

AND WHAT SHALL IT BE?

ALD. M'INTYRE'S NEW BY-LAW ON THE CITY'S ASSESSMENT.

If Gets a Second Reading, But May be Burked on Third Reading—The Leader of the Opposition Believes in the Axiom "If at First You Don't Succeed Try, Try, Again."

Ald. McIntyre, at the council meeting on Monday night, brought up his assessment by-law and asked for its second reading. Ald. Thompson urged delay until there was a fuller attendance of aldermen.

Ald. McIntyre wrote out his resolution, and asked Ald. C. Robinson to second it. Ald. Robinson declined. He said he would vote for the by-law. Every alderman should be on hand to vote also. Ald. Robinson was accused by Ald. McIntyre of going back on his promises, and Ald. Robinson denied the charge; he did not want Ald. McIntyre to steal a vote because certain other aldermen were absent. Ald. Snowden was appealed to also and would not second the resolution. He wanted the matter laid over. Ald. Drennan finally seconded the resolution, and retired.

Ald. McIntyre referred to the manner in which his by-law had been treated last year. It was deferred until it was too late to take action. This year he wanted the measure considered at a proper time. He was prepared to go into the discussion of the question now. The ratepayers, he said, demanded the appointment of three assessors and he wanted the men appointed so that they could qualify by the 1st of July. Some years ago he said there had been four assessors. Some of the aldermen said, "No, no."

Ald. Downing—"That was before you were born."

Ald. McIntyre—"No sir, since I have been at this council board."

Ald. Thompson—"There has not been more than three assessors since 1870."

The clerk said that there had been more than four, and that was many years ago.

Ald. McIntyre—"Well, it was within my recollection." He claimed that the appointment of one assessor was an innovation; that the increase of the city's assessment was not because of the pertinacity of the assessor, but because of the natural growth of the city.

Ald. C. Robinson would vote for three assessors, but he did not want a catch vote to be taken. The greater the importance of a question the fuller should be the attendance of aldermen.

Ald. McIntyre—"There are only four away."

Ald. Robinson—"And they are four very important men. I want all the members to know about the question." He accused Ald. McIntyre of shilly-shallying last year, with having no desire to have the question discussed or voted upon. Last year it was considered too late to take effect, and Ald. McIntyre wanted the same thing done this year. "You can't," he said to Ald. McIntyre, "throw it in my face that I did not assist you."

Ald. Thompson did not want the matter hurried, but he wanted time to fully consider the by-law. It was a large question, one that legislators had found hard to grapple with.

Ald. McGuire brought some north-west logic to bear on the matter. He wanted the by-law considered at once.

Ald. Robinson asked Ald. McIntyre why he had not brought the matter up at the last council meeting, and Ald. McIntyre pleaded delicacy as Mr. Gordon had been discharging the duties of the absent clerk.

Ald. Robinson—"If it is right to consider the question at all it is right to do it when Mr. Gordon is here."

The motion went to a vote, and on the following division the council went into committee of the whole with Ald. Downing in the chair:

Yeas—Mayor John Carson; Alda. Hobart, Muckleston, McGuire, McIntyre, Phalen, Rees, Shannon, Smith, Wilmot, 10.

Nays—Alda. Downing, Hiscock, Redden, C. Robinson, Snowden, Thompson, Wilson, 7.

Ald. McIntyre said the council would only affirm the principle of appointing three assessors, if it adopted the by-law assessors could be advertised for.

Ald. Thompson asked for Ald. McIntyre's "facts and figures," but they were not forthcoming. "You have them yourself," he said, "but I don't construe them as you do. All the aldermen have the figures; they know them off by heart."

Ald. Thompson—"You are only going to give the by-law a second reading."

Ald. McIntyre—"Yes."

Ald. McGuire—"Let her go, Gallagher."

The bill was passed without dissent, the opponents being satisfied to let the discussion occur on the third reading at the next session.

It was a time of refreshing, a solemn, but glorious time. "Poor sinners were coming home." The "King of Kings and Lord of Lords" was in the midst of His people. THE CITY CARTING.

A Little Feeling Stirred up About the Awarding of the Public Contracts.

When the report of the streets committee was presented for adoption at the city council on Monday night communications were read from Henry Turpin and Samuel Cannon, complaining that their tenders for carting were lower than those which had been accepted. Turpin claimed that an injustice had been done to him, that a wrong had been perpetrated on the whole body of tax payers, and, in the future, the action of the committee would hinder parties from tendering against favorites of the aldermen. Both of the gentlemen asked for an enquiry into the facts of the case.

