PARIS, July 8.—It is reported that General Furon invited General Boulanger to take luncheon with him, and that General Boulanger replied that the circumstances under which he was compelled to take command at Clermont Ferrand rendered it impossible for him to accept the invitation.

Thought to be the Day of Judgment.

LONDON, July 8.—The town of Magy Karolyi, in Hungary, was destroyed by a hurricane and waterspout on Wednesday night. The site of the town and the adjoining district are converted into a vast lake. Many persons lost their lives. The people of the town believed the day of judgment had come.

So Perish the Wife Murderers.

PORTLAND, OREGON, July 8.—Oscar M. Kelly, who shot and killed his wife at McCoy six weeks ago, was taken from jail by a mob and hanged in the court yard. When Kelly heard the mob coming he broke his lamp and cut his neck, wrists and ankles, and was rapidly bleeding to death when he was strung up.

A Village Swept Away.

TUSCON, Ariz., July 7.—In Bavispe, Mexico, Prof. T. S. Clarke is engaged in an investigation of the traces left by the earthquake of May 3rd, and the succeeding shocks. Massacre of Chinese.

PORTLAND, Oregon, July 7.—It is reported from Idaho that a number of Chinese mining camps along the Snake River have been raided by Indians or whites. Numerous bodies of Chinamen have come down the stream, four or five being found together a few days since. It is thought that white men, who robbed the Chinese of their gold dust, committed the murder. It is said the Chinese minister at Washington has been notified of the outrage.

A Chance for a Compromise

LONDON, July 8.—John Morley's speech at Manchester, withdrawing his opposition to the exclusion of Irish members from Westminster, and assenting to the right of the imperial parliament to veto Irish parliamentary decisions, has been a source of excited discussion in the lobby of the house. The Tories denounce it as an election dodge, meant to influence half a dozen bye-elections now in progress, but a number of liberal-unionist members perceive in it an open road to a compromise, and are urging their leaders to re-open negotiations with Mr. Gladstone.

The Big Stock Deal.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Cyrus W. Field has addressed a vote to the agent of the Associated Press in which he says: "Myself and my associates did sell 78,000 shares of Manhattan stock to Mr. Jay Gould, unconditionally, at $1.20 cash per share, and I wish further to state, explicitly, that Mr. Gould has acted throughout the transaction in a perfectly straight-forward manner, and that the most friendly feeling exists between us. I have no bias of resigning as a director of the Manhattan railway company, and my opinion as to the future developments of this property remains unchanged."

THE MISERY IN IRELAND.

MR. GLADSTONE'S LAST SPEECH IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The Tribute of William O'Brien—The Great Leader is Conquering Ireland, Not by Army But by the Generosity of His Soul—The Crimes Bill.

LONDON, July 8.—Mr. Gladstone's speech in the house of commons last night was a remarkably close and lucid presentation of the arguments against the Coercion bill. The style in which it was delivered was animated, and at times the whole house was roused with enthusiasm. Parallels do not intend to prolong the debate on the Crimes bill beyond to-day. The government will have the usual majority.

LONDON, July 7.—In the commons tonight, on a motion made for the third reading of the Crimes bill, Mr. Gladstone made a counter motion, that the bill be read a third time that day three months. Old coercion measures had been aimed at crime only, but this new one, passing beyond crime, aimed at societies. Further, the bill had been brought in without any foundation. It parliament retained any regard for the traditions of liberty, or of party usages, the measure would be abandoned. In conclusion he said that Ireland, after seventy years of oppression, was in a state of wretchedness. ("Hear, hear.") In the whole British empire there was not a square foot of land which England held by force alone, excepting in Ireland. (Cheers.) Ireland was held by mastery, but the government refused to learn that mastery involved responsibility. ("Hear, hear.") It was evident that the present state of affairs could not last long, as every day tended to bring the tories nearer their doom. Mr. Gladstone then moved for the rejection of the bill.

