate.

Among the important facts noted by the treasurer, in his closing thedebate, was that the face value of the drainage debentures was $400,000 instead of $260,000, as stated in the estimates, that the funds of the province held in trust by the dominion, with the exception of the common school fund, could be converted into cash at any time, and that to collect the school funds only required the consent of Quebec; that the annuity scheme was simply taken advantage of to enable the government to renew the railway certificates, and to reduce the rate of interest thereon from 6 to 41 per cent.

In reply to the treasurer's repudiation of the No Popery cry, Mr. Meredith alleged that he had nothing to do with the famous "Facts for Irish Electors," or the "Lynch Mowat concordat. "As Mr. Rosssaid the opposition leader's denial comes very late in the day.

Mr. Balfour proposes to introduce a bill to amend the libel laws.

Regiopolis College.

Mr. Meredith moved for a return showing the agreement between the province and the Episcopal Corporation of the Diocese of Kingston for the use of Regiopolis college ; the amount expended for repairs and improvements upon the building.

He said that in an agreement of this kind, involving considerable expenditure, the government should not have made it binding until the house had authorized it.

Hon. Mr. Hardy said the questian raised was not necessarily involved in the motion. Last session it was explained how the lease was made. The government found itself in straits to accommodate lunatics, many of whom were then in the gaols. The building was exceedingly suitable. The lease would be brought down, and any other information desired.

Mr. Meredith ashed for an explanation of an item of $1,500 paid to M. C. Loftus. Hon. Mr. Hardy explained that there was a garder and orchard occupied by Mr.

Loftus. This sum was paid to him on yield. ing possession. The motion was carried.

BISHOP OFF HIS BASE.

Too Much Mental Worry Not Good-And His Wife Gets Mad.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Washington Ir. ving Bishop, alleged mind-reader, has received a dispatch stating that his wife will leave Detroit for New York to-morrow. He promises sensational developments in the nature of the exposure of an attempt to alienate his wife's affections,

NEW YORK, March 16.—The wife of Washington Irving Bishop arrived here last night. Her husband has gone to Philadelphia. She proceeded to Boston with her brother. She stated that Bishop would hear from her through her lawyers in a few days.

Boston, March 17.-Mrs. Washington Irving Bishop has instituted proceedings for a divorce from her husband. She alleges that Bishop is suffering from an incurable malady, and that their marriage has never been consummated. She says she never would have exposed him had he not attempted to advertise himself at the expense of her honor.

Mrs. Bishop was formerly Helen Loud. About eighteen months ago she sued her husband for divorce on the ground of cruel ty, and was successful. During the trial it transpired that Mrs. Loud, who was only twenty-two years old, had been locked up in her room by her husband at various times, ranging from twelve hours to twentyfour. On one occasion she was locked up in the bath room for thirty-six hours. Her father is the well known millionnaire inventor, William B. Mack. About four months ago, when the divorce proceedings had been thoroughly arranged, Mrs. Loud married Mr. Bishop. Directly after the honeymoon Mr. Bishop started out to practice his pro-

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

A COMPLAINT WITH WHICH FEW WILL SYMPATHISE.

Sam Jones is Not a Money Grubber, and the One Who Supposes He is Makes a Great Mistake-Sam Will Never be Rich So Long as He is as Generous as He is

KINGSTON, March 17. - (To the Editor) : "Unless ve have fifty cents ye shall not hearken unto Sam Jones." This is as true as any gospel that ever was written, and, considering the religious nature of the discourse, it seems to me a hard commentary on that beautiful paraphrase:

"Free to that sacred fountain, all Without a price may go."

This reflection is strongly borne in on my mind from the fact that no prominent evangelist ever | yet sallied out without purse and scrip, like the ancient apostles, but developed a hankering after the filthy lucre. Mind I do not desire as yet to attribute such a desire to Mr. Jones. What he ultimately intends to do with the proceeds, or what charitable disposition or otherwise he may now be making of them, I know not, but still the incontrovertible fact remains that all great reformers of their fellow-men, who have followed itinerant lecturing, have not only grown rich thereat but manifested a disposition to retain their worldly acquisitions to themselves.

Vide John B. Gough, who died almost in harness, and with a handsome fortune, and yet I have to learn of a single instance where any poordrunkard, or his unfortunate family, was ever relieved by the bounty of the great temperance apostle. Enough, however, of this. That is not the point whereat I aim. What I wish to say is this: It is, I believe, only such men as Sam Jones who can capture the nonchurch-going part of the community, for various reasons, among which are that his peculiar and forcible style is the only one which appeals to their deep though uncultured feelings, and also that in many cases want of proper attire, or the consciousness that their presence is not considered desirable; both tend to hinder them from attend ing church.

