THE DAILY WHIG.

"Opifer per Orbem Dicor."

If people will marry only to be divorced, and some trial of their grievances is necessary to their legal separation, we again suggest the establishment of a divorce court. The idea of making of the senate chamber a sort of huge machine through which scandals are to filter is repulsive to say the least of it. And the senators, what of them? They are being demoralized, and, most remarkable of all, they are submitting to it without a murmur! Another evidence of the depravity of human nature.

The New York papers are much concerned about the fate of a woman who has been sentenced to hang for murder. The propriety of such a mode of punishment is questioned and debated. Towards a settlement of the discussion this thought should go a long way: that women want to be placed on an equality with man in every other respect, they are on the same level and acquitted by the same motives when they commit crime, and in the matter of penalties they should remain on the same level. The commandment, "Thou shalt not kill" was not made for man alone.

OFFICIAL OVERWORKED.

There is current a rumour to the effect that Mr. W. Irving contemplates resigning the office of city engineer. We are not surprised thereat. We know something of the toil he has been enduring, something of the long days and nights he has spent at weary work, something of the increase of his responsibilities, and of the never-ending tug of duty, and it is not at all remarkable that he should fall sick and seek retirement. Mr. Irving is not the proper stamp of a person for a civic official. He is conscientious, industrious, eager to fulfill the obligations devolving upon him, solicitous about the honest and efficient performance of the work of which he has the oversight, and because he is all this the council has seen fit to load him down and use him like a dray horse. They don't seem to know how to treat a good man, and they will only discover their absolute folly when it is too late. There is a difference between one who undertakes to do anything and everything and accomplish nothing, and one who feels that he ought to execute all he is asked to do, finds it too much for him, and, in the struggle for success, breaks down in health. There is no sense in referring to Mr. Irving some questions about which he has had to worry. There are other officers about the city hall who would be the better of some exercise, and why they are spared while the city engineer is having the life squeezed out of him is one of those questions which the council had better deal with at an early date.

WILFUL PERVERSION.

It seems to be simply impossible for the leading papers of the United States to discuss Canadian affairs intelligently. Nor does it appear to be so much a question of "can't" as of "won't." The misrepresentation of the press upon some questions is simply unparalleled, and in this misrepresentation it is rather astounding that the Advertiser, of Philadelphia, published for the benefit of cultured people, should take a hand. That paper declares that Sir Charles Tupper sees that commercial union between Canada and the United States can only be secured by the assimilation of the customs of the two countries, that such would be a benefit to the mother country and as inseparable, and that he, therefore, favours reciprocity, or the freedom of trade in as many articles as possible. Its nonsense culminates in the following observation: "After all it is not so much the position of what Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper want to do as of what they must do. They have no majority in parliament without the support of a large body of Quebec members, who have no British sympathy, and who will not support the leaders in voting down commercial union because it may be in some way disagreeable to English wishes and plans." This fiction, and the argument accompanying it, are too comical to call for serious comment. Then we find Harper's Weekly, a journal of fair mind in domestic politics, solemnly deduces a moral from the alleged remark of O'Brien to Mayor Carson that he did not want his artillery or his help. There never was the slightest show of such words or feeling here on the agitator's part; on the contrary he thanked the mayor for his efforts at protection, and as he left the steamer's dock, eight hours having passed for reflection, cheers were given by his party for the local civic authorities in acknowledgment of their energetic action.

SERMONS THAT TELL.

The people of Winnipeg have one minister, Rev. Mr. Silcox, who is not afraid of speaking out his mind. He is not disposed to hold his peace when the interests of the people are being attacked. He has but one principle for his guidance, the principle of right and justice, and against injustice and unrighteousness he rebels every time regardless of the consequences. Witness his remarks upon the recent attempt of monopolists to crush out the independence of the people of Manitoba, backed by a government upon whom a wealthy corporation appears to exercise unlimited influence:

"What is our situation to-day. It is this: As a province, and as men, we have been humiliated and insulted. We have been spat on and trampled on by a few bloated capitalists who have suddenly become rich. We break no pledges, we cancel no contracts, we repudiate no debt, we disown no obligations, we ask no favors. We simply resolve to use the freedom that our constitution and laws give us. But, because this means freedom from the hard and merciless grip of a corporation which has shown itself as despotic and tyrannical as any despotism that ever blighted nations in the older lands; because it conflicts with the avaricious schemes of this monster monopoly, which has no body to kick or soul to damn, we are threatened with civic annihilation. The Dominion of Canada has dishonored herself by cringing to these unjust capitalists. They have pocketed with complacent infamy the degrading insult given to the people of Manitoba, and have joined the oppressors in binding the fetters more firmly on the prostrate province. But what can we expect from legislators, some of whom are bought body and bones. They had no conscience or principle to sell. Or from ministers of the crown, whose wives were bejewelled by the gold of the people's oppressors. Why should the pulpit denounce the Egyptian Pharaohs when we have worse pharaohs in our very midst. I remember how a confederation in the olden times was broken up. The haughty Rehobam refused to lighten the burdens of a taxation that allowed the few to revel in wealth while the many toiled in poverty. He insolently threatened to add to rather than diminish their burdens. The result was that ten of the twelve tribes revolted. The confederation was broken up and God approved the action of the revolters. They had too much manhood to bow their necks to the oppressor. These things were written for our learning.

Fellow-citizens, God has been good to this land, but we may well utter the prayer of the Psalmist, "Have me not to mine oppressor." It was never God's will that the many should toil to enrich the few. The Bible is the people's book and champions the people's cause. I stand with the book on the side of the people. The world was made for the people and not for a few titled lords. I teach the duty of showing all respect and honor to those who occupy high stations in our land. I am not a communist nor a socialist, but I am with the people and for the people. While with heart and voice I sing "God Save the Queen," I also reverently ask:

When wilt thou save the people? O! God of mercy, when? The people, Lord, the people, Not thrones and crowns, but men! Flowers of thy heart, O God, are they. Let them not pass like weeds away. Their heritage, a sunless day! God save the people.

My hope for this land and for every land is in the fact that God is a God of justice and a God of liberty as well as a God of love. To your tents, O Israel!"

There can be no doubt of the burning indignation lying back of these words, which, though offensive to railway men and legislators, are spoken with a manliness that must have effect. Political sermons are not always a good taste, but it is surely the duty of the preacher to oppose oppression and any interference with the reasonable exercise of freedom. Practically the people of Manitoba have been bound hand and foot, and unable to help themselves except as they were permitted to do so by a monopoly that is illegal and should not exist. The people have replied in fitting terms to the insolence of the oppressors: they say they will be free though the heavens fall, and they proceed to break their shackles. That Rev. Mr. Silcox should take his stand by their side is only to be expected, and that he denounces a public wrong in the strongest language shows that he is serving in the sense to be expected of one in his position. Sermons such as he has preached are of incalculably greater benefit than the sermons of men who are indiscriminate in their remarks and really hit and hurt no party. There can be no mistaking the men at whom Rev. Mr. Silcox aims his shafts, and if others would be equally effective in their pulpit ministrations they must be more direct and pointed. Better to say nothing than that to which no heed is paid because undeserving of a passing thought.

Great Possibilities Before Him. Montreal Herald.

It was stated that Mr. Dunn was to be appointed landing waiter. He ought to aspire to something higher. If he remains in Queen's he may yet be able to count himself into the house of commons as easily as he returned Mr. Baird.

'Twas a Crazy Idea. Toronto World.

The proposition of Dr. Sproule, M.P., to have a general jail delivery in honor of the Queen's jubilee, has failed to excite any enthusiasm—outside of the jails. There is a popular impression that there are already enough jail birds at large to supply the existing demand.

Don't Like His Own Medicine. Hamilton Times.

It seems poetic justice that O'Donovan Rossa, who has breathed threatenings and slaughter against so many of his fellow beings, should now be compelled to ask police protection because he fears that some one is about to slay him. Rossa does not take kindly to the assassination trade when it comes to himself.

Wasting Disorders of Children. Scott's Emulsion of pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is unequalled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh and strength upon it is very wonderful. SEASONABLE POETRY.

How dear to my head was the Fur Cap of winter. The nice curly cap that now I am fain To swap for the sable and felt newcomer, Which, because it's so light I return to again. But like to the Crofters' thatched hut of Kilkenny, That the soft summer breeze may creep thro' any day, Is the welcome Straw Hat, because lighter than any, And cheaper; it costs but a quarter in May. And GALLOWAY'S is the place to get it.

The above soliloquy forced itself upon me in consequence of the return of spring weather, and as others sing it let them remember that GALLOWAY sang it first, and give him a call at 84 PRINCESS STREET.