Ald. McGuire thought Mr. Turpin's statement very impertinent, and Ald. McIntyre, who had handed in the letter, said he had not read it else he would have asked for a modification of it. He did not wish any alderman to be insulted. Ald. Thompson thought Mr. Turpin very unfortunate in his expression, for he was well aware that the committee, in their consideration of the matter, acted in the fairest possible way. The contract was given to the men, who it was thought would give the best service to the city. The tenders for carting were as follows:

	One Horse.	Two Horses.	Stone Per-Ton.
FOR 1886.
E. Sturgess	$1.74	$2.50	$1.75
FOR 1887.
E. McFadden	1.79	3.00	2.00
P. Aiken	2.00	3.00	2.25
D. Gorman	1.80	2.79	1.88
H. Turpin	1.79	2.74	1.97
S. Cannon	2.00	3.00	2.00

The prices quoted for two horses and the drawing of stone per ton were matters of contingency. The corporation horses draw the stone, and last year only $30 was spent for other team work. The whole thing resolved itself into a question of single horse work. Last year the single horses were employed 7,723 hours, at a cost of $1,249.23. Had Mr. Turpin's tender been accepted he would have received $77.23 more than Messrs. McFadden and Aiken asked. But this year a greater quantity of work would be required, in view of the large amount of debris that would have to be removed from the drains. Ald. Thompson denied that the successful tenderers got the contract through favoritism. Politically and religiously the men who got the work were opposed to the majority on the streets committee. They were good men, however, and good service would be expected from them. Ald. C. Robinson was not in harmony with the report of the committee. The best men had not received the contracts. Practical carters had not been engaged. Ald. Thompson said the men who secured the contract were experienced men. Ald. Robinson moved that new tenders be called for, but the council were opposed to the motion. The tenderers who had quoted figures in good faith should not be put in competition again. After the lucid explanations of Ald. Thompson the aldermen sustained the committee's finding. This year the engineer will insist on the proper performance of the work, as last year there were complaints made about it.

PRESBYTERY MEETING.

THE QUARTERLY CONVENTION OF PRESBYTERIAN CLERGYMEN.

The System Some Men Want in Electing a Moderator—The Question of Marriage With a Deceased Wife's Aunt or Niece—The Temperance Report, and the Views of Clergymen Upon It.

A regular session of the Kingston Presbytery was begun in St. Andrew's hall on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Mackie, moderator, presided. There were present: Revs. Dr. Williamson, T. S. Chambers, A. Young, W. Coulthard, D. Ross, S. Houston, John Gallagher, J. H. George, James Cumberland, A. Macaulay, William Craig, Maclean, Dr. Mowat, J. Robinson; and elders W. Mackenzie, R. M. Rose, James Fowler, John Cook, W. Fleming.

Rev. Mr. Houston, one of those appointed to report regarding the prayer on which the Presbyterian church at Sharbot Lake is situated, stated that the committee could not give a satisfactory statement. It was authorized to continue its investigations.

Reports of members of deputations, appointed to visit supplemented congregations in the matter of ministerial support, were received from Revs. Messrs. Houston, Young, Ross, Mackie and George.

ELECTING THE MODERATOR.

Rev. Mr. Gallagher submitted a motion relative to the appointment of the moderator. It was to the effect that the moderator of the presbytery be selected from the teaching and ruling members of the presbytery; that he be elected in September of each year by ballot, and that when elected he hold office twelve months instead of six as heretofore.

Rev. Mr. Young held that this matter should come before the supreme court first, but the moderator ruled that the motion was in order.

Mr. Gallagher said the reason he wished the plan in his motion in the matter of electing a moderator carried into effect was to secure competent presidents. In the past they had had men in the chair at times who should never have been there. He would like to see elders occupying the moderator's chair as well as clergymen. The former would take more interest in church work if such an honor were conferred upon them.

Elder Cook seconded the motion, and spoke in favor of it, contending that elders should have the same honors awarded to them by the presbytery as the clergymen. There should be a larger representation of elders at the sessions, and this would be the case if they were given prominent positions and vested with power to take an active part in the work of the presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Wilkins moved, in amendment, that the practice followed in the past in electing a moderator be pursued in the future. He pointed out that the rules of the presbytery stated expressly that a clergyman must occupy the chair. He favored having the matter sent to the supreme courts, however, for consideration.

Rev. Mr. Chambers seconded the amendment.