It was for such that I understood Mr. Jones had especially started out on his laud able career, and doubtless a countless number have been benefitted by his ministrations. But when you come to put a price of admission-fifty cents-on his exortations what chance has the needy sinner of listening thereto? His auditors will almost with out exception be members of the different churches, and once the ephemeral religious mania has subsided they will gradually revert to the dogmas of their own established faith. Far different is the other class; here are no vested religious principles to be up rooted; all is virgin soil, eager and greedy to receive the seeds of truth, and where they will fructify and take an everlasting hold.

Again, the city hall will hardly hold one tenth of our population, and one night's lecture will scarcely satisfy the lucky ones who may gain admittance. But there is another view to be taken on the subject. "The laborer is worthy of his hire," and one cannot expect any man to undergo the fatigue and brain exertion consequent on a course of continuous lectures. In St. Thomas, a small city in western Ontario, the proceeds of his lecture netted $716, of which Mr. Jones received $400. Now a full hall here will realise over $400, and if $200 of this were paid over to him for his own expenses and towards any object he may have in view three such lectures a week would realize him $450. This in Kingston would leave $250, and to what more noble object could such a sum be devoted than the relief of the poor. When was such a sum available for such a purpose before, and in the hands of the charitable organizations of this city what wretchedness might be assuaged and unhappiness alleviated by these means?

Sam Jones! Sam Jones! You have in your power the opportunity to make the noblest name in the annals of the world. Instead of lecturing in aid of other subjects devote yourself to the amelioration of sickness, poverty and unhappiness throughout this continent. Let your addresses, while still aiming at the higher life, be at the disposal of the charitable societies and hospitals, and your name will go down to posterity wreathed with the grateful tributes of the suffering and distressed humanity which you have ameliorated, and like Abou Ben Adnem you may write your own epitaph:

"One who loved his fellow men."

I am aware that this may be tortured into a species of analogy with Judas and the box of ointment, but, the apostles to the contrary, I always was inclined to look on this little episode as the only redeeming point in the Iscariot's character; certes, if he carried the basen these days and received his contributides in fifty cent pieces he would not have been so ready to increase its specific gravity. I do not object to the custom of obtaining such men as Wendling and others, and making money out of their utterances, for we all have a personal le diable, and it might be of advantage to us to locate him, but when you come to put a price and a prohibitory one at that, on what, like air, light and water should be God's free gift, you are degrading religion and bringing it into dis-

However, even if the lectures are heavily priced for religious purposes, could not the lecturer devote each succeeding night free, to the conversion of the masses, or will $150 outweigh even one single saved soul ?-IM-PECUNIOSITY.

The Addington Deposit.

KINGSTON, March 16 .- (To the Editor) It is somewhat curious that my letter regarding the New Brunswick deposit, and your report of the Addington deposit trial, should appear in the same issue of your paper. Possibly had my letter appeared a day sooner the gross ignorance of the lawyers which you report would not have been exhibited. A deposit made by or for a candidate cannot be withdrawn but by the candidate, in compliance with certain conditions, for the reason that once made it becomes public property. It matters not who deposited the money. If Tom, Dick or Harry is fool enough to place his money in the hands of the returning officer, with my nomination paper, he cannot sue the returning officer for the recovery of his money. nor can any third party garnishee the deposit. This is the law, although it was grossly outraged in my petition against John

A. Macdonald in 1874, referred to by the lawyers on Tuesday, of which more will be heard when the petition I am filing is tried. This nomination deposit, sir, has a history in Kingston. At the nomination in 1878, John A. Macdonald, Alex. Gunn and I being candidates, the returning officer refused to give me a receipt for my deposit money unless I employed an agent to deposit it, as the other two candidates had done. I told him I would prosecute him. The lawyers present, amongst whom was "Canada's greatest statesman" himself, the Right Honorable Sir John Mexander Macdonald, K.C.B., all gave it as their opinion that I was wrong. I told them that if the "Dominion Elections Act, 1874," were consulted they would find themselves, in their own opinion, biped jackasses. Accordingly the learned city solicitor, James Agnew, Esq. was sent by the returning officer from the city hall to his office to consult his books, who returned with a written opinion that, although his mind was not clear on the subject, he thought I was right, for which learned opinion he charged, and was paid. five dollars by the city treasurer. What I now propose is, that the learned city solicitor should refund the said five dollars, with interest from 1878, and that it be handed over to me by the present mayor, Sir John Carson. - JOHN STEWART.

Civil Service Examinations. When will the next examination for the civil examined in? To whom should notice be sent of their intention to write at these examinations, and when? A TEACHER.

1. The examinatsons begin on Tuesday, the 10th of May next, and continue during the remainder of the week. If there are promotion examinations they take place on the following week.

2. There are three examinations, viz., preliminary, qualifying and promotion. The preliminary examination qualifies candidates to hold such subordinate positions as that of the letter carrier, etc., and the subjects are reading, writing, arithmetic (elementary), and spelling. The examination is not a difficult one, not nearly so difficult as that for entrance to a high school.

