The following, clipped from a recent English well worthy of being called the greatest discovery of the age. But to the quotation. "In the fall of 1853, a distinguished friend of I ours, Irard C -, visited the United States, and while there spent some time in the city, of St Louis, where his attention was called, by means of a restorative for the hair, together with the men and ladies, all going to the same point. The statements were so extraordinary in regard to its effects that he was led to make some inquiry, when he learned that the honorable gentleman alluded to was stopping at the same hotel, viz : the Planter's House. He sought and obtained an interview with him, when he soon became ed London, in the fall of 1854, and positively such was the change in his appearance that many of his acquaintances were really puzzled Wheat. - About 3,080 busbels changed hands to recognize him. His head, the top of which was bereft of its covering when he left, was now covered with a rich and glossy suit of hair, and all his white locks had disappeared; indeed, many a high-born dame who had formerly looked upon him as too antiquated, now seemed to have few smiles for any one else. But as soon as the secret of this change came out, our drugand thus preserve their youthful appearance and beauty. It is known by the name of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative .- [St. Louis Pilot.
