MORSE'S GLYCEROLE OF CELERY COMPOUND New Remedy for Teething Infants and Adults suffering from Nervous Diseases, Etc.

See following letter we publish by permission of Mr. Morse:

INFANT'S HOME AND INFIRMARY, TORONTO, 29th December, 1882. HAZEN MORSE, Esq. Dear Sir, - I must thank you for the bottles of Celery Compound, I have used it especially with the teething infants, and have found it a certain remedy for feverishness and every form of indigestion, and for the weak and sickly ones it was invaluable as a tonic, and I shall have the greatest pleasure in recommending its use to everyone. I wish you every success. I beg to remain, yours very respectfully, M. WHITE, Head Nurse.

We have on hand constantly a fresh and complete stock of

is a universal and most troublesome disorder. It causes Headache, Mental Depression, impairs the Sight and Hearing, destroys the Appetite, and, when long continued, causes Enlargement of the Liver, Inflammation of the Bowels, and Piles. Constipation is speedily cured by Ayer's Pills.

For a number of months I was troubled with Constiveness, in consequence of which I suffered from Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, and a disordered liver. My eyes also troubled me. I was compelled to wear a shade over them, and, at times, was unable to bear exposure to the light. I was entirely three boxes of Ayer's Pills. I have no hesitation in pronouncing this medicine to be the best cathartic ever made. - James Keeles, Poland, Ohio.

I suffered from Constipation, and, consequently, from Headache, Indigestion, and Piles, for years. Ayer's Pills, which I took at the suggestion of a friend, have given me effectual relief. I commenced taking this remedy two months ago, and am now free from Constipation, the removal of which has caused my other troubles to disappear, and greatly improved my general health. - W. Keeler, Amherst, Mass.

I suffered from Constipation, which assumed such an obstinate form that I feared it would cause a stoppage of the bowels. Two boxes of Ayer's Pills cured me completely. - D. Burke, Saco, Me.

DOB BEN'S BONANZA.

Something Better Than Silver or Gold, Lead, Diamonds or Copper.

The great need in this country is water. "If I had water," some one is heard frequently to say, "I could make a million." The artesian well craze is on, and in many localities parties are boring thousands of feet in the hope of striking something that will pay better than gold.

Bob Ben is a settler here who does not say much, but who keeps his eyes open the greater part of the time. He is not unduly ambitious, and yet he aspires to wealth, and it looks now as though he had reached the highway leading thereto. Up in the Socorro mountains is an old mine shaft, abandoned long ago. Bob Ben knew about it, as every other old timer did. He has been in the habit of visiting it occasionally, as most of his acquaintances have also. "You can't help snooping around an old mine," a veteran prospector said the other day. "You may know that somebody has cleaned up the last ounce of ore, or that there never was any there, but you're bound to feel as though there might be some that had been overlooked." This was the spirit that actuated Bob Ben when he paid his visits to the old Robinson shaft in the Socorro range.

A few days ago the people in this region were surprised to hear that Bob had "located" the shaft and 100 acres of land lying all around it. When he was asked concerning the rumor he admitted the truth, but would give no explanation of his intentions.

"What have you struck?" he was asked. "Oh, nothing much," he would say. "Silver?" "Better nor that." "Gold?" "Better yet."

"Lead, by thunder?" "No; not lead." "Well, then, diamonds and copper?" "No; you can't guess," Bob would say as he walked off. The next day the old fellow had a cabin up, and announced his intention of living on his claim and going into the fruit and vegetable line. Everybody said he was a crank, and one friend sent a doctor out to see him, thinking he might be touched. To this professional gentleman Bob told his story:

