THE JUBILEE YEAR.

Irish landed at New York; and of the first 100,000 who left their native island it is estimated that 19,000 died on the ocean or soon after landing. A wail of rage and anguish went over the island, and famine was followed close by conspiracy and rebellion. The uprising was suddenly put down, then followed raids, arrests and state trials, ending in the transportation of many men like John Mitchell, Thomas Francis Meagher and William Smith O'Brien. But an era of milder government had set in, and these men escaped or were pardoned. In 1840 began the war with China, commonly called the "Opium War," which English moralists severely condemn, and, indeed, the nation only became involved in it through being misled by her representatives in the east. The result was that China paid indemnity of £4,500,000 sterling to England, ceded the island of Hong Kong and opened five ports to British trade. During the same year England joined with Russia, Austria and rrussia in a guarantee to maintain the integrity of Turkey, and pursuant to this treaty these powers put down a rebellion in Egypt. In January, 1843, the British suffered a frightful humiliation in Afghanistan, their entire army of 4,500, with 12,000 entire followers, being destroyed by an up the fifthe people. MARCHIONESS AND MARQUIS OF LORNE, Crimea, where they were joined by the Turks, and the tedious siege of Sebastopol began. The battles of Balaklava and Inkermann and the wonderful, "charge of the Light Brigade" were incidents of this war. The sufferings of the British troops and the general inefficiency of the commissary department showed that the sinews of British war administration had been relaxed by the long peace since Waterloocalled peace because they had no wars with other than half civilized peoples. In this war Florence Nightingale began the system of nurse and sanitary organization which is such a pleasing feature of recent wars. Peace was made by the treaty of Paris March 30, 1856; but all the settlements made in it have been unsettled by subsequent events.

In 1857 the Sepoys, native troops in the British service, rebelled in India and massacred many hundred English, including women and children. They were subdued and punished with extreme severity. In 1856 began another war with China; the French and British fleets bombarded Canton; the Chinese made trade concessions to both nations, and have since maintained ministers at the courts of other countries. In 1858 Japan granted the rights of trade in her port to Great Britain, and after that to other nations. In 1861 the American civil war began, and the failure of the cotton supply brought misery to nearly a million British laborers; but after the terrible winter of 1863-64 partial supplies came from India and elsewhere. The British authorities allowed vessels to be built in their ports for the southern Confederacy, which became privateers, destroying American merchant vessels. For eight years the two nations were hostile in feeling, but in 1871 the matters were arranged by treaty, and a court of arbitration at Geneva, early in 1872, decided that England should pay the United States $15,000,000 damages. The dispute about the island of San Juan, in the channel between Vancouver's island and Oregon, was referred to the Emperor of Germany, who decided that it belonged to the United States, whereupon the British evacuated it. In the early part of 1861 the queen's mother, the Duchess of Kent, died, and on Dec. 16 that year she lost her

The American war was soon followed by the Fenian troubles in Ireland, largely excited by Irish-Americans, veterans ... our war, and these continued at short intervals for several years. In 1870 the Protestant church establishment in Ireland was abolished, chiefly by the exertions of Mr. Gladstone, and since Jan. 1, 1871, the tithes for that church have not been collected. In 1870-1, also, the elementary education acts were put in force in England and Wales, by which parents are compelled to school their children between 5 and 13 years of age. In 1872 voting by ballot was established. In 1874 Mr. Gladstone and the Whigs went out of power and Mr. Disraeli became prime minister, with a Tory or Conservative government, and soon after began the heated struggle over Irish affairs, which is just now in its most exciting stage. Meanwhile, in 1868, had occurred the war with Abyssinia, in which Sir Robert Napier, with 10,000 men, captured King Theodore's capital, the king committing suicide. And now England became still further complicated with the affairs of Egypt and the east. On May 1, 1876, at the instance of the premier, Queen Victoria was proclaimed empress of India, and on Aug. 13 Mr. Disraeli was raised to the peerage for his services, becoming Lord Beaconsfield. Sir Stafford Northcote succeeded him as leader of the house of commons,

All this time the "eastern question," so called, continued to agitate Europe and embarrass the rulers of England; Lord Salisbury and Sir Henry Elliot represented England at a conference held with other great powers at Constantinople, but nothing was settled. In 1875-6 there was war between Turkey and some of her rebellious Christian subjects, led by Servia, and on April 24, 1877, Russia once more declared war against Turkey. After some preliminary defeats the Russians swept all before them, and their armies were almost within sight of Constantinople when England interposed. Bismarck invited the great powers to a conference, which met at Berlin, Lord Benconsfield re-

Stories of Swill Milk.

The swill milk fraud is a perennial sensation in New York city. Disgusting as the newspaper accounts of the swill stables are, they scarcely do justice to the subject. I once spent a very risky and laborious month among the muscular "milkmaids," who carry a club instead of a milking stool, and whose muscles are more of a fortune to them than their faces, and I am willing to admit that when my job was done and in print, I fought shy of the neighborhood of the stables for a good many months. Long before my time, Albert Berghaus had explored the same ground, and pictured it in Frank Leslie's Newspaper in all its grisly horror. Since m; time other reporters have done good work at it, but swill milk continues to be drawn and sold in spite of the revelations the press makes. I suppose a healthy person can drink the stuff with comparative immunity, but it must be perilous to sickly and weak organisms, as those of invalids and children. I knew an Englishman, a clever inventor, some years ago, who came to this country and went to live in a big cheap bounding house here. He had a wife and child-a lusty, beefy, British baby, that seemed as a und as one of its father's machines. The child was fed on milk procured in the home. It became unaccountably ill, and at the end of a hot summer it died. The father, who was a skillful chemist, had his suspicious directed to the milk. He analyzed it and foun i it pure poison. He knew nothing of swill mick, and believed the deleteriousness of the fail to be caused by a foreign poison. But having traced it to the dairy and witnessed the method of its production, his eyes were opened. The swill milk man came down with a handsome sum in compromise of a threatened daniages suit. He did not dare risk an exposure in court.-Alfred Trumble in New York

What is a Cold in the Head?

Medical authorities say it is due to atmospheric germs, uneven clothing of the body, rapid cooling when in prespiration, &c. The important point is, that a cold in the head is a genuine rhinitis, an inflammation of the lining membrane of the nose, which, when unchecked, is cerfain to produce a catarrhal condition, for catarrh is essentially a "cold" which nature is no longer able to "resolve" or throw off. Ely's Cream Balm has proved its superiority, and sufferers from cold in the head should resort to it before that common ailment becomes sealed and ends in obstinate catarrh.

Nature Makes no Mistake.

Nature's own remedy for bowel complaints, cholera morbus, cholic, cramps, vomiting, sea-sickness, cholera infantum, diarrhoa, dysentery, and all diseases of a like nature belonging to the summer season, is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which can be obtained of all dealers in medicine.

To Avoid Baldness or Grey Hair.

Use Dr. Dorenwend's Great German Hair Magic. It keeps the scalp clear and free from dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.
