Admiral Napier has brought forward in Parliament his threatened motion for inquiry into. the management of the Baltic fleet while under his command. He contended that he was sacrificed to cover Sir James Graham's incapacity. Sir James retorted by saying that the admiral was physically unfit; also that his reputation was higher than his courage, and his courage & than his skill.

Admiral Beckeley also attacked Napier, who The motion was eventually withdrawn.

Paris commercial letters continue touspeak with confidence of peace, and also mention that the speculative amaia increases. The more

The Madrid Gazette officially denies that Napoleon has addressed a remonstrance to the
