PAUL IN THE BASKET.

I was the youngest of a large family of children. My parents were neither rich nor poor; four of the sons wanted collegiate education, and four obtained it, but not without great home struggle. We never heard the old people say once that they were denying themselves to effect this, but I remember now that my parents always looked tired. I don't think they ever got rested until they lay down in the Somerville cemetery. Mother would sit down in the evening and say: "Well, I don't know what makes me feel so tired!" Father would fall immediately to sleep, seated by the evening stand, overcome with the day's fatigues. One of the four brothers, after preaching the gospel for about fifty years, entered upon his heavenly rest. Another of the four is on the other side of the earth, a missionary of the cross. Two of us are in this land in the holy ministry, and I think all of us are willing to acknowledge our obligation to the old folks at home. About twenty-one years ago the one, and about twenty-three years ago the other, put down the burdens of this life, but they still hold the rope. O, men and women here assembled, you brag sometimes how you have fought your way in the world, but I think there have been helpful influences that you have never fully acknowledged. Has there not been some influence in your early or present home that the world cannot see? Does there not reach to you from among the New England hills, or from western prairie, or from southern plantation, or from English or Scottish or Irish home a cord of influence that has kept you right when you would have gone astray, and which, after you had made a crooked track, recalled you? The rope may be as long as thirty years, or five hundred miles long, or three thousand miles long, but hands that went out of mortal sight long ago still hold the rope. You want a very swift horse, and you need to rowel him with sharpest spurs, and to let the reins lie loose upon the neck, and to give a shout to the racer, if you are going to ride out of reach of your mother's prayers. Why, a ship crossing the Atlantic in six days can't sail away from that. A sailor finds them on the lookout as he takes his place, and finds them on the mast as he climbs the ratlines to disentangle a rope in the tempest, and finds them swinging on the hammock when he turns in. Why not be frank and acknowledge it-the most of us would long ago have been dashed to pieces had not gracious and loving hands steadily, lovingly and mightily held the rope. But there must come a time when we shall find out who these Damascenes were who lowered Paul in the basket, and greet them and all those who have rendered to God and the world unrecognized and unrecorded services. That is going to be one of the glad excitements of heaven, the hunting up and picking out of those who did great good on earth and got no credit for it. Here the church has been going on for nineteen centuries, and yet the world has not recognized the services of the people in that Damascus balcony. Charles G. Finney said to a dying Christian: "Give my love to St. Paul when you meet him." When you and I meet him, as we will, I shall ask him to introduce me to those people who got him out of the Damascene peril. We go into long sermons to prove that we will be able to recognize people in heaven, when there is one reason we fail to present, and that is better than all-God will introduce us. We shall have them all pointed out. You would not be guilty of the impoliteness of having friends in your parlor not introduced, and celestial politeness will demand that we be made acquainted with all the heavenly household. What rehearsal of old times and recital of stirring reminiscences! If others fail to give introduction, God will take us through, and before our first twenty-four hours in heaven-if it were calculated by earthly timepieces-have passed, we shall meet and talk with more heavenly celebrities than in our entire mortal state we met with earthly celebrities. Many who made great noise of usefulness will sit on the last seat by the front door of the heavenly temple, while right up within arm's reach of the heavenly throne will be many who, though they could not preach themselves or do great exploits for God, nevertheless held

Come, let us go right up and accost those on this circle of heavenly thrones. Surely they must have killed in battle a million men. Surely they must have been buried with all the cathedrals sounding a dirge and all the towers of all the cities tolling the national grief. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I lived by choice the unmarried daughter in an humble home that I might take care of my parents in their old age, and I endured without complaint all their querulousness and administered to all their wants for twenty years."

Let us pass on round the circle of thrones. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I was for thirty years a Christian invalid, and suffered all the while, occasionally writing a note of sympathy for those worse off than I, and was general confident of all those who had trouble, and once in a while I was strong enough to make a garment for that poor family in the back lane." Pass on to another throne. Who art thou, mighty one of heaven? "I was the mother who raised a whole family of children for God, and they are out in the world Christian merchants, Christian mechanics, Christian wives, and I have had full reward of all my toil." Let us pas on in the circle of thrones. "I had a Sabbath school class, and they were always on my heart, and they all entered the kingdom of God, and I am waiting for their arrival."

But who art thou, the mighty one of heaven on this other throne? "In time of bitter persecution I owned a house in Damascus, a house on the wall. A man who preached Christ was hounded from street to street and I hid him from the assassins, and when I found them breaking in my house and I could no longer keep him safely, I advised him to flee for his life, and a basket was let down over the wall with the maltreated man in it and I was one who helped hold the rope." And I said: "Is that all?" And he answered: "That is all." And while I was lost in amazement I heard a strong voice that sounded as though it might once have been hoarse from many exposures and triumphant as though it might have belonged to one of the martyrs, and it said: "Not many mighty, not many noble are called, but God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty, and base things of the world and things which are despised hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not to bring to naught things which are, that no flesh should glory in His presence." And I looked to see from whence the voice come, and lo! it was the very one who had said: "Through a window in a banket was I let down by the wall."

Henceforth think of nothing as insignif leant. A little thing may decide your all.

