It was for the recovery of $95, the amount paid by him as freight on horses, shipped to Killarney, Manitoba. It appears that when the horses were shipped they were classed as settlers' effects. When they arrived at their destination the Canada Pacific railway company refused to deliver them, (claiming that they were not settlers' effects), unless plaintiff paid $95 more. He handed over the money and the horses were surrendered. Judge Wilkison held that as the case was simply a breach of contract, occurring in Manitoba, his court had no

HURRAH FOR DYSON.

A Salvation Army Captain may be Bounced for His Playing of Base-bal'.

Captain Dyson, third baseman of the Belleville base ball club, now in the city, is the object of a great deal of interest. He is a Salvation army captain, a great athlete and a wonderful base baller. But his recent conduct has created alarm and the Salvation army leaders are seriously considering the cancellation of his commission. Capt Dyson says he has not offended, that he asked for A furlough for two reasons: (1) To secure a rest for his throat and lungs, which he found was absolutely necessary, and (2) to earn a little money whereby he could pay off the army's indebtedness, for which he felt that he was personally liable. True the order did not come to hand when he left on a tour with the Bellevilles, but his throat was so used up that he could not speak, and it was useless for him to continue. He left good aids in his stead with the army. In speaking of his connection with the base ball club to an Ontario reporter he said he was paid by the management at a fixed sum per day, so that he might have a private boarding house instead of at a hotel. Capt. Dyson said that he did not exact this from the manager because he thought the other boys were not good enough to associate with, "but," he added, "you know people talk ; scrufs have more to say than anybody else, and I thought it best just to play on the field and then remain by myself." "What did you purpose doing with the money you earned. "I intended to apply it in payment of a few debts against the army. I saw that with other heavy liablities the local crops could not pay the bills and the lieutenant was badly in need of clothes. I was too bighearted and undertook more than I could well carry out. But since then bills were coming to me regularly from head-quarters and I was determined to see them paid. That was my only object, and I feel that in making an honest endeavor to pay deb*s honorably contracted I was committing no sin against any one."

PITY FOR THE PITCHER.

PORT HOPE SUFFERS SEVERE DE-FEAT AND DEMORALIZATION.

They Would Probably Have Suffered the First Anyway, but Not to Such a Great Extent-Kingston Team in Good Form -An Old Time Pitcher,

Port Hope's base ball team is to be commisserated with. Not secause of the result of the game, but because of the unfortunate circumstances by which its pitcher was injured, and the impression given that the club was only a second-rate one.

This is unfortunate and no person regrets it more than those who enjoy base ball.

Twenty-eight to four This was the result, and it was in favour of the Kingstons with an innings to spare. There was a good audience, but the big fence kept a great many more from witnessing the game, though some mean individuals did climb on the tops of adjacent houses and spy over the field.

J. Mckee, manager of the Port Hopes, acted as umpire, and at 3:55 o'clock called the game. The Park Nine club was represented by Lovett behind the bat and Walker on third base.

The Kingstons did not grumble. The Port Hopes went to the bat, and R. Edmunds made a base hit and got around to third. He tried to sneak home as the ball lay between the pitcher and the home plate, but Young was active enough to touch him out. Then the club retired. Walker creating billows in the atmosphere.

The Kingstons followed without result. Two went out on first, and Eilbeck struck out while a motley element opened up with Again the Port Hopes retired without runs. Hamly and Thompson fanned through space and McNichol was run off at third. Young opened for the Kingstons in the second inning with a clip to the centre fielder's fence. The bang was applauded. Barnfather hit to third, and on a muff at first got to second. Johnson hit to the short stop and Barnfather was charged with running Young off third. Barnfather, it appeared, ran to third straddled the bag and seeing that Young could not get home ran back to second. The ball was thrown there and muffed and then Barnfather chased his mate home. The umpire declared Young out, claiming that Barnfather had touched the third bag. Jamieson hit to centre field and Johnson and Trainor scored. Jamieson made for third and as the ball was in that vicinity the baseman tried to trip him so that he could touch him out. But he failed in his undertaking. McMullen

JUST A LITTLE UNFAIR. In the Port Hopes third inning A. Edmonds scored. He had got his base on balls and went home when his brother sent a ball past Trainor. Edmunds was touched at third in running by Trainor, but the umpire was unable to give the man out.

flew to R. Edmunds, and by a double play

Jamieson was cut off in returning to second.

The feature of the Kingstons third inning was Pomfret's hit to left field, and his failure to get home, after R. Edmunds had a fly sent to him. He could have done it but he didn't, and he was left on a bag. "They are playing good ball," said the

"Now Barney," shouted the pitcher to his mate as Lovett sert a foul in the air. It was taken. Young always coaches his comrade by telling him whether it is advisable to try for a fly foul or not. McNichol went out at first after Jamieson turned a handspring and stopped the sphere at first.

The Kingstons found McNichol in the fourth inning and knocked him for four runs. These were secured by Johnson, Trainor, Jamieson and McMillan. The Port Hopes made some disastrous work. Eilbeck let McMillan home by sacrificing himself between first and second. This play was admired.

Then in the Port Hope's fifth inning Young said he was woke up by stopping Hamly's hit, and he put the man out by turning around and throwing the ball to first. The visitors were whitewashed in their inning.

