Lieut.-Governor's Reth-Expenditure in Barracks-Mr. Coursel's Position.

The Toronto Young Men's Liberals' club has unanimously condemned the Irish Coercion bill.

Speaker Plumb's incumbency of the senate presidency will be marked by a round of social festivities. Mr. McCallum, of Monck, will move the address in the senate, and Mr. Casgrain, of Windsor, will second it. Premier Ross, of Quebec, was called to fill the vacancy in the senate caused by the death of the late Mr. Chapais. . Mr. Norquay will announce, upon his return to Manitoba, that the dominion government will allow the construction of one road to the provincial boundary This may save his government. Parliament will be asked to vote the expenditure of $100,000 in the construction of barracks in the north-west this year. New quarters for the mounted police will be built at Prince Albert and Calgary.

Members of the Manitoba legislature are arriving in Winnipeg. A lively time is expected at the opening on Thursday. The general opinion is that the government will be sustained. Lieut. Governor Masson's health is very precarious. His honor recently expressed his intention of resigning, but the pressing solicitation of Hon. Mr. Mercier induced him to reconsider the matter. Mr. C, J. Coursol, M. P. for Montreal

East, in Ottawa said the government organs had been claiming him as a ministerialist, but he was nothing of the kind. He is as in Montreal East he went to Montmagny and helped to defeat Mr. Landry, who acted as the government's tool last session.

Protestant Home Rulers' Meeting.

DUBLIN, April 13.—A meeting of the Protestant Home Rule association was held here yesterday, to protest against the Crimes bill. A letter was read from Mr. Gladstone in which, referring to the Crimes bill, he says: "The introduction of the bill is, in many respects deplorable, but it is good in the respect that it is doing much to open the eyes of honest men to the true facts of the question. I have pledged myself in parliament to oppose it at every stage. I trust your meeting will do much to dispel the absurd idea that the Irish Protestants, as a body, fear the consequences of home rule to themselves, or are anything like unanimous in opposing it."

Nihilists in a New Role.

LONDON, April 13.—A telegram from Geneva, purporting to come from a nihilistic source, denies that a notice of sentence of death has been sent to the czar. The telegram also says that the nihilists have changed their tactics, that they have abandoned the dagger and bomb in favor of a persuasive policy, and have formed a committee to unmask the manœuvres of certain agents, who spread in the press fictitious nihilistic proclamations.

VERY STRONG PROTEST.

THE LARGEST MEETING THAT WAS EVER HELD IN HYDE PARK.

It was Attended by Over 150,000 People-A Great Event, and What it Signified to the Irish Members and Government - The Workingmen are thoroughly

Aroused. London, April 11. - Estimates of the attendance at the Hyde park meeting, to protest against the Coercion bill. vary, but it is certain that 150,000 persons, including onlookers, were present. The procession took an hour and a half to file into the park. The first contingent was composed of the members of the Robert Emmet lodge. Then followed a large number of Irish temperance lodges, Radical workingmen's clubs, and Social Democratic organizations. Numerous bands of music were in the line. While passing the Carlton and other conservative clubs the bands played the "Dead March in Saul" and the "Marseillaise." Green banners and Irish national emblems were conspicuous in the ranks of the paraders. Among the mottoes displayed on the banners of the radicals were these: "Justice to Ireland," "Friendship—not Bayonets,"
"No Coercion." The West Tottenham democratic club carried a black banner on which was inscribed in white letters, "Ireland Desolate." They stopped in front of the Carlton club, and their band played the dead march, the crowds listening in promuch of a bolter as ever. After being elected | found silence. The effect of the careful arrangements that had been made to avoid confusion at the park was seen in the admirable order in which the paraders grouped themselves around the fourteen platforms. The greatest throng gathered at the platform from which Lord Mayor Sullivan, of Dublin, and Messrs. Conybeare and William Redmond, members of parliament,