"You see, mister, this here shaft has had water in it for years. Everybody knew that as well as I did. At first I used to cuss the water like the other fellows did, because I wanted to go down the shaft and see if any metal had sprouted there since the crowd left. After a while it occurred to me that the water might come from somewhere, and that as the country would be rich if it could get water, perhaps I'd better look into the thing a little. I found at one time that the shaft had 150 feet of water in it, and that at another it had only 100 feet. Then again it had 150 feet. The very bottom of the shaft is higher than the country around about. So, thinks I, if I can tunnel through to the bottom of that shaft I'll strike a water bonanza, and I did. I've got it plugged here. I've let the water out once or twice and it has filled up again. All that this here land needs is plenty of water, and it will be as good as any in the country. I'm going to farm for a living, and some day, if the water don't give out on me, I'll sell this place for more than a mine on the Comstock would bring."

The doctor and others who have visited the place since agree that Bob Ben has a bonanza, and it is now a matter of wonder that nobody ever thought of this scheme before. - Socorro (N. M.) Cor. New York Sun.

Tracks in the Rocks.

In Carson City the papers and people are agitating the matter of the resumption of excavation at the state prison quarry, where are found so many tracks of elephants, tiger, deer, birds and unknown animals and creatures that lived when the world was young. It is proposed to follow on the line pursued by the majority of the tracks, which seem to tend to a special point of attraction. This point may have been a mineral and medicinal spring, the water of which possessed peculiar qualities or flavor. It has been observed at the Bartlett springs, in California, and at mineral springs in many countries, that doves and many other birds flock in from great distances to drink of the waters. Also, it is said, that in the early days deer and other wild animals came from all the surrounding country to drink at the Bartlett springs and at other springs of the Golden state that were strongly flavored with minerals. Thus if the Carsonites find nothing else, a very valuable medicinal spring may be discovered. Though the superincumbent strata to be removed aggregate no great thickness, the first experimental work might be cheapened by running a broad and low tunnel or gallery following the line of tracks made by one of the elephants, or those of the creature supposed to have been a human being of the prehistoric period - a Pacific coast pioneer, who was scouting about the country. There is no danger of going astray in this work. The tracks are so close together and in such a straight line that they cannot be lost. Every track shows that the creature who made it was abroad on important business. - Virginia (Nev.) Enterprise.

A Mathematical Wonder.

Higginsville, Mo., has a mathematical wonder who doesn't know a letter of the alphabet or one printed figure from another, but who is wonderfully strong on mental calculations, making them off hand. His name is Reuben Fields, and he is 36 years of age. He claims that his gift was given from heaven, and says it came to him suddenly when 8 years old. He says the Lord made but one Samson, one Solomon, and one Reub Fields. To the one he gave strength, the other wisdom, and to himself mathematical instinct. He guards this instinct with the utmost care, and will not answer questions unless he is paid, fearing that it will be taken from him should he use it to satisfy idle curiosity. - New York Sun.

A Novel Toy Turtle.

One of the most recent and novel toys displayed for sale on the streets is a turtle that walks by machinery. It is self winding, and a tug of the string starts it going. The turtles have green backs and yellow red eyes, but that makes no difference to a Sixth ward boy who never saw a real one. They are sold, self winding attachment, internal mechanism, yellow red eyes and green back, for the small sum of one dime. - New York Sun.

The Tay Bridge Restored.

The other day the last big girder of the Tay bridge was raised in its permanent position, thereby restoring once more the railway communication between the counties of Forfar and Fife. So far as its external appearance is concerned the bridge is now complete, but a good deal remains to be done in laying the permanent way and in ballasting the large girders.

Thompson. The above sample is but one of hundreds of similar expressions regarding the popularity of B.B.B.

A Living Miracle. "My infant daughter was taken ill with cholera infantum, the doctor said she could not live. The Reverend W. McWilliams would not allow her head to be lifted when he baptised her, she was so weak. Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry gave immediate relief. She is a living miracle, hale and hearty. Since that time (7 years) our house has never been without that remedy." From a statement of George Johnston, Harwood, Ont.

The medical faculty of the university of Toronto will be in operation in October next.