In the Kingston's fifth inning the Port Hopes were disheartened. They were pounded for fourteen runs. McNichol's arm gave out. He could not pitch with effectiveness. A great raw place under his elbow was sore and the muscles were inflamed. Before the inning was ended be gave the batters "lobs' and they pounded them for flies. Every man scored and Pomfret, Johnson, Trainor, Jamieson and McMillan made double numbers.

VERY UNSATISFACTORY FINISH.

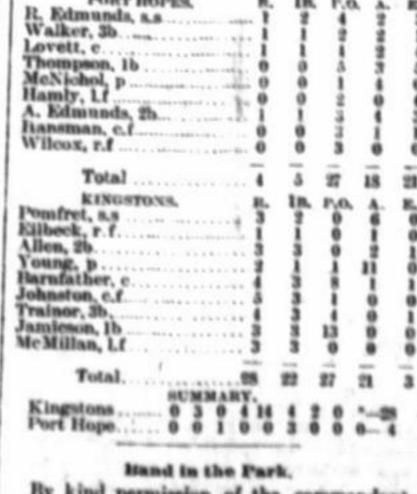

The balance of the match was uninteresting. The field of the Port Hopes was changed several times, R. Edmunds going into the box. He was versed in last year's pitching and pitched very improperly, but no one objected, as the Kingstons knew the predicament the visitors were in. Lovett quit catching him. The balls were so erratie that he could not hold them.

The Port Hopes didn't care to play, but the Kingstons' captain insisted on having the match to a finish. The people had paid to see it and should not be disappointed. The Port Hopes made three runs in the last four innings, and the Kingstons made seven. McNichol is a good pitcher and did good service until he was banged out by an inflamed arm. Lovett caught McNichol nicely. It is somewhat ticklish for a catcher to stand at the business end of a battery, the pitcher's curves being unknown. But Young and Barnfather are the boys.

They play great ball and work into, each other's hands delightfully. On the field the Kingstons displayed the greatest agility.

The Base Ball Gossip-The Standing of the Leagues-General Notes. Ottawa is securing several imported pitchers.

The Elks base-ball club of Portsmouth will play at Picton Friday. The Peterboros defeated the Cobourgs by 11 to 9. Wood and Mulhall were Cobourg's battery, and Galley and Billings, Peterboro battery. The rumor was current to-day that the Park Nine would have a new battery for today's game. Friends of the club made the thing public.

The Belleville Ontario calls J. McKee, of Port Hope, "a cross-eyed umpire." He called strikes on Belleville when the ball could hardly have been reached with a ten foot pole. It gives a reason also: "McKee was sunstruck.

Manager Carson is waiting to hear from some one why the Kingstons should play seven free games because the Park Nine have collected a large sum of money and given the donors no value for it.

The Port Hopes have abandoned their tour, and nearly all the players have returned home. The Kingstons will not play in Belleville on Friday, and will probably go to Ottawa on Saturday and fill the date that the Port Hopes had arranged for. "I never saw such a thing before," said a Port Hoper yesterday, as R. Edmunds, short stop, muffed two flies in close succession. The young man crawled through a knot hole in the fence as he beheld several others of the team do similiar work.

Does any one who subscribed towards the expenses of the Park Nine trip to the west last fall -which trip, by the way, was not taken-object to pay a quarter to see the local teams play for the championship? If so the public would like to hear from him.

The Whig is pleased when it furnishes valuable information, hence it repeats that the Watertown-Kingston match was "as" fine a game of ball as was ever witnessed in Kingston." And it can substantiate its statement if need be. What constitutes base ball: Surely not the sickly attempts made by some players to strike a ball. If that is it then we have beheld amazing base ball in this city. But we consider base ball fine when a battery shows effectiveness, a field sharpness, and the players the ability to bat the ball. This was all demonstrated in the Watertown-Kingston game. Of course two of the innings of the Kingstons were slow, but it showed that the team possessed batters, and it is by batting that runs are made. For these reasons we repeat-and make no mistake about it-the public saw "as fine a game of ball as was ever witnessed in Kingston.'

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Passing Summer.

Toronto, July 15, -(To the Editor): At this time of the season we are approaching a period when a very important operation in forestry can easily be performed, that is the planting out of evergreens. It is now generally foreseen that in a short time the country will be, so far as the remains of the old forests are concerned, quite destitute of shelter, and people are well aware, from what has happened in other countries, that the land will not then produce nearly as well. In some townships I have lately visited I find all the more intelligent farmers either planting or preparing to plant lines of cedar, Norway spruce or pine along the exposed sides of their farms, and in a few years they will be greatly benefitted thereby. There is no more difficulty with these than with deciduous trees if the roots are kept moist and covered from sun and air till planted, while the winter shelter they give renders them far superior to maples or elms. The first week in June is a good time to plant, and if that be missed the first week in August will do. - R. W. PHIPPS.

He was known to treat him most cruelly, beating him in a terrible manner, once putting one of the little fellow's eyes out while whipping him. A faw days ago he beat the child in a horrible manner, and then tied him by the wrists to a stake in the hot sun without food or water until he died. How long the child was there is not known, but the cords on the wrists had cut into the flesh, and the wounds were filled with worms.