> Lord Mayor Sullivan, in the course of a most effective speech, asked: "Is it the wish of the workmen of London that the honest, hard-working tenantry of Ireland shall be forever crushed down ?" A tremendous responsive "No!" resounded through out the park. The mention of the queen, as about to celebrate her jubilee by signing away the liberties of the people of Ireland, brought forth a torrent of hisses, and the mention of Mr. Chamberlain's name aroused a tempest of groans and hisses, with cries of "Traitor!" Mr. Sullivan assured his hearers that the demonstration would carry hope and joy into the hearts of the Irish. would cheer many a poor struggling man to know that England was no enemy of Ireland. "In return," he said, "don't let them believe those who say the Irish are mortal, implacable enemies of England. That is a falsehood worthy of the bottomless pit. (Cheers.) Let there be an end of oppression and injustice, and there will be an end of hatred." (Prolonged cheering.)

Michael Davitt appeared at a socialist platform. He referred to the lemonstration as a proof of the approaching golidarity of the people of Great Britain and Ireland. In proportion as the masses began to understand each other, so the classes became alarmed. The privileged classes well knew the inevitable tendency of the Irish move ment, and sought to crush the leaders, hoping to prevent the English people from following the example set them by the Irish. But they would hold the fort in Ireland. (Cheers.) On the day on which the Crimes act should become a law they would either have to give up the struggle that had been waged for centuries, and lie down as slaves, or render the system impossible of duration. They would follow the more manlier course. The classes had in the past built a bridge of hate across the Irish sea. The people would pull it down and erect a bridge of love between the toilers of Ireland and the honest workers of England. (Cheers.) John Burns, a socialist leader, followed Mr. Davitt. He declared that the state of Ireland justified civil war, and that the English people were ready to assist the Irish peasants in a revolt. At 4:30 o'clock a bugle sounded, and at this pre-arranged signal, a resolution condemning the Crimes bill was put simultaneously at all of the platforms. The resolution was carried amid a prolonged roar of cheers. The socialists stole a march on the police, and erected platforms from which several speakers delivered orations. They after wards held a noisy meeting in Trafalgar square. Mrs. Gladstone watched the anticoercion procession from a window in Piccadilly, and was given an ovation by the men

Revelation to the Irish Members.

London, April 12 -Not a moment's at tention need be paid to the preposterous at tempts of the Times and the Standard to deprecate yesterday's demonstration. The most extraordinary feature of the meeting was its absolutely unanimous and extremely enthusiastic character. It was a great open air parliament of London workingmen. Many trudged miles from distant suburbs to take part in in it. The stream of people into the park, with banners flying, bands playing, showing green favors in the buttonholes, and marching in almost military order, lasted almost two hours and a half. There were enough demonstrators to cover the space from the Marble Arch to Achilles' statue, which is about three-quarters of a mile. All along this line the people were massed too thickly for outsiders to hear speakers from any one of the seventeen platforms. A special point of the demonstration was the smallness of the mere spectator element. There was absolutely no opposition. Very little money was spent on show, which was mainly got up by small and poor radical clubs. The Irish members were quite overpowered by the demonstration. They did not believe the English workingmen cared so much for Ireland. It was a great revelation to them, as well as to the government. Mr. Chamberlain is quite prepared to support the Coercion and the Land bills, and believes nothing in the way of a final settlement will be done this session; but he thinks next year will give him the opportunity, which he firmly believes is waiting for him, of settling the question on his own basis. The government will, he thinks, introduce a Home Rule bill on his plan and en able him to say that he has settled the Irish question. This is intensely characteristic of Mr. Chamberlain.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

The Members Enrolled and the Speaker Elected for the Term.

OTTAWA, April 13.—The members of the newly-elected parliament was sworn in today between noon and the hour for assembling, three o'clock. The parliament was formally opened by the deputy-governor, Sir Wm. Ritchie. The commons then elected its speaker. To-morrow afternoon the governor-general will deliver his speech from the throne.

