WHAT SHALL WE WEAR?

A NEW AND ORIGINAL COSTUME FOR OUT DOOR SPORTS.

New Styles Introduced in Dresses for Young Girls—A House Dress, in Princess Shape, That May Be Either Simply or Elaborately Trimmed.

A house dress that is simple enough to be thoroughly comfortable, and yet not too negligee, is a necessity in every lady's wardrobe, and is never more thoroughly appreciated than during the spring and summer months, when a perfectly close fitting dress is often irksome. The princess shape is susceptible of so many modifications and its possibilities in the way of graceful garniture are so great that it is more often the choice than any other style.

A COMFORTABLE HOUSE DRESS.

Demarest recommends the dress shown in the accompanying cut, which is of princess shape, as a desirable model, and makes the following suggestions in regard to it: "It is almost tight fitting, with the fullness in the back contributed by plaits laid in the back and side form seams. The front is double breasted and embellished by plaits so laid as to impart a vest effect (see front view). The back view gives a good idea of the manner in which the plaits in the skirt are turned.

The model is neither too dressy for inexpensive goods nor too simple for rich ones; it is the garniture that will impart the required degree of dressiness or simplicity. It will look well made in cambric or gingham or Chambery, with only a plain row of embroidery down the edge, or even a bias band of either figured or solid colored goods, whichever is in contrast with the dress itself; and the vest facing can match the trimming. Cashmere or surah or pongee or summer silk could be used for it, and trimmed with black or cream lace, according to the goods, and satin or faille ribbon could be employed for the bow, and a piece of the same ribbon or facing the middle of the front; and it might even be used for a tea gown, of plush or brocaded silk garnished with satin ribbon and fine lace.

Dresses for Young Girls.

The newest white and muslin dresses for young girls are with Gretchen guimpe of embroidery or lace, with a full skirt, either plain or with bands of velvet or moire ribbon to simulate stripes. Very wide sash ribbon, sometimes fully half a yard in width, and formed of heavy corded silk, are tied behind. White and gold and pink and silver are among the choice combinations of color favored by young ladies for evening wear. Chartreuse green and pale pink is also a fashionable combination, but is becoming only to the rosy blonde type.

Picturesque Suit for Out Door Sports.

Numbered with new costumes entirely original in design and very attractive in appearance is the Tuxedo suit, introduced this spring and especially adapted for out door exercises. The Tuxedo is a regularly knitted costume, in which are employed the finest of worsted materials, showing contrasting colors.

THE TUXEDO SUIT.

The suit includes a cap, blouse and full fashioned skirt in patterns to match throughout. (See cut.) The texture and fashion of the Tuxedo renders it an admirable dress for all ladies and misses who indulge in lawn tennis, rowing, archery or other out door sports that require a free use of limbs and muscles. Unlike most thoroughly comfortable outfits, the Tuxedo is a decidedly picturesque and graceful dress. These costumes are made up in all the new colors. Pleasing combinations are navy blue, with stripes of white; royal blue, with stripes of scarlet; black, with orange stripes, etc., etc.

Fashions in Jewelry.

The Jeweler's Circular is authority for the following statements: All gold jewelry is fashionable; all silver jewelry is fashionable; enameled jewelry is fashionable; so is that showing an elaborately carved finish; pierced work is fashionable; so is the gold wire decoration; there is a demand for ornaments of Roman gold, and an equally active one for ornaments of bright finish. The association of two or more metals in one object remains in favor; the same may be said for ornaments showing different colored golds. A combination of two or more styles of finish on the same ornament is of frequent occurrence.

While flower and fly pins remain as popular as ever, some of the new brooches borrow their designs from the old time "breast pins" that have been handed down for several generations. Such a brooch is the wheel of a filigree gold, set with pearls and turquoise. Limerick enamel paintings, mounted in quaint gold or silver settings, have gained prominence, as have similar paintings set in a circle of brilliant pearls or pearls for brooches and bracelets.

There are any number of hybrid affairs that can hardly be classed as lace pins, and yet are not, strictly speaking, brooches. These are, for the most part, attractive ornaments, and that is all that is required. In illustration may be mentioned a pin representing, in gold filigree, a fern leaf with rolled edges, in which rests a gem set lady bug.

Fashion Notes.

Lace dresses are a conspicuous feature this season, especially the all black lace ones. Tea gowns for afternoons at home are made of soft silks and woolsens, with adjusted backs and loose fronts. Black and gold Oriental nets are novel and elegant.

