OVER AT CHANNEL GROVE

THE I.C. B. U. HAVE A GALA TIME AT YESTERDAY'S PIC-NIC.

Results of the Games And Sports-Many Mothers in High Dudgeon Because They Had No Chance to Have Their Babies Weighed-A Pleasant Day.

Channel Grove was the rendesvouz of over 2,300 people yesterday, the occasion being the annual pic-nic of the Catholic Benevolent Union of this city. The pic-nicers were not all Kingstonians. There were present representatives from the Thousand Islands, Brockville and Belleville, carried to the city over rail and water. The steamers Pierrepont, Maud, Princess Louise and Pioneer, being unable to convey the people to the grove as expeditiously as desired, the steamer St. Lawrence, which sailed into port in the afternoon with a large number of excursionists from the islands, was put into service and took over 600 people to the pic-nic grounds. The weather experienced in the city was hot, but the heat was not nearly so perceptible at the grove. The large shady trees protected the people from the burning rays of the sun, while a cool breeze from the lake tempered the heated atmosphere. The arrangements for the day were carried out creditably and satisfactorily by the committee of management. They spared no pains in trying to please their guests, and to their activity is due the order and peace which prevailed throughout. There was not one man present the worse of liquor, and everybody acted in a becoming way and appeared to enjoy the outing. Amusements suitable to all tastes were pro vided. The dancing platform was constantly occupied by handsome girls and happy male companions. Prof. Byrnes' orchestra supplied excellent music. Several base ball matches played by selected nines were very interesting and created a great deal of enthusiasm. The competition for the heaviest baby on the grounds, under nine months' old and for which a prize was to be given, did not take place. Many mothers who had brought their offspring with the intention of having their weights tested were very much disappointed when told that the baby contest had been declared off. Mr. D. Egan, who had the affair in hand, was severely condemned by the women and forced to make an explanation. He very ingeniously got out of the scrape by stating that he was unable, after having made many attempts, to secure scales on which to weigh the little darlings. Some of the ladies still contend that Mr. Egan was lax in his duty, but, of course, he cannot help what they think of him. Appended is a list of the sports and the names of those who won in the different contests 100 yards' race, open to all, seven entries Sailing skiff race, four entries -C Bowman, Strachan.

Girls' race, 100 yards-Maud Ginman, $1 Elizabeth Lafferty, 50c. Throwing baseball- Harry Walker, $2.

Those who composed the committee of management were Messrs. J. J. Behan, chairman; E. Clayton, treasurer; F. Crimmins, secretary; D. Egan, J. Laughren, M. Hogan and W. Towers.

Boats started to run from the grove to the city at 6 o'clock, and by 10 o'clock all the picnicers were safely landed.

The members of the I.C.B.U. are to be congratulated upon the success which attended their undertaking.

The Handsome Young Prince that the Sobrange has Lately Elected to it.

PRINCE FERDINAND.

Constantinople, July 20.—France will not acknowledge Prince Ferdinand as ruler of Bulgaria, because Roumelians were permitted to vote in the sobranje of his election.

BURCHAREST, July 20.—It is reported that the Bulgarian government has arrested M. Radoslavoff, premier and minister of interior in the cabinet just superseded, on a charge of treason. The uninisters are afraid of the army opposition to the new government. It is also reported that the troops intend to proclaim the independence of Bulgaria and Prince Alexander of Battenberg as king.

Paris, July 20. - There have been violent scenes in the sobranje, members of the opposition, including ex-Premiers Rodostavoff, being forcibly expelled. The troops at Rustchuck have made a hostile demonstration against Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg. Led by officers of the army, they paraded the streets uttering cries of "Long ive Russia.

Sketch of the Prince.

