IN FOREIGN TONGUES.

A GRAND METHOD BY WHICH LAN-GUAGES ARE MASTERED.

Pleasant Entertainments Where English is Eschewed Visits From the Natives of European Countries-Great Satisfaction at the Way the Students Control Their Speech.

The teaching of modern languages in Queen's university is intended to furnish the students in those subjects not only with a knowledge of grammer, philology and literature, but especially to give them a practical acquaintance with the idioms used in common conversation, so that when they are brought into contact with the natives they will be able to converse. For this purpose the teachers in that department, with Prof. Nicholson at their head, have devoted as much time as possible in each class during the session, about to close, to conversations in the foreign languages. This practice will be continued in the future, as an ability to converse is exacted of each student in the modern language, and as the calendar specities: "No candidate shall be entitled to first-class honors, unless the examiner be satisfied of the candidates' ability to maintain a conversation in these languages." Besides the exercises during the day one evening out of every week during the session has been used by the students, desirous of obtaining honors in moderns, for a colloquial exercise in French and German. No English is spoken, except in rare cases, for the sake of explanation. Frenchmen, Germans and Italians have, during the past session, visited these classes, and the students have had the pleasure of trying the linguistic skill acquired in their previous training to their full satisfaction.

The last of these gatherings took place last evening in the natural science class room. The proceedings were varied by selections of music, singing, reading, etc. "The silver tongue of Germany" tinkled forth its music from the lips of nearly twenty ladies and gentlemen, most of whom were members of the junior German class, and honored the occasion with their presence. Herr G. M. Weber read an interesting passage from one of the German classics, used in the college, played some beautiful pieces on his renowned violin, sang some of the popular songs of Germany, and entered into a pleasant chit-chat with the students on familiar subjects. He expressed himself as pleased with the manner in which the students understood what he said to them and with replies in his own language. Another gentleman present, well acquainted with the German, expressed the same opinion. This is a highly satisfactory result, and encourages the German tutor to continue his work of imparting a practical colloquial knowledge of the language to his pupils. It is intended, if possible, to resume these meetings for the culture of the foreign languages in the college next session, and to introduce some new features, which will be still more efficient in encouraging conversation in foreign tongues.

A letter from the shipkeeper on the schooner Sylvester Neelon, at Tobermory says the vessel and cargo are in good condition. There is much ice up north at the Straits of Mackinaw; it is two feet thick. The Chicago morning papers says the revival of the lake carrying trade, and the sharp advances in freights, have made the vessel men almost crazy. Two years ago every man who had a dollar invested in floating property would have been glad to sell out at a big sacrifice. This year the vessels command a big premium, but the increased valuations of the old vessels sinks into comparative insignificance beside the shipbuilding boon that was inaugurated last fall. The outlook for the next season was never more flattering. A reporter who visited all the Chlcago shipyards within the last two weeks found forty-six new vessels in various stages of construction, representing an aggregate carrying capacity of 98,000 tons and at a cost of $6,500,000. Of these vessels all but three are steamers.

OUR EXPERIENCE COLUMN.

What Kind of a Husband Have You?-Tell Us All About Him, Reader.

The Winnipeg Sun has afforded its readers a deal of interesting reading by publishing the correspondence which it invited upon matrimonial questions. The idea is worthy of adoption, and to that end we shall publish the replies which our readers choose to send to the following questions-provided they are polite and reasonable. The ques tions are specially addressed to the ladies,

1. What kind of a husband have you? 2. Is he cross, sulky, stingy and mean Or is he liberal, open-hearted, generous and kind to yourself and children !

3. Does he spend his evenings at home and if not why not? Does he-belong to the lodge, and how often does it meet each

4. Has married life been all that you expected it to be? 5. If there has been any disappointment what has been the cause of it?

6. Does the case admit of remedy, and what do you think the remedy should be? 7. Have you any suggestions to offer to such of your sex as contemplate marriage ? What is your advice to them ere they have taken a decisive step ?

The answers should be short and sharp, as pithy as it is possible to make them. Give your experience. Your husband will read what you have to say about him, and if he is not an altered man afterwards he is past redemption. The correspondence must be anonymous of course.

BLACKENED THE NAME.

Too Much Theory Not Good-Men Should Not Spin Fictions. Queen's College Journal.

It is well for Mr. Grant Allen that he is at present safely beyond the seas and not within reach of Kingston's citizens, for at the present time many an otherwise mild Kingstonian is breathing out terrible threatenings against him. In fact he is "wanted" in this vicinity to make explanations as regards some very hard sayings to which he has lately given expression. In these he has blackened the name and blasted the fair reputation of Kingston and the whole country for miles around.

