This earthquake has been the only theme interest on the street to-day, and we have yet to meet the first person who was not affected t the shock. It appeared to be more seasi felt out toward Fort Point than any locality we have beard from. The small dwellings in that vicinity were rocked like a cradle, and person were nearly thrown out of their beds. It is b been known in San Francisco since its settle ment by the Americans.

There were several slight shocks felt during the night, but did not attract particular attention. The firt one occurred about 9 o'clock, and the second about 2 o'clock, and were followed by the grand convulsion mentioned above.

The last ten days have been remarkably pleasant in this locality, and many persons familiar with these occurrences have frequently expressed the or inion that we were having "freal'earthquake weather."
