THE LOSS OF THE NORTHERN INDIAN-NA .- Letters has been received in this city from Malahide, Elgin Co., C.W., stating that a number of bodies have floated shore at that place, supposed to be among those lost by the Northern Indiana disaster. Two of them are supposed, from the description, to be the father and, husband of Mrs Akroyd, the English lady, whom it will be remembered lost all her family. One of these badies was that of an old man apparently sixty years of age, and the other a young man. Nothing was found upon them by which their names could be identified. Each of them had money in belts around their person, the money being mostly gold sovereigns, and in all about $1,700. We understand that Mrs Akroyd has been written to in Illinois where she is stopping among friends, and she will probably be here in a few days, and go hence to Malahide with a view to identify the money and effects, which are in the hands o!