Prof. Williamson thought that the matter should be laid before the general assembly. He did not think they had suffered any harm in the past by the way in which the moderator had been elected. He was sure all the members of the presbytery would like to see elders occupying prominent positions in connection with the presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Gallagher's motion was defeated.

SOME MINOR QUESTIONS.

The name of Rev. J. McIlroy, ordained missionary at Poland, was added to the roll.

A trust deed of the church property at Sidney was submitted by Rev. Mr. Williams for inspection. Messrs. Rose and Duff were appointed to examine the deed.

The records of the Gananoque session were presented by Rev. Mr. Gracey for examination. Revs. McIlroy and Millard were appointed to examine the book.

A memorial was read from Chalmers' church, Kingston, asking leave to furnish their own pulpits supply until further notice. The request was granted.

Rev. George Porteous, of Dunnville, was permitted by the court to sit and deliberate.

WILL THEY BE ADMITTED?

Notices were read from the Presbyteries of Montreal and Orangeville, intimating that applications from Rev. E. D'Argent and Adam Birrell, asking to be reinstated as ministers unto the Canadian Presbyterian church, would be made to the general assembly at its next meeting. The opinion of the presbytery was desired in reference to the advisability of allowing the clergymen named to enter the church. The case of Mr. D'Argent was referred to a committee.

THE MARRIAGE RELATIONSHIP.

A notice in the minutes of the general assembly, which is printed in order to get an expression on it from the different presbyteries, was read. It is: "The discipline of this church shall not be exercised in regard to marriage with a deceased wife's sister, deceased wife's aunt, or deceased wife's niece."

Rev. Mr. Chambers submitted the following motion on the subject: "Whereas the procedure and discipline of the Presbyterian church have ever been professedly founded on principle and the word of God; whereas the Confession of Faith of the Westminster assembly has been accepted by the Presbyterian church in Canada as the exponent of its faith; whereas said confession condemns the marriage of a man with his deceased wife's sister; whereas a committee of assembly of said church has been investigating this subject for some time, and has submitted their propositions thereon; whereas there is substantial unanimity in the church in regard to the first of their propositions, namely, that the moral law of incest is a permanent obligation, and that marriage ought not to be within the degree of consanguinity or affinity forbidden in the word; whereas nine of the presbyteries have disapproved of the second in which the committee express the opinion that the Confession is not sufficiently sustained by scripture when it states that a man may not marry any of his wife's kindred, nearer his blood than his own; whereas the third proposition which purports to compel the courts of the church to refrain from exercising discipline in certain cases specified, while at the same time the teaching of the Confession thereon is to remain unchanged, asks the church to pursue a course directly at variance with said teaching, and is therefore illogical, inconsistent, unjust and subversive of all orderly precedent; and whereas the proposal to render the non-exercise of discipline in the cases specified obligatory and imperative would do violence to the conscientious convictions of a large number of members, elders and communicants of the church, who believe that the doctrine of Confession in the matter is scriptural and expedient; therefore, resolved that this proposition express its disapproval of the proposition made by the general assembly.

Rev. T. S. Chambers spoke at length on this matter.

Principal Grant then moved an amendment, that the presbytery approve of the general assembly's propositions.

The amendment was carried by seven votes.

The presbytery then adjourned to meet in the evening at 7:30.

The Evening Meeting.

The members of the presbytery assembled at 7:30 o'clock.

Reports were called for, and Rev. T. S. Chambers read that on the state of religion within the limits of the presbytery. The statement was very encouraging, and specially urged that clergymen work zealously in their different parishes. They should remind their flocks that family prayer is a practice that should not be neglected. The report pointed out that the special hindrances to the spread of the gospel were indifference, worldly amusements, formality among professors of religion, lack of family worship, Sabbath visitation, intemperance and infidelity. One report received by the committee referred to the baneful influence of the so-called salvation army on religion.

The means employed to counteract these hindrances were the preaching of the gospel, private counsels, and cottage prayer meetings. In another report, sent to the committee, reference was made to the better enforcement of the Scott act in order to secure the suppression as far as possible of drunkenness. The general report was received and adopted, and the clerk was authorized to send a copy of it to the convener of the synod's committee on the state of religion.

SUNDAY SCHOOL STATISTICS.

Rev. A. Young read the report on Sabbath school work. He gave the following statistical information relating to Sunday schools within the bounds of the presbytery: Total number of teachers, 342; scholars, 2,767; average attendance at schools, 1,980; average attendance of scholars at churches, 1,011; communicants from Sunday schools added to churches during the year, 42; contributions, $1,701.27; expended on schools, $1,105; given for church schemes, $213.23; other objects, $214. Reports were received by the committee from all the pastoral charges. The report was adopted.

