THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

TAHT SIMSON'S LINIMENT

Gentlemen,—I have been terribly troubled with rheumatic stiffness of the cords of my with rheumatic stiffness of the cords of my hands, and for seven years I have not been able to do any needle-work or sewing. I spent a great many dollars in trying to find relief, but without success until six months ago. I used a bottle of Simson's Liniment which has acted like magic. My fingers have regained their suppleness, which I despaired of ever retaining, and now after applying the contents of two bottles I can sew for hours without fatigue to my hands my hands.

looks a little top-heavy just in the middle of the year, but exporters find it to their in-terest to maintain the market in spite of advantage of it. A number held back their cheese, expecting higher prices next week.

To-day's sales will take about eight days of the July make. The country is in good condition and cows have shrunk little if any during the week. While the external appearance of the market is everything that could be asked there is a feeling that prices are liable to break. There is a vast difference between last year and this. July cheese sold higher than June's, but the make was much smaller and prices 21c lower to begin with. Besides the July make was much the better of the two, while this season the reverse is true. The transactious were 13,939, cent per pound, all around. If any one had prophesied a week ago that the hot weather

would have been called wild. No one pre-

Dealers and factorymen alike express no confidence in to-day's market, and are pre-

have a lot of high-priced cheese put in direct competition with this low-priced stock.

Salesmen did not feel disposed to sell at the prices paid during the week, and buyers did not propose to pay prices that would make their mid-week purchases appear ridiculous,

The Call to Rev. Mr. McGillivray. Messrs. Neil McNeil and G. S. Fenwick left yesterday to attend a meeting of Pres bytery at Carleton Place. It is expected at this meeting Rev. Mr. McGillivray, Perth, will intimate what he intends doing in connection with his call to Chalmers' church.

They Have Gone East.

Commissioner Coombs, of the Salvation army, and staff, went east yesterday after noon. They will go as far as Halifax, and stop at Kingston on their way back to Toronto, in September. A jubilee, in celebration of the advent of the army into Canada, will be held here upon the arrival of the commissioner.

An Ancient Walking Stick.

Daniel O'Brien, alias "Dublin Dan," has a hickory walking stick which he made 34 years ago. It is ornamented with pieces of the tusks of a whale. Dan made the cane for the late Dr. Sampson, who, after carry ing it some years, returned it to the maker, receiving a blackthorn stick in return. Dan thinks a great deal of the stick.

Only Two Bottles.

Messrs. Johnston, Holloway & Co., wholesale druggists of Philadelphia, Pa., report that some time ago a gentleman handed them a dollar, with a request to send a good catarrh cure to two army officers in Arizona. Recently the same gentleman told them that both of the officers and the wife of a wellknown U. S. A. general had been cured of catarrh by the two bottles of Ely's Cream Balm.

Robbing the Post Offices.

Within a very short period four post offices, Madoc, Campbellford, Shannonville, and Picton, have been broken into by burglars and robbed. It is certain there is a gang of cracksmen in Ontario who direct their whole attention to post offices, and, when they get a good opportunity, rob them. A government detective will likely be dispatched to investigate the robberies

The Mission School Pic-nic.

The papils attending the mission school (Mr. T. Savage, superintendent) held their annual pic-nic at Channel grove yesterday. They were conveyed to the grounds by the str. Princess Louise and brought back by the str. Mand. A very pleasant afternoon was spent by the children and their friends. Amusements of different kinds were provided. A base-ball match, played by boys, created a great deal of merriment.

Injured by a Coal Basket.

J. Murphy, a member of the iron ore gang, was injured yesterday afternoon while engaged in loading a schooner with ore. A coal basket fell on one of his feet and mangled it badly. It is supposed that two of his toos are fractured, and will have to be amputated. It appears to be that one of the guys attached to the bucket was cut by a train, and when it swung back to the vessel it became unbooked and fell, inflicting the injury referred to. .

IN ANSWER TO A SONNET.