The qualifying examination fits a candidate to take any position in the civil service that he can rightfully take on first en trance into the service. The subjects are reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar, composition, geography, history, orthography, transcription, to which may be added the optional subjects of translation, precis-writing, shorthand, telegraphy, typewriting and book-keeping. This examination is somewhat difficult. A candidate who has successfully passed the Ontario examinations for second, or perhaps third class teachers, would succeed in flooring the

4. The promotion examination, as its name implies, is taken by civil servants who, after having spent some time in the service, desire to be advanced a grade. The subjects are penmanship, composition, arithmetic, orthography, and some optional subjects. These candidates are also examined in the duties of their office, the object of this examination being not so much to test the literary attainments of the candidates as to test their knowledge of the work of their department.

3. Make application to P. LeSueur, secretary board of civil service examiners, Ottawa, and he will forward the necessary pa-

A candidate can try either the preliminary or qualifying examination, or both. This examination calls to mind the publication of a new work of 250 pages by the principals of the Dominion Business college, Kingston, McKay & Wood. It is upon book keeping, precis writing, and adapted expressly for the preparation of candidates for civil service and teachers' examinations. It will be found to be the best book upon these subjects yet issued on the continent, and thus it is a credit to the young college, and to Kingston, for in typography, as in completeness, it takes the lead. All is Kingston work. Mailed free upon receipt of price, $1.50.

Tory Bribery Case.

WINDSOR, March 17. - Windsor politic ians of both parties were a good deal excited over the bribery examination. Yesterday Norris Winegarden, charged Israel Desjardins, merchant, Stoney Point, and warden of the county of Essex, with bribery, in offering him $2 if he would vote for Mr. Patterson. The magistrate found there was sufficient evidence to hold Desjardines.

A Commission Asked.

LONDON, March 17 -In the settlement of the fisheries dispute Canada suggests a commission as follows, one to be named by Canada, one from Newfoundland, two from the United States, and one from some European power. Germany is the power which Canada would prefer as referee.

A Brutal Wife-Murderer.

REIDSVILLE, N.C., March 16. - Alexander Haviston, negro, in this county, knocked his wife down last Friday because the meal was out, then, seizing the woman's head with both hands, he held it up and butted his own against it until she was dead. The brute is in gaol.

The 17th in Ireland.

LONDON, March 17 .- A sleet and snow storm stopped all outdoor demonstrations in honor of St. Patrick in Ireland. It is feared that riots will ensue from the celebration of the day at Lurgan, county Armagh, and 200 extra policemen have been added to the regular force.

MR. PARNELL WILL IN NO WAY GIVE IT HIS SUPPORT.

The Different Measures Which the Government has Under Consideration-All of a More or Less Experimental Character The Cure of Ireland's Ills Still a Long Way Off.

Lonpon, March 17. - Mr. Parnell will oppose any Irish land purchase bill, based upon the existing judicial rents, which, it is generally admitted, are at least 25 per centtoo high. During the Easter recess Mr. Parnell will abstain from political work. DUBLIN, March 17 .- In the bankruptcy court Father Keller of Youghall, county Cork, wanted to testify respecting his action as trustee under the plan of campaign, was absent. A summons to appear had been served on the priest, that he refused to received and Mr. Harrington took it and threw it out of the window. At the Hanlon inquest, at Youghall, Mr.

Harrington asked the inspector of police if a statement made in the house of commons by Mr. Balfour, that twenty-one out of twenty two police engaged in the work of serving summons on Father Keller were injured in the riot was correct. The inspector replied that but three of them were

The Plot Against the Czar.

St. Petersburg, March 17. - The Official Messenger publishes the following: "On Sunday morning three students of the St. Petersburg university were arrested in the Nowsky Prospect. They belonged to a secret criminal society. Bombs found on them were charged with dynamite. Each bomb was arranged to throw eleven balls, and all these balls were filled with strychnine."

LONDON, March 17.—Queen Victoria has sent a telegram to the czar, congratulating him upon his escape. The Prince of Wales visited the Russian ambassador, and express ed his grief that an attempt had been made upon the life of the czar.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg says two of the five persons arrested in connection with the plot against the czar are quite young, and two others belong to the peasant class. All six carried poisons, and intended to commit suicide in the event of arrest. Twenty female students of the Bestuscheff institute are among those arrested in connec tion with the plot.

The Government's Plans.

LONDON, March 17 .- The Daily News says the government has assured the union ist liberals that it intends to introduce, con currently in parliament, remedial and repressive Irish proposals. The remedial measure is to be divided into two parts, one dealing with pressing matters such as the inclusion of the lease holders in the operations of the land act and the suspension of evictions. The other to be introduced at next session will deal with land purchase and local government questions.