It seems marvellous that Mr. Allen should so grossly misrepresent a place which he ought to know so well. To our mind it shows very forcibly to what a deplorable condition of disregard for fact some of these pseudo-scientific theorists can come. For them theory seems everything, fact nothing. Mr. Allen appears to have become so accustomed to make fact square with theory, rather than theory with fact, that in order to support a little theory concerning the operation of the Scott act he very placidly, and, we have no doubt, without any particular malice towards Kingston, fabricates the neces sary data, recognizing no limits but the necessities of his theory. However we would suggest to Mr. Allen, or any one of similar tendencies, that it is one thing to create data of a biological or psychological character, where the subject matter is more or less impersonal, but quite a different matter to take such pleasant liberties as the location of very objectionable data within a definite city or county whose inhabitants may thereby be very much injured in the eyes of the world. Mr. Allen may spin his little fictions and amuse himself, or even make money, by setting up airy theories regarding the flowers, the insects, or the rabbits, or, to vary the amusement, he may reduce if he will, in theory, the human mind to a condition of utter imbecility, but he should not forget himself entirely and begin locating any unsavoury myths in the midst of a people who have some sense of self-respect, and who cannot suffer such total misrepresentations to go unchecked.

Miss Edwards Not Guilty of Larceny-Another Case Grows Out of the Charge.

Miss Edwards was before the magistrate this morning charged with theft. The goods alleged to have been taken by her were produced in court and identified by George Pedlar. The articles were found in Mrs. Houston's residence; Alfred street. Miss Edwards told Officer Burnett that she was at Pedlar's on Thursday evening, and had taken some things away, given her by Mrs. Stellard, a previous housekeeper. Mrs. Stellard also appeared in court, looked over the crockery and pieces of carpet and said they were hers, that she had told Miss Edwards to take them, and that Pedlar had nothing to do with them; they were not given to him. There were other things in Pedlar's house that belonged to the witness. Mr. Shaw said that it was quite evident that the charge laid against defendant was malicious and false. Miss Edwards was dismissed The goods will be sent back to Mrs. Houston. The magistrate contended that Mr. Pedlar had made a mistake, and that Mrs. Stellard should have told him that she had given the articles to Miss Edwards.

Mr. Pedlar was then charged with having neglected to pay Miss Edwards $38.25 for services rendered. Defendant asked that the case be adjourned until Monday.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

College Endowments.

KINGSTON, March 23.—(To the Editor) I cut from yesterday's Globe the following bit from a letter signed "University"

"In 1798 500,000 acres of wild land were set apart for the endowment of four grammar schools and a university-it being intended that the portion for the university should be at least half of the grant. In 1823 King's college (now the University of Toronto) was established and endowed, receiv ing an actual half of the lands then representing the above grant, viz., 223,538 acres. In 1829 U. C. C. was established, and between that date and 1835 received its endowment, not out of that of King's college, above mentioned, but from an additional 63,268 acres, representing one-quarter of the lands originally intended for four grammar

The remaining three-quarters were never appropriated, either for grammar schools or for a university, but have been applied by the province for its general purposes. This constitutes one of the grounds upon which the university is now asking for a further endowment from the province, which has received the proceeds of lands intended for the purposes of higher education. It is also a ground for asking for an addition to the endowment of Upper Canada College.'

Now, sir, granting that the above facts are true, what are we to think of the amusing cheek of Toronto? It is admitted that Toronto university got all the land that was set apart for university purposes. It is admitted that the grammar school, started in Toronto, got its quarter of the remaining quarter million acres. It is admitted that the other three schools were to be started and endowed in the other three places, Kingston being one of the three. It is ad mitted that Kingston has been cheated for sixty years. Yet what is the conclusion from all these admissions? That Kingston should now have a small dole of justice? Oh, no! But that Toronto university and the grammar school, established in Toronto, should get more! It is almost incredible, but it is still more incredible that Kingston calmly puts up with the injustice. - Science SCHOOL.

CANADA'S PUBLIC DEBT.

A Bad Showing of the Federal Finances-Hon. Mr. McLelan's Legacy.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 23-The report of finance minister, Sir Charles Tupper, has been completed. It shows that the public debt amounts to $290,000,000, an increase of more than $5,000,000 during the last fiscal year. Of outstanding bonds it is estimated that Canada holds $20,000,000; that $55, 000,000 are held in the United States, that $100,000,000 are held in England, $1,000. 000 in Germany, and $5,000,000 in France. The average rate of interest that these bonds bear is 54 per cent, and more than half of the total amount outstanding was sold at 5 to 12 per cent. discount. It is suggested that in order to take up a loan of $30,000,000, and prepare for extraordinary expenses, a new loan of $50,000,000 be made at 4 per cent. These bonds it is hoped to float at par. If the different railroads now projected, which the government is pledged to support with the usual subsidy of $3,500 per mile, are built during the coming sea son, the debt will necessairly be increased $4,000,000, as more than 300 miles are surveyed. The assets which the government has, that are properly chargeable to expenditures are estimated at $120,000,000, according to the government's own figures, but according to the opposition's figures nearly one half of this sum is improperly eredited. The report will raise a storm when presented to parliament, as the liberals have all along contended that Hon. Mr. McLellan, who has acted as finance minister for the last two years, until eight weeks ago, was incompetent for the position.