Since September 7th, 1886, when Prince Alexander abdicated, Bulgara has been governed by a regency. Now the sobrani has elected Prince Ferdinand, of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, Prince of Bulgaria. By the provisions of the treaty of Berlin, July 13, 1878, under which Bulgaria was "constituted an antonomous and tributary princi pality under the suzerainty of his imperial majesty the sultan," the prince's election must be confirmed by the sublime porte, with the consent of the powers. Ferdinand is a German prince in the military service of Austria. Will Russia consent to an arrangement in Bulgaria that strengthens Austria, her rival for supremacy on the Danube? Of late, Russian diplomacy has been gaining in those countries. In Servia, for example, it has circumvented that of Austria. Now the election of Prince Ferdinand is regarded as an insult to the czar. Will he take it? There is reason to believe that the sobranje had an understanding with Germany and other powers when Prince Ferdmand was elected. The probabilities are that Russia must eat humble pie, as she did after her last war with Turkey. Personally the newly-elected prince is liked at the court of Russia.

He was born in Vienna, in February, 1861. His father, Prince Auguste Louis Victor, was a consin of the reigning Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. His mother is a daughter of King Louis Philippe, of France. His eldest brother is married to the Princess Louis, daughter of the King of Belgium. His other brother was married to a daughter of Dom Pedro II., of Brazil, and died in 1871. One sister is the wife of the Archduke Joseph, of Austria; the other is married to Duke Maximilian, of Bavaria. By his grandmother Prince Ferdinand is partly Hungarian, and he possesses large estates in Hungary. Prince Ferdinand is a tall, stalwart fellow. His thick hair is brushed up without Rev Dr. Storrs, of the church of the Pil- | a parting. He has firm, clear eyes, and a pronounced Bourbon nose. He is the owner of one of the finest ornithological collections in Europe. He has also a very valuable collection of precious stones, and is noted for his generosity in making presents of jewellery to his friends and relations. He was sent to Russia at the Czar's coronation, and received a Russian decoration. On his second visit, the marriage of the Grand Duke Sergius, he was decorated with the order of St. Stanislas. He speaks German, English, French, Italian and Hungarian. If the Bulgarians must have a prince they have chosen wisely as regards the person, disposition, ability and attainments of the

DOUBLING OF THE SCORE.

A Game with Considerable Slugging and Bad Fielding in It-The Umpire Railed Upon for Improper Decisions-The Features of the Game Described.

Ah there, Belleville ! But that town never could play bali. Weep for the slain; shout for the victors. This is what the people did. And there were a thousand of them who had deep bass voices.

What a fascination there is in base ball ! Not one man out of five hundred could be induced to walk ten blocks on the sunny side of a street for any consideration, yet he will sit or stand in a boiling sun without a murmur and blister and stew and never even suggest that a fan or a piece of ice on his head would be a pleasant thing. Great is base ball! and some men find a world of enjoyment in it. But Belleville-the 'I-want-to-give-you atip-on-that" style was trailed in the dust. "You can have your choice," seemed to be the way the box was loaded up yester; day at Channel Grove. Four twirlers tried their hands. But the score! Don't say it loudly for there are sick people in the Bay city : Bellevilles, 6 ; Park Nine, 12. Two to one and no mistake.

But the Bellevilles claim that it was an off day with them. The impression was correct. The day was "away off." The game went just as we wanted it. Our motto is: "Kingston first! Home every time !" Pity that everybody doesn't think the

The audience was jubilant beyond expression. They lined the field, though standing behind a rope that gave the players ample opportunity to do lots of stamping without hurting anybody. Charles Jerome, of Cape Vincent, N.Y., was umpire. He gave decisions that both clubs protested against, but he did what he thought right, though in a few instances he palpably erred.

But what mortal man is not liable to do so. All are fallible.

The game opened at 3:05 o'clock with Bellevilles at the bat, and to Fisher fell the honor of ripping the sphere over the plate. Dyson chewed gum with a great pair of molars, and promised destruction to the ball. He was Belleville's pet. He was tipped out on first, notwithstanding, by Moran. Then McConville duplicated the deed on Farrell's clip, and Lyons launched a fly into Walker's digits.

