It is no period now for discussing who is right or who is wrong, but the welfare of the whole demands mutual and immediate concessions, such concessions as will convince the world that as a brotherhood, Orangemen have means by which A few Boarders can be accommodated on reasonto settle their unhappy differences. He who was for years the acknowledged head of your his Brethren had elected him, thereby to bring us the blessings of peace and union, and the R. W., the Grand Master, hopes that the example so bonorably set will be followed by the Brethren generally. For himself, the Vice, Princess Street: and remodel his Establishment, as it has the R. W., the Grand Master, declares he never had any desire to be placed where the too favorable opinion of his Brethren placed him. His only object was to serve and be useful to the order, and while now ready as ever to maintain the integrity and rights of the order with his property and his existence, he will cheerfully join with his Brethren in making any sacrifice consistent with the dignity of the association, which its general interests may demand. Movements are affoat, which, more or less, must affect the Protestant constitution of the Association, and therefore in the opinion of the R. W., the Grand Master, it is necessary that the original position of the order should be restored and maintained in an energetic condition. It, after mature deliberation and consultation, the order is of opinion that the movements of the day are adverse to those great protestant principles, to maintain which the Brethren are bound together, then, in the opinion of the R. W., the Grand Master, the brethren should endeavor by all constitutional means to carry out those cndertakings by again placing themselves at the head of the movement.

It signifies nothing that a temporary cessation of aggressive movements be brought about action on the part of the order-if it/ be conceived that attempts are made or making to be-Imo 170 tray the interests and principles of the order to its opponents, then the emergency arises which must unite Orangemen to seek to obtain a voice where opinious tell and where principle must ultimately triumph.