One can hardly be out of fashion as regards wraps, so great is the variety in these out door garments this spring.

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

Facts, Theories and Experiences in Every Day Life.

Dr. Hedges, of Plainfield, N. J., has declared against toasted bread. He speaks of it as "an innocent looking thing, and yet, like the Grecian horse before the walls of Troy, it works and havoc when once inside." He gives facts from his own experience to show that toast is not at all times innocent and free from the capacity to do harm as is generally believed. It is, he claims, dangerous in gastro-intestinal diseases. He has found it positively dangerous in convalescence from typhoid fever, dysentery and other intestinal affections, and relates cases in which, the patients being fed with toast, severe relapses occurred, one of which proved fatal in a few hours.

"It would seem as if the gritty particles of charcoal, insoluble in the juices in the stomach, are shoved up and down over the irritable mucous membrane like so much powdered glass, and, finding their way into the intestine, scratch the inflamed Peyer's patches, renewing the inflammatory action and engendering perforation."

A Deception of the Senses.

Marryatt's story of the old sailor who used to wrap his two wooden legs in flannel because he felt rheumatic pains in them, need not be considered altogether extravagant. It is said that after a part of a limb has been amputated a person may feel as if it were still entire, or may feel pain in the foot when the leg has been taken off far above the ankle. Physiologists explain this as follows: The severed nerve in the stump is irritated and causes pain; as this irritation in the nerve trunk has hitherto been caused by irritation of its filaments in the foot and leg, the mind continues to believe that the sensation comes thence. Another case of referred sensation occurs when a new nose is formed by bringing a flap of skin from the forehead down over the nasal bones. The flap is not entirely severed, but retains its connection with the deeper tissues at a point between the eyes. For some time after the operation any irritation of the nose is referred by the mind to that part from which the skin was taken. If a fly crawls over the nose it appears to the patient to be creeping across the forehead.

Moistening the Air of Rooms.

In a close, unventilated room, says a scientific writer, the impure air may be easier tolerated by the lungs when saturated with moisture; but, with the constant supply of fresh out of door air with which every apartment should be supplied, any artificial addition of aqueous vapor is both unnecessary and useless; and only in very exceptional cases is it likely to produce any beneficial effect upon the health of the persons breathing it.

Useful Hints.

Nine-tenths of the persons who suffer from sleeplessness have cold feet. The remedy suggests itself.

A mild sage tea with a little bay rum added is one of the best of preventives for hair falling out.

Electricity and Hygiene.

Sanitary science, says Popular Science News, now claims electricity as an ally and helper. The introduction of the electric light is, according to this authority, to be encouraged on hygienic grounds. Whether the light is in some cases injurious to the eyes is not fully settled; but if this be the case, it is to be regarded as a disadvantage incident to the present rudimentary state of the enterprise, and sure to be obviated by improved appliances. Meanwhile we know that the use of the new light in churches, public halls, theatres and similar places of assembly has been of immense advantage to the purity of the air, hitherto vitiated by the combustion of gas, oil and kindred agents that depend on atmospheric oxygen for their illuminating power. No doubt readers have noticed that the air in a large room lighted by electricity is both purer and cooler than in one lighted by gas or oil.

When a man rises from a humble beginning to wealth and distinction, he is admired and courted by his fellow-men as a self-made man. If a woman rises in the world from the rank of a chambermaid or thereabout, the rest of womankind never forgive her. Funny, isn't it?

Special Attention

Should always be given to the hair and scalp. Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic," used once in a while, will keep the hair and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. In cases of baldness where the roots are not gone, it will produce a good head of hair. It will restore gray hair to its original color, prevent all falling of the hair, and remove all traces of dandruff. A. Dorenwend, sole manufacturer, Toronto. J. G. King and A. P. Chown, druggists, agents for Kingston.

Many persons in Pittston are using Ely's Cream Balm, a Catarrh remedy, with most satisfactory results. A lady is recovering the sense of smell which she had not enjoyed for fifteen years. She had given up her case as incurable. Mr. Barber has used it in his family and recommends it very highly. A Tunkhannock lawyer, known to many of our readers, testifies that he was cured of partial deafness. —Pittston, Pa., Gazette.

Overworked.

"My husband strained himself with overwork, causing a large swelling in the groin. He suffered great agony, which doctors failed to relieve; he could not eat nor sleep. R.B.B. quickly cured him. He says he never had such quick relief in his life." Extract from a letter from Mrs. George Bask, Cooksville, Ont.
