FOR !. A POPULAR TRIUMPH AT A DEAR

THE PERSON RIGHTS AT STREET,

One-haif of a kreutzer is a little less than one-third of a cent. Not a large sum cercamly, but large enough to sustain a prin-; ple worth tighting about, at least in the opinion of the Frankfortonians. Thus we have had a two-day's riot, the destruction s. 50,000 guldens in property, the wrecking of sixteen breweries and the smashing of hundreds of beer-shops, the wounding of thirty-seven persons and the killing of twelve others -all for the purpose of deciding whether a mug of Frankfort beer, the mug holding a little more than half a , shall be sold for 4 kreutzers or for kreutzers. Let the lovers of cheap beer everywhere rejoice at the news that the four-krentzer party has carried the day and won its victory! For although the mot has been suppressed and quiet has been restored, the brewers have to-night decided to act as if they, and not the A PARODY FOR THE PERIOD. others, had been beaten, and to-morrow and henceforth the tursty Frankfort workman will reap the fruit of his valor and quaff libations to his slain comrades at the old rate of 4 kreutzers a mug. Meanwhile, sing, O muse, the combat and > beer-houses of the better class at 6 kreutzers a glass; the latter is the only fluid to be had at the innumerable small houses f equented by workmen and employers. From time immemoral the price of this been has been 4 kreutzers, and it is good and cheap at the money. The small beer-house in Frankfort most always belongs to the brewers who supply it with beer; the brewers fix the price at which the nut-brown liquor is to be retailed and, if they act togetter, they have the game in their own Lands. Everything else in Frankfort has risen in price since the war save beer; it is no exaggeration to say that it c ats you 40 per cent, more to live here now than it did in 1869. Thus it was not without reason that the brewers put their hads together a few weeks ago and determined that beer must go up. They announced that on and after a certain day the price of a ming of Frankfort beer would be 45 krentzers. The new tariff took effect on April 1. The people at first submitted to it, not without grumbling; the grumbling increased day by day; in a week it had grown into a growl; in a fortnight into a curse. and at the end of the third week, day before yesterday, it broke out into a yell,
