Los's into your brother's eyes, man, And bid him read your own; One half the strife of human life Is born of guile alone ! Fridays and Saturdays Only, Deceit creates full half our hates, And half our love it slays; Look in each other's eyes, man, And meet each other's gaze.

> And ask that he forgive; Could human sin no pardon win, No mortal soul might live. No need of heaven were none forgiven, For none would reach its doors; Pardon your brother's faults, man, And bid him pardon yours.

Feel for your brother's grief, man, No heart is safe from woe, Though lips and eyes full oft deny, The sorrowing weight below, A gentle word, a pitying smile, May sweetest balm impart, Feli for your brother's grief, man, And may you win his heart!

Stand by your brother's side, man. And bid him clasp your hand, To him be just and yield the trust That you from him demand. How simply wise, with soul and eyes, To trust and still be true-To do to those we live, man,

A CANNIBAL IN IRELAND. A MAN'ATTEMPTING TO EAT HIS

OWN MOTHER. Enniskillen, Feb. 13, -A horrible scene of cannibalism was enacted in Traise a few days ago. The principal actor in it was a pig-jebber who had long been dompletely absorbed in the gratification animal desires and passions. To his mind mankind must have appeared a "swinish multitude." This two-footed brute came for has passed the allotted "threescore years floor, and by sheer force one of her legs was broken in two places. This not satisfying he commenced to eat the flesh of her arm. A watchman named Mara, who Sec.-Treas. | was passing at the time, was attracted by the weman's screams to the house, and on Mara forcing open the door he saw his actually eating the flesh, as if he had taste for it. The watchman not being able to rescue the poor creature from his savage gluttony, he went off for another watchman, and on their returning he was at the same inhuman feast and his face and breast were all smeared with blood. Manly Labor. night-patrol secured him. The coolness of the ruffian was extraordinary, for he had the audacity to prefer a charge of assault against Mara for attempting to make him desist when he first entered.

Wife Murder.

HORRIBLE CASE IN QUEBEC PROVINCE.

A herrible murder has occurred at St.

The victim was a woman named Benoit, aged 18, and the murderer was her husband, aged 28-both persons of good reputation. On the 23rd, 24th vices in the parish, at which both parties were present. The wife took the Sacrament, but the husband refrained, though usually very attentive to his religious On leaving the church on the 25th they met one of the former caraliers turned from the United States, and there was some conversation between the two. This incident may have excited the jealous fury of Benoit. The two went home, and after supper Benoit made a call at a neighbour's house, and was asked why he had not brought his wife. He said, " he is dead, I have just strangled her." The neighbours then went to the house and found the woman lying dead on the floor, blood coming from her mouth. Next day Benoit on the arrival of the Coroner told the same story. He added that he had spent twenty minutes in killing her, and showing where he had placed his thumb en her throat, he added, "That must be blue, for she moved her legs terribly will e I was strangling her." THINGS A MARRIED MAN CANNOT HELP TRISKING. - That all the girls used to be in love with him ; that all the widows are now; that if he were a widower he could marry again whenever he chose; that all the other fellows are fools; that he wouldn't introduce any fellow he knows to his sister or his daughter; that his wife is a little jealous; that she used to be a pretty girl; that his mother could make good bread; that his wife cannot; that he would not trust most women; that if le could ever speculate he would make his fortune; that he would enjoy a country life; that girls will never be so silly as to manny; that his mother-in-law may be a fine old lady but-that smoking never hurt a man yet; that with a little management the servants would always do well and never give warning; that his surt buttons are grossly neglected; that has going to make his fortune some day; that he despises old bachelors.

Some thirty old years ago the secretary to St. Bartholomew's Hospital ran down to a watering place in Wales for his value tion. While there he met accidentally with a very intelligent little boy who used to run about doing errands, and always turned up at the right moment, and when a penny was to be turned. Dr. - noticed the lad with interest, and soon, by chatting with him, found that he had the stuff in him to make his , way in the world if he only got the chance. His passion for learning was very great. Suppose I were to try to get you into the Bluecoat Boys' School in London." said Dr. - to his little man one day, "and suppose I were to succeed, would you do me credit, do you think ! Would you work very hard ?" "Would not !. though, Sir I" was the reply, and the borsevey actualy danced in his head n delight. Dr. - tried and succession, and his pretege kept his word the him such credit, that, on leaving the school with his arms full of honours, his patron was able to get him into st Bartholomew's Hospital, where, in course of time, he succeeded to Dr. - s post of secretary. Years went on and brought new success to the young doctor, till at last he became court physician, and is now Sir William Gull, the observed of all observers, and one of the most homorrible notabilities of that most honourable of all

The same paper further remarks that Canthought she can hardly survive the treatadian newspapers every now and there contain paragraphs deprecating the rush there is towards the professions of law and physic, resulting in over-crowding and genteel starvation. Manufactures are just as honorable and are sure to furnish prizes more lucrative, and as satisfying to an honerable ambition as any profession. To obtain these prizes ability, education, skill, and experience are all necessary. We are glad of an indication of the recog-