Mr. Balfour said the government was mainly justified in introducing its proposals by the state of social tyranny in the land. Crime was worse now than in 1870, when Mr. Gladstone promoted coercion. Early in the year there was a visible improvement, but at the last quarter sessions there were evidences of a relapse. In June sixty-two serious crimes were committed, ten above the average of the previous eighteen months. William O'Brien praised Mr. Gladstone's opposition to the bill. Mr. Gladstone, he said was the greatest conqueror of Ireland. While others conquered by the might of arms Gladstone conquered by generosity of soul.

After Major Sanderson and Attorney General Webster had replied on behalf of the government the debate was adjourned.

Banquet to the Earl.

ST. PAUL, July 8.—Two hundred Irish Americans and other citizens of St. Paul, last night, sat down to a banquet tendered to the Earl of Aberdeen, late lord-lieutenant of Ireland. In the address of welcome Bishop Ireland described the guest of the evening as the first Englishman who had ruled Ireland for the Irish, and declared that the name of Gladstone will take its place with those of O'Connell and Parnell. The earl in reply declared that such a demonstration had a peculiar significance at the present juncture in promoting the success of the cause of home rule. "We must recognize the fact," said he, "that a speedy passage of the home rule bill depends on the votes of British electors. I do not speak of whether home rule is coming, but it will be when the British public is disabused of its misapprehensions as to the aspirations of the advocates of home rule."

THE CITADEL FIRE.

Soldiers on Guard at the Stables Arrested—Not one of the Horses Saved.

QUEBEC, July 7.—No horses were saved at the Citadel fire. Twenty-three chargers perished. The cavalymen sought for horse-shoes among the dead as memorials of the conflagration. Some of the soldiers wept as they recognized their old companions, the horses they had ridden to the North-West and elsewhere for three years and more. Harrison the soldier on guard at the stables, has been arrested. He will first appear before Col. Turnbull, his commanding officer, and will then be turned over for final examination to Col. Montzambert, the commandant of the citadel. No one yet knows the precise cause of the fire. It broke out in the cavalry barracks and stables, very near to the powder magazine. The artillery men, under Major Short, dashed water on the magazine for four hours. The water supply never failed. No one suffered serious injury though one man was struck on the hip by a spent shell and hurt slightly, and a gunner belonging to battery "B" was hurt on the side. The battery loses all its stores, much of which came to it from the imperial authorities and were very valuable. It is not probable that the Dominion government will replace these, though some of the stores are necessary. The general impression among the citizens is that the government is much to blame for allowing these stables to be used by the cavalry. They were veritable tinder ovens.

BALM FOR LOST LOVE.

A Rejected Suitor Paid His Courtship Expenses by His Successful Rival.

JAMAICA, L.L., July 7.—John Hoy, a young man of this village, has just received a cheque for $200 from Mr. C. H. Cassidy, auditor of the New York, Woodhaven and Rockaway railroad, under somewhat peculiar circumstances. Hoy sent in a bill of expenditure for ice cream, buggy rides, dinners, etc., during his courtship of Margaret Semars, an accomplished young lady who had just been married to Mr. Cassidy. Hoy intended forbidding the marriage, and talked of a breach of promise suit against the young lady, but, being advised that he had no legal claim upon her, made out the bill as above stated and sent it to her the day of her wedding. As soon as Mr. Cassidy heard of the matter he sent his cheque for the amount, which Hoy has accepted as a slight balm for his lost love.

He'll Yet Be King.

PARIS, July 8.—The Gaslois says that the Comte de Paris, in bidding farewell to his friends on the Island of Jersey, after advocating silence, said: "You may be sure we shall win before long. Monarchy will come without violent effort, and by a gentle transition, for our organization is training, and everything is ready. The new government will get into immediate working order, and on the eventful day I, helped by all good Frenchmen, shall be king."

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

News for the Lovers of Base-Ball—Other Styles of Amusements.