Walker got home on a passed ball which Kanean the Belleville pitcher, threw wildly to Morrison, the catcher. Walker had opened for the Park Nine with a fierce rap for two bags, on the first ball given to him. J. Little and McIntyre flew out. Millan got but ninety feet from home and no man to bring him in. How sad !

"Knock the second baseman over" was Dyson's suggestion to Morrison in the secand inning, but he didn't, and the Bellevilles died without a run.

The Park Nine did some neat work in cutting men off and smiles were as numer ous as huckleberri :s.

CAUGHT THE WRONG ARTICLE. Lovett hit a foul and the pitcher caught a reporter, but missed the ball. The crowd applauded, and nobody was hurt. Then the little catcher clubbed the ball to Lyons and an error of the first, in not clinging to the sphere, let Lovett get to third base. There he remained. Jones held Lovett well on the base on Connolly's clip, but cut the batter off at first. The side was retired without scoring.

This was a doubly sad occasion, Flemming was cut off at the plate as he made for it on Schultz's bang to Moran. Dyson fouled out, though he said he didn't touch the ball, and Schultz was cut off at

In the Park Nine's third inning the top name on the batting list had been reached and Walker scooted the ball over to left field. He got a base. Millan hit to Jones and that dandy player tried to cut Walker off at second, but failed. He went home on Fisher's greaser beyond second. James Little swung the willow to Millan's advantage for another run was scored and Little got over the plate on a passed ball.

The day looked dark for the Bellevilles and the thousands of Kingstonians joined in a chorus of approbation. The Bellevilles made the first double play. McIntyre hit to Flemming and the ball travelled to first, cut off the batter as well as Fisher at the

Then Bellevilles' hour came and a procession of runners went round the bases until five scores were reeled off They led by a run. They did it thus Fisher muffed Farrell's fly and immediately afterwards Jones sent a pretty drive to right field and Farrell and Lyons scrambled home, the last man getting there on a bad throw to Walker.

"Oh, its just pieif you wait for it;" cried a Belleville player. O'Leary landed a fly into the surprised mits of McIntyre. It no sooner landed there than Jones left the third bag and scored safely. He did well and everybody shouted appreciation. But just here Fisher did some lightning twirling. Kanean had four balls called on him, but before he could wink four strikes were called in succession and the surprised batter retired while the entire populace lifted up its voice in one triumphant shout. Then · Schultz followed with a hit that whisked like a frightened hare over shortstop and the left fielder, and Morrison and Fleming crossed the plate. Dyson meant to send the ball through Moran, so hot did he hit it, but the rascal held it and the side went out.

Then the ladies about the green looked so admiringly on Moran that he blushed, By the way, why the quietness? GETTING IT EVEN AGAIN,

But it was only momentarily for the Park Nine evened up the result, and went one better and then the crowd found its throat and got baked tongues screaming in the face of the furnace-like air.

The Bellevilles made Farrell and Jones the battery and the change gave Connolly a score on a pass ball and McConville went home on O'Leary's muff. Then a dispute arose. O'Leary was on the diamond and the fly of Walker came to him. Walker ran so close to the player that the ball was missed. The batter should have been out for failing to comply with the rules that no player is to be interfered with on the field, but the game went on after O'Leary had labelled the work as "a dirty trick." Moran, Millan and Fisher flew out to Lyons, Kanean and Jones.

Then Belleville tied the score and stuck there. Farrell scored the last run on O'Leary's lamming of the sphere to McIntyre. The Park Nine resumed its work and J. Little opened with a beautiful sky-scraper for two bags. Lovett hit a foul, O'Leary ran after it and knocked down a boy, who had his arm in a sling. Furlong was the youth injured, but the doctor pronounced no greater damage than a wrenching of the disabled limb. Lucky lad !

Lovett hit to Fleming, and the ball thrown to third baseman caught J. Little in the small of the back and he let forth a longdrawn O-h! Little and Lovett came home on Connolly's bounder to centre field. McIntyre took the box next and "good day, Mick !" He thrashed the balls over the plate and by sharp support Belleville didn't see home again.