THE REPORT ON TEMPERANCE.

Rev. Mr. Gracey submitted the report of the committee on temperance. Eleven sessions had sent returns: Pittsburg, Madoc, Amherst Island, Picton, Napanee, Chalmers' and Cooke's Kingston; Lansdowne, Wolfe Island, Deseronto and Gananoque. From the replies to the questions relative to temperance the committee would draw the following conclusions: First, that in most places the Scott act is not well enforced and in consequence of this the liquor traffic is in a very offensive shape; (2) it is not enforced because there seems to be a want of machinery for the purpose, want of sympathy with the act among certain officials and magistrates, and a want of disposition on the part of the people (naturally enough) to become active participants in procuring convictions; (3) there is a lull in temperance activity in many parts of the presbytery, and the lull has largely arisen from the feeling that having carried the Canada Temperance act, the friends of temperance have done their duty and may now rest from their labours; (4) the feeling prevails that so far as enforced the act has done good, that it has suppressed open drinking and put an end to the treating system.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE COMMITTEE.

The following recommendations were offered by the committee: That this presbytery urge the people within its limits to use all legitimate means to have the Scott act enforced where carried, that the people may have an opportunity of knowing the merits of local prohibition; that to this end the presbytery urges that efforts be made to elect municipal and county councils as far as possible favourable to the act, where it is in operation; that they use their influence to have officers appointed in the municipalities, who will see the law enforced; and that county councils use their influence to have police magistrates appointed who will not be afraid to give decisions according to the evidence submitted; that the presbytery instruct its members and sessions to relax none of their efforts in favour of temperance reform; that the presbytery express its conviction that the total prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage is a crying need of our country.

RAISING OF OBJECTIONS.

In the report there was embodied the questions forwarded by the committee on temperance to the sessions to be answered and returned. These questions were not passed by the general assembly, and were sent out without its authority by the convener of the assembly's committee to the convener of the presbytery's committee. The most objectionable question was: "Do you think the country is ready for prohibition, or is it expedient to continue for some time to license the acknowledged evil?" Principal Grant considered this question a rebel on the whole church, and objected to it, and the other questions in the report, because they were not authorized by the general assembly. The question quoted said as much as that they had been licensing an evil. It was not fair to say that because men were licensed to sell liquor they were licensed to make men drunk. Rev. Messrs. Houston, Cumberland, Young, and others were not in favour of accepting the report, because the questions which it embodied were improper ones. Rev. Messrs. Coulthard and Gracey did not see any harm in the question. They argued that strong drink was an evil, and interfered with the work of the ministry on every hand.

The speakers who opposed the report were in favour of temperance, but they had no right to consider a question sent to them without the authority of the general assembly.

THE MOTIONS SUBMITTED.

After considerable discussion the following motions were submitted and carried:

Moved by Mr. Maclean, seconded by Mr. Houston, "That inasmuch as the general assembly's committee had no authority to send down the questions contained in the report of the presbytery's temperance committee they lie on the table, and that the thanks of the presbytery be given to the convener and the committee for their labour in the matter."

Moved by Principal Grant, seconded by Mr. Houston, "That the presbytery's committee on temperance be requested to prepare the questions for sessions to be submitted to the presbytery at the earliest possible date."

The presbytery adjourned at 10:30 o'clock.

Tuesday Morning's Session.

The grants to augmented congregations recommended were: Amherst Island, $150; Picton, $200; Camden and Tamworth, $300; Roslin, $100; St. John's, Pittsburg, $250; Trenton, $250; Lansdowne, $170; Camden and Newburg, $150.

A communication, from the Wolfe Island congregation, relative to the pastor's salary, was read.

The presbytery considered the appointment of commissioners to attend the meeting of the general assembly, to be held in Winnipeg in June. The number of representatives which the presbytery was required to select was 16. The clergymen, selected according to rotation, were: Revs. Arpod Givan, Allan A. Macauley, James Williamson, L. L. D. Those elected by ballot were: Principal Grant; Revs. W. MacLean, Gray, Coulthard. The elders elected were: Prof. Fowler; Messrs. Gillies, Duff, Meiklejohn, Boulter, Duk, Craig.

The presbytery adjourned at one o'clock.

A New York Sensation.

The whole country will remember the conviction of Police Sergeant David H. The conviction and severe sentence hinged upon the belief that Maggie was an uneducated and inexperienced young girl. This she swore to at the trial. It now turns out, by an astounding revelation from her own handwriting, that she had secretly been
