LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Water Works Again.
KINGSTON, July 25.—(To the Editor): The entire letter of "Frontenac," which appeared in Saturday's WHIG, is built on the mistake of assuming that it is in the power of the city council to pass a by-law at any time for the purpose of throwing the water works debt on consumers and non-consumers alike. The council has no such power. I would like to see you publish Mr. Whitting's reasons in favor of the by-law to help to dispel such ideas.

"Frontenac" thinks it dreadful "we unfortunate taxpayers are asked to lay on our backs an additional loan of $120,000." Seeing that this debt will be borne by those who will voluntarily take the water, and not by those who will prefer to keep to their wells, the burden of that debt is one for their own consideration. They don't fear the corrupt rings which have afflicted large cities, for thanks to the integrity of Kingston's city fathers nothing has ever occurred throughout her history to cause any fear on that point. What the consumers do fear is not the speculative increase of debt which may be incurred to extend the water system, and to give us purer lake water than we now get, but the present incubus which, for the production of a "fair interest," inflicts upon 922 persons, who now take the water, a debt of $450,000, and which in addition to this wants to put a further debt upon the city corporation of $100,000. Capitalize the water works company's income and this will appear. I am surprised at the apathy of our citizens on this question.

In the spring of 1885 we were worked up into a ferment by the pulpit, by printed appeals and by the platform, in favor of inflicting on this city a debt of $400,000 for the purpose of trying to "rob the poor man of his beer," and letting him drink whiskey instead, and now as to this by-law, which would lessen the taxes throughout the city instead of increasing them, which would do away with a hard monopoly in our water supply, which would increase the health and comfort of our citizens by conferring upon us the inestimable boon of an abundance of pure water, one of God's best gifts to man, so far from any inflammatory appeals we scarcely hear a voice raised for its success. Yours, etc., CONSUMER.

A Farmer on Commercial Union.

PITTSBURG, July 23.—(To the Editor): I see by the public journals that feeling in favor of reciprocity is spreading with extraordinary rapidity in the farming community throughout Ontario. Intelligent men of all political opinions see clearly that something must be done to relieve the farmers of the load they are groaning under. Look at the circumstances. Burdened with a gigantic national debt, a lien on our property, low prices for our produce, high wages for hired help, short crops and from 25 to 57 per cent. on our exports mean surely ruin on the farming community unless we can get relief by removing the customs duties between Canada and the United States. There are two sides to this question, however. It has been pretty freely discussed on both sides. Some of the speakers think that commercial union would lead to annexation. I cannot see any danger that the one will lead to the other. Remove the barriers that now exist between the two countries as far as regards our trade relations and I think that will satisfy both countries. According to statistics our export trade is greater with England than the United States, but consists of the same articles as the states export. But there is a large surplus of our products that England does not want and it is on these articles that reciprocity would benefit us. We have to send them to the states, as our only customers. If our exports are larger with England our imports are considerably larger with the states, and here is where the trouble exists. Our government has put a high protective tariff on all that comes from the United States, and that leaves us between two fires that will consume us if continued. Our manufactures are protected with 35 to 50 per cent. and that comes directly out of the farmers as they are the class that use the greater part of the manufactured products. Now the question to discuss is this: Is our government justified in giving class legislation? If our manufacturers cannot supply us without 35 or 50 per cent. of protection coming out of the pockets of the farmers we would be better without them; $70 or $80 extra on a binder is a little too thick, simply to encourage home industry. If the manufacturers cannot compete with the Americans without protection how are the farmers to succeed and live when they have to meet a high protective tariff on their exports and imports and home manufacture. The men out of debt can get along by good management but there is a very large class that are paying for their property, and others are under rent. These are the parties that suffer. There are hundreds of men that cannot pay the interest on their mortgages. If there could be a good representative convention held during the fair of the farmers of Frontenac, and try and get some speakers that could handle the various questions in connection with reciprocity, it would be a great benefit to the farmers generally.—MICHAEL GRAVES.

Extending of the Classes.

LONDON, July 25.—In the commons last night Mr. Parnell proposed to extend the operation of the Land bill clauses to all leases except those in perpetuity. Mr. Chamberlain supported the proposal, but the government opposed it and it was negatived 191 to 142. A government amendment, extending the term to 99 years was agreed to.

MOTHER-LAND AFFAIRS.PROF. TYNDALL IS AGAIN IN PURSUIT OF MR. GLADSTONE.

The Excitement Occasioned by the Proclaiming of Its Horns—The Government Drawing in Its Order on the Coercion Bill—Parnell Amends the Land Bill.