Mr. Joseph Alderic Ouimet was born in the village of Ste. Rose, county of Laval, on the 20th May, 1848, and was educated in the seminary of Ste. Therese de Blainville, taking his degree of L. L. B. at Victoria college, Cobourg, in 1869. He was admitted to the bar of Quebec province in 1870, and appointed a Q.C. on the 11th October, 1880. Mr. Ouimet's debut in the political arena was made during the stormy period of the country's history, he being elected to the Federal parliament for his native county in November, 1873, and taking his seat in the house of commons when the memorable Pacific scandal debate was going on. Since that date he has been considered not one of the most slavish supporters of Sir John Macdonald, and perhaps may be safely termed a Chapleau conservative, being an intimate friend of the secretary of state. He is a lieutenant-colonel, and has command of the 65th Batt., of Montreal, which did garrison duty in the North-West during the late rebellion. He was one of the first Bleu members to sign the famous memorial to Sir John Macdonald, demand ing the pardon of Riel, under a threat

COL. OUIMET. of withdrawing their support from the government. This document led to the creation of the Rielite party, whose subse quent tactics and proceedings in the province of Quebec and the house of commons will be remembered.

Although Col. Ouimet voted for Mr. Landry's motion of censure, he refrained from speaking on it, and continued to support the government on all other matters. Before the close of the session he was not classed with the bolters, and his complete return to Sir John's allegiance is attested by the cabinet's action in selecting him for the speakership.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

The Education Bill Before the House-It Gets a Second Reading.

Toronto, April 13. - Rarely has a more dignified argument been addressed to the legislative assembly than that of Hon. G. W. Ross, university federation. He contended that as we devote nearly $4,000,000 a year to public schools, and almost half a million to high schools, we justify a generous appropriation for university purposes. Mr. Ross also emphasised the importance of placing a provincial university on a level with the best universities of the United States, and showed how inadequate was its endowment as compared with the financial resources of the institutions. He detailed the various steps leading up to the agreement for federation. The whole speech abounded in statistics, illustrations and apt historical references, and was characterised by the ut most simplicity of explanation. Dr. Mc-Laughlin voiced the unanimous judgment of the house when he declared that no greater speech has ever been delivered in the assem-

Mr. Craig, of East Durham, supported the minister of education. The proposed federation would promote economy and efficiency in the work of higher education; would elevate the general standard of learning; would abate sectarian prejudices and make more liberal minded citizens; and would ensure for the young men of Ontario facilities for a higher education equal to any provided on the continent. Mr. Craig protested against the proposition to vest in McMaster university a degree-conferring power. Dr. McLaughlin devoted his attention to the financial aspect of the situation. He argued that at least $93,000 per year would be required to ensure the effective operation of the enlarged university, and to provide the necessary library and appliances; that the present income was but $65,000; and and that $28,000 additional must be provided to give a satisfactory effect to the propo-

Mr. Field, of West Northumberland, ably presented the views of the friends of Victoria, who oppose its removal from Cobourg for local and others reasons. Dr. Chamberlain, of Dundas, spoke at length in praise of the work of Queen's and against building up the provincial university at the expense of the other institutions. Mr. Gibson, of Hamilton, offered a power ful defence of the federation proposals. Mr. Meredith took the broad ground that it was the duty of the state to provide for the adequate equipment of the state university, and that no minor consideration should be allowed to turn the state from this responsibility.

The closing speech of the debate, delivered by Mr. Harcourt, was one of the best of the evening. The assembly consented at midnight, without a division, to the second reading of the bill. By an amendment to the provincial trea surer's bill respecting interest on drainage debentures provision is made against any reduction in the rate of interest on sums a year in arrear at the 1st of January, 1886. WASHINGTON, April 13. - An exciting scene took place in the supreme court, growing out of a habeas corpus case for the possession of a child, abandoned by its parents shortly after its birth and raised by its grandparents. The trial was very exciting. Mr. Kile, parent of the child, approached ex Congressman John Ambler Smith, counsel for the grandparents, and notified him in the court room that he intended to kill him on sight. Mr. Smith replied that he did not come armed into a court room, but would arm himself and discuss the matter outside Kile then left, when a friend of his advanced on Mr Smith, struck him with a stick, and felled him. The bailiffs rushed, and a scene of confusion ensued. It was beightened by the mother of the child attacking and clawing Mr. Smith in the face.