A Unnarger put out from England for New York. It was well equipped, but in putting up a stove in the pilot bex a nail was driven too near the compass. You know how that nail would affect the compass. The ship's officer, deceived by that distracted compass, put the ship 200 miles off her right course, and suddenly the man on the look out cried: "Land ho!" and the ship was halted within a few yards of her demolition on Nantucket shoals. A sixpenny nail came near wrecking a Cunarder. Small ropes hold mighty destinies.

THE BRITISH WHIGHTUESDAY, JULY D.

A minister seated in Boston at his table, lacking a word puts his hand behind his head and tilts back his chair to think, and the ceiling falls and crushes the table and would have crushed him. A minister in Jamaica, at night by the light of an insect, called the candle fly, is kept from stepping over a precipice a hundred feet. F. W. Robertson, the celebrated English clergyman, said that he entered the ministry from a train of circumstances started by the barking of a dog. Had the wind blown one way on a certain day, the Spanish Inquisition would have been established in England; but it blew the other way, and that dropped the accursed institution with 75,000 tons of shipping to the bottom of the sea, or flung the splintered logs on the rocks.

Nothing unimportant in your life or mine. Three noughts placed on the right side of the figure one make a thousand, and six noughts on the right side of the figure one a million, and our nothingness placed on the right side may be augmentation illimitable. All the ages of time and eternity affected by the basket let down from a Damascus balcony.

What the Ne.: spapers Say of People Whom the World Knows.

Joaquin Miller has sold his log cabin in Washington for $5,100, and its new owner has rented it to Mr. Adee, assistant secretary of state.

Mrs. Cleveland's shoes worn in the Adirondacks were a pair of No. 5s, for which she paid $5. At least such is the exceedingly important statement made by a Washington shoe dealer.

Sitting Bull is in mourning for the death of his eldest daughter. He is at Standing Rock agency, D. T., and endeavored to show his great grief by slaughter ing all his old enemies. A score of them were obliged to flee the camp for safety.

Mr. Alma-Tadema has designed a piano of ebony and oak for a citizen of New York, with decorative details of cedar, boxwood and ivy, and with a long, low picture of Mr. Poynter, R. A., over the keyboard. The cost is said to be $35,000.

Anna Dickinson is slowly recovering from a dangerous illness caused by over work and worry. She has had a parrow escape from death. A long rest and change of scene are needed to restore her to her old time vigor and energy. She is now at Scranton, Pa.

The czar will soon take a journey into the Don Cossack country, during which he will present the czarowitz to the Cossacks. It is a ride of over 1,200 miles and a journey surrounded with considera: ble danger, notwithstanding the fact that the route is well guarded by the Russian police.

June 27.

Col. Fred Grant, the eldest son of the late general, is said to be developing into a man very much like his father, and in proof of this, it is told that he is never seen without a cigar in his mouth. He is a dull looking young man. His eyes have no brightness, his features no characteristics, his complexion no color, and he seems to be simply fat and dull.

It is said that it was due directly to Mrs. Grant that the peculations of Charles L. Webster & Co.'s bookkeeper were discovered. Mrs. Grant has an eye, nay, two eyes, to "the main chance," and her contract with the publisher stipulated that at any time she could send an expert to examine the books. This she did from time to time, and it was her expert who discovered the discrepancy during one of his periodic examinations.

The Snake Understood English.

It is related that some Americans recently going through the Jardin des Plantes of Paris stopped to look at a big rattlesnake in a cage. It lay motionless, apparently asleep, but when two of the party who lingered behind began to speak English, it moved, lifted its head and gave every sign of interest. They told their companions that the snake understood English. The whole party then returned to the cage. The snake was apparently asleep again. They conversed in French, but the snake made no movement: then the ladies began to speak in English. The snake started, lifted its head, and showed the same alertness as before at the sounds. The rattlesnake proved, on linquiry, to have come from Virginia. - New York Sun.

An Unsuccessful Attempt. It is "so English, you know;" but still the attempt of the dudes to introduce the style of wearing white cuffs and ecllars with colored shirts has not been successful. One shirt with broad scarlet bands and another with bright blue polka dots have been worn on the avenue with white collars, presumedly to advertise the style; but the repeated inquiry: "Why don't you get collars to match your shirt?" and the undisguised suspicion that old white collars were being utilized by the wearers proved fatal to the innovation. A style more likely to be adopted is that displayed by Fred May, who has shirt, collars, cuffs and waistcoats of the same patterns of heavy linen or marseilles. This is expensive, looks cool and is vastly becoming .-New York World.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS-If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headach e relief from pain and anguish to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorating the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff) to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered. CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis and Asth

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dy CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Menngitis, &c.

From Symnes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hali, Simla, Jan. 5, 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr.J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility we must question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale, we fancy that their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances "ad infinitum" of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhosa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Cholera, Diarrhosa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm Menngitis, &c. power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of the opinion that the substitution of of any other than Collis Browne's is a DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST, TO PRESCRIBER AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are, Sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharmacy Society of Great Britain His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION-Vice Chancellor Sir Page Wood stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNEWAS undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodynk that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sw orn to. - See "Times," July 13, 1864. Sold in bottles at 1s. 1id., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government Stamp.