Syracuse has released catcher Jantzen. Toronto paid Rochester $250 for pitcher Baker's release.

Rochester has released pitcher Hayes. This leaves the club with only two pitchers, Parsons and Blakely.

The Park Nine club is endeavouring to get matches on with clubs of the International league.

Ed. Stapleton, who has been playing first base for Kalamazoo this year, broke his leg the other day sliding to a bag. He may not be able to play again this year.

Fowler, Binghamton's colored second baseman, has been released upon condition that he will not sign with any other international club. He will join the Cuban Giants.

Norman L. Baker, Toronto's new pitcher, is in the city. Hamilton was also after Baker, but he preferred signing with Toronto. His release cost Toronto $250.

While John L. Sullivan was umpiring a game of ball at New Haven the other day a foul tip struck him square between the eyes, but he paid no attention to it, although it was a cracker and would have knocked the average umpire silly.

By the way that was a shabby trick of the Ottawas. While in Ogdensburg they asked Mr. P. Nolan to score for them. He did so, and in consequence lost his passage by the steamer Hero on its return. The Ottawas, though they scooped in $125, refused to pay Mr. Nolan's passage to Kingston. Shabby indeed.

The Ogdensburg News says in reference to Monday's match between the Ottawas and Pastimes: "The playing at times was good, but taken as a whole was a poor exhibition of the game. Owing to the rank decisions of the umpire and the kicking of the Ottawas over five hours were consumed in playing the game."

On July 1st a telegraph message was forwarded to Manager Carson from Belleville putting up $100 on the Bellevilles against any team in Kingston. Mr. Carson replied: "Will play same team in same positions as yesterday (June 30th) for amount named if bigger or Jenkins make the challenge." This message was delivered to Mr. Jenkins, and he has made no reply claiming that he could not understand it and would not answer. The sender of the first message said he did so on the authority of the managers of the Belleville club, and since that date the matter has been discussed in Belleville, and the telegram shown as an evidence that Kingston is afraid to meet Belleville. From the correspondence it looks as if the reverse was the case.

LOSS OF LIFE AT ZUG.

A DREADFUL SCENE AND ONE THAT BEGARS DESCRIPTION.

Waters Flooding Carry Great Destruction With them—Further Accounts of An Accident That Has Made Many a Heart in Europe Bleed.

BERNE, July 8.—The disaster at Zug recalls, in many respects, the phenomena of the South American earth quakes. For several days crevices had been observed in a new quarry, at Zug, which cost $40,000. At 2:30 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon the lake in front of the stone began to bubble. The quay then cracked, and eighty feet of it fell into the lake. A dozen persons, who rushed from an adjoining cafe, were precipitated into the water and drowned. After a short interval another slip dragged several houses into the water. The landing stage followed, and a steamer, which had just arrived, was hurled a hundred yards forward. At four o'clock two boats, which were going to the rescue, were engulfed, and only one boatman rising again to the surface. At the same moment a boatman's sheet, in which there were three children, fell into the water. Furniture and cattle were now hurriedly removed from the threatened quarter. At 7 o'clock the land slips began again, and several carts, which were removing property, sank into the lake. Fifteen houses and ten huts disappeared within a few minutes, including the hotel Zurich, the roof of which is still visible above the surface of the lake. A café in which were ten customers was next engulfed, and 150 metres of a neighboring street then slowly vanished, the people jumping from the windows of the houses to escape being drowned. A party of officers, returning from Lucerne, assisted the fire brigade in rescuing the imperilled persons, but the danger increasing, the troops were summoned from Boar. The third land slip occurred at 11 p.m., carrying five houses into the lake and damaging many others. The municipal treasury was removed from the town hall to the post office. Seventy persons are missing, and six hundred are homeless. The damage is estimated at $250,000. People are pouring into Zug from all points to view the scene. A similar disaster occurred at Zug in 1433, when 160 lives were lost.