HOW THEY DID IT. Let us see. In the sixth innings he filled up the bags by giving two men bases and Fleming got one on Moran's error. The lion of the hour was Dyson, and it was a case of "die-soon" for him. He clouted a fly to Millan, and that fielder is generally a sure eatch. Morrison monkeyed on third and Lovett threw him out. In the seventh inning Farrell struck out, Lyons laid too far off second and was killed there and Jones shot a la-la to Moran and died at first. In the eighth inning sharp fielding was done by the Park Nine, for O'Leary was cut off at home and Morrison at third, Kanean tipped the sphere and Lovett found the ball under his elbow. He had folded his arms about it. "Put the bats in the bag," was the command at the ninth inning and the mascot commenced to do so. By the time he was finished three Belleville men were out.

in the Park Nine's sixth inning Millan,

Fisher, Little and McIntyre scored on some rousing two baggers, Then they quit, having doubled the score of their opponents. That was enough for one hot day ! In their seventh inning Farrell showed himself, and in less than two minutes the Park Nines collapsed for nothing. Belleville played poorly all around. Was it their day off? There was some bad errors on both sides. The score shows it. McIn tyre redeemed himself in the innings he pitched. Some people thought his day was past. He, however, is not as sure as Fisher showed himself to be. The game was concluded at 5:20 o'clock. By-the-way, seriously speaking, we don't think Belleville played ball. At any rate we heard a voice say that "For money we can beat the Park Nine." Maybe they can. Maybe they can't!

Dyson's Hearty Reception.

Captain Dyson, of the Salvation army, meets Commissioner Coombs at Toronto on Saturday, and together they go to Wood stock. Major Bailey does not want him to play ball. Dyson is as popular with the army people as he is with the admirers of base-ball. After a meeting in Belleville on Tuesday he was presented with a purse of money, sufficient to pay his expenses west. He signed with Belleville to play a certain number of games, and he intends to fulfil his engagement.

The Game Postponed.

Last evening Barnfather, catcher of the Kingstons, received a despatch announcing the serious illness of his wife, who some weeks ago gave birth to a son. This after-noon the doctor sent another message calling him home with all haste. The young man hurried westward this afternoon. In consequence of this sad circumstance the match with Belleville, set for this afternoon, was postponed.y Under the circumstances the manager of the Bellevilles was quite agreeable to the postponement of the game. The vinitors were paid their guarantee and left at # o'clock for home.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Dr. Maebeth and "lits Mission."

Belleville, July 19.—(To the Editor:) A friend has called my attention to an editorial note in your issue of the 15th inst., in reference to the visit of the Rev. Dr. Macbeth, of Enniscarthy, Ireland, to this country. You have evidently been misled as to the object of Dr. Macbeth's visit to this country by an associated press despatch, published some days ago, which most absurdly stated that Dr. Macbeth, an Orange orator, was coming to Canada to undo the mischief wrought by Mr. O'Brien." The italics are mine. Fear not, Mr. Editor. no Irish loyalist is going on so quixotic a mission. Mr. O'Brien so effectually helped the loyalists' cause, that, it is hoped that some more of his confreres willcome over so that Canadians may form some idea of what Ireland has to suffer from. The only truth in the cablegram is. That Dr. Macbeth is coming to Canada, his mission, however, is to lay before the Canadian people, the claims of 'the Irish society,' a society formed by the Church of Ireland to give to the Irish people God's Word in the Celtic language.

I know that with your accustomed willingness to undo a wrong you will publish this. Yours Truly, WILLIAM JOHNSON, P.S .- I may add that the Rev. Dr. Macbeth is not (I am sorry to say) an Orange-man, much less an Orange orator, as the associated press designated him. The error referred to by Mr. Johnson had already been rectified, the WHIG having copied the letter sent by him to the