LONDON, July 25.—Professor Tyndall publishes another anti-Gladstone letter, making the candidacy of Sir G. O. Trevelyan on the liberal ticket for the Bridgeton division of Glasgow the occasion. In this letter Professor Tyndall uses the following language: "Something has been gained for the cause of healthy political action when Sir George Otto Trevelyan, whose presence hitherto has been a dry rot in the tissues of unionism, takes his proper place under his appropriate master. . . . I must renew my solemn protests against the scattered loyalists of Ireland being handed over to the tender mercies of the Romish hierarchy and the Irish National league. Were the necessity aside I would be prepared to go beyond mere protest against so infamous a consummation. To what a pass have we come! Liberal England and liberal Scotland fouled in the meshes of one perverted intellect! Sir George Otto Trevelyan has abandoned the company of men of truth and honour to follow the fortunes of a hoary rhetorician, who sets at naught the plainest dictates of political morality."

GLASGOW, July 25.—Sir George O. Trevelyan, in an election address, said the Irish government should not be allowed to appoint the judges charged with the administration of the law, although the government should be allowed to fix the number and salaries of the judges.

The Irish Question.

LONDON, July 25.—A protest against the Irish Crimes Act Amendment bill (the Coercion bill) has been issued over the signatures of the Earl of Granville, and twenty-eight liberal peers, including the Earl of Rosebery, the Marquis of Ripon, the Earl of Kimberley and Earl Spencer. The protest denounces the act as a source of lasting irritation and hatred and of mistrust of the law, and declares that the measure deprives Irishmen of individual rights and creates and stimulates the growth of secret societies.

LONDON, July 25.—The cabinet council considered the reports submitted by Mr. Balfour on the proposed suppression of the National league. The cabinet approved the proclamation, but postponed all further application of the Crimes act until the effect of the proclamations has been seen. The Dublin executive advises the prosecution of William O'Brien for the speech he made at Luggacurran, in which he incited the people to defy the act.

Mr. Chamberlain warns the government that the radical vote will not support their action, unless the Dublin executive directs the exercise of the powers of the act with mildness and discretion. The proclamations over the greater area of Ireland are not to operate actively, but as a mere measure of precaution.

The Parnellites propose to raise a debate, attacking the proclamations by a motion to adjourn.

Questions in the House.

LONDON, July 25.—In the house of commons this evening Mr. Morley asked what had happened to require the proclamation of the whole of Ireland, since the government had assured the house that the law was as well obeyed in some parts of Ireland as in any part of Great Britain.

Mr. Balfour replied that he had no reason to change his opinion that parts of Ireland were as quiet as parts of England. What the government had done was not to apply the whole Crimes act to Ireland generally, but only the subsections dealing with rioting, unlawful assemblies, and obstruction of the police.

Mr. Sexton asked whether the executive, before issuing the proclamation, distinguished the counties where it was necessary to prevent crime, from those where it was necessary to punish crime.

Mr. Balfour said that in every case in which a county had been specially proclaimed the proclamation had been issued because the government believed in the actual existence of crime or intimidation.

The Land Bill.

The house then went into committee on the Land bill. Upon taking up the first clause, extending to leaders the benefit of the act of 1881, Mr. Parnell proposed an amendment. The bill as it stands gives the option to tenant or landlord to make application to the court to fix the rent. Mr. Parnell urged that the tenant alone should have the right to apply, the period of such application to be limited to three years. Mr. Balfour accepted the amendment with a limit of two years, Mr. Parnell agreeing.

Convention at Newry.

DUBLIN, July 25.—A national convention was held at Newry to-day, attended by sixty delegates, including many priests. The meeting unanimously resolved to "treat as a leper any traitor testifying under the crimes act." It was also resolved that, if the league should be proclaimed, the Newry branch should use every stratagem to continue its meetings, by night, in the fields, in the streets or in private houses.

New Project Meditated.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 26.—The Railway and Navigation company was incorporated yesterday with a capital stock of $10,000,000. The incorporators are all citizens of St. Paul. The object is to build a road from the twin cities to a point on Lake Superior, and to establish a new line of boats in connection therewith with the road. It is to be an extension of the Minnesota and North Western and will be a substantial double track air line.

Afghan Boundary.

LONDON, July 25.—The Marquis of Salisbury, in the house of lords last evening, announced the settlement of the frontier dispute between Russia and Afghanistan. The ameer, Lord Salisbury said, retained the district of Khamiab.

Protest Against the Crimes' Bill.

LONDON, July 26.—Constable Underwood, of Naas, County Kildare, Ireland, has resigned as a protest against the Crimes act. His departure for Dublin was made the occasion for a demonstration.

Mullane, after being reinstated, pitched eight consecutive games in which the Cincinnati club won. It pays to reinstate a good pitcher if he promises to give up his monkeying.