A fair ideal you show me that I deem Most worthy in a poet's heart to rise, As Dian lovely in the summer skies; Reflected in your soul as in a stream, You show me mine own image like a dream of sweet, inspiring womanhood, most wise, Serene and tender, that with steadfast eyes The ideal of thir friendliness would seem.

Oh! where a sharper pang than thus to see Myself, high imaged in another's heart! To see and feel with hot reproachful tears That thus I might have seen, thus should I be Thus will I be! nor shall that dream depart Save as the moon retreats when the day appears. -From "The Heart of the Weed."

RESTAURANTS IN THE SKIES.

Eating a Meal Above the Chimes of Trinity Church-The Cheap Lunch Pooms.

The latest wrinkle is to get a view with your dinner-a natural chromo, so to speak. For this purpose restaurants have been opened on the eleventh floors of the Field building at the Battery and the Mills building near the stock exchange. You are lifted to these places with less difficulty than you descend to the cellar of the oyster saloon near the stock exchange where you are sometimes invited to lunch because they make the best cocktails down town." Up above the chimes of Trinity church, almost on the roofs of the two cloud piercing buildings, you find very stylish restaurants and French waiters, and enjoy the felicity of staring at Bartholdi's statue with your soup, Staten Island with your fish, the mouth of the Hudson river with your toast, and Brooklyn heights with your dessert. When we tire of the view we go to one of two or three macaroni places on the Bowling Green, to Fulton market for oysters, to John street for chops and ale, in places glossy with mahogany and crowded with oil paintings; or we go one block higher to a wine importer's to get escargots (French for snails), of which we are growing very fond. We get them also from Delmonico, who has three places down town for those who like to say they go there, at any price.

In the meantime the office boys, porters and younger clerks are enjoying an equal variety of luncheons provided by people who seem engaged in a laudable effort to see who can give the most for ten cents. Chatham street has the four cheapest restaurants in town, named after Bill Tweed, Jim Fisk, Grover Cleveland and Mr. Gladstone, where beef, potatoes, bread and coffee cost that sum. The dairies give bread and milk, pie and milk, or grain and milk in bowls for a dime, and there are a dozen queer and sloppy places where you see crowds of men and a bold display of milk cans on the floor, and cakes, cream puffs, chocolate eclairs and French sugar pastry in a hundred forms on the counters, each cake being three times as large as you will see anywhere else in town. These are the beaneries, where they sell beef and beans, two eggs, pie and coffee or crullers and milk for ten cents.

Finally, there is no end of French and German places where "regular dinners" are served for from fifteen to fifty cents, the newest of all beating the record with a picture of a three masted schooner of beer over the words: "This size free with our dinner, fifteen cents."-Julian Ralph in Pioneer Press.

Early Bird and the Worm.

It was not quite 5 o'clock in the morning. The sun had not yet begun to transact his daily business when a newspaper man, who loves early dew, robins, and other things, took a stroll through Central park. Only two persons from the Fifty-ninth street entrance to the mall disturbed the monotonous chatter of the birds.

A few feet from the music stand was an elderly gentleman with a revolutionary coat and frayed trousers. He carried a cane and wore a restless pair of eyes.

"Out early, my friend," said the reporter, in an off hand style of salute,

"Got to begin my business," said the wiry

"Well, you see, pard, I'm a professional searcher. I change with the seasons, just like bonnets and other parts of woman's gear. I'm on hand the first fellow after a big crowd to pick up the crumbs. What's crumbs! Why, whatever they drop; knick knacks, jewelry, money. All's fish as comes to my net. Beats the world how much a smart scavenger can pick up after a mob. In the winter time I work the balls and the opera and swell private entertainments, on the outside, after the whole thing is over, and just as soon as it's light; and in the summer I work the parks and picnics and excursions,

"Regular business, though, and you've got to have system in it. Big crowd yesterday (Sunday) on the mall, and here I am. Been here since daybreak, nosing around, and picked up so far $3.25 in change and a bracelet. Get'in my work before the cops come around. Early bird and the worm, see?"
