And the world is as fair as can be. But mortals are always complaining ' Each one thinks his own a sad lot; And forgetting the good things about him, Goes mourning for those he has not. Instead of the star-spangled howvens, We look on the dust at our feet; We drain out the cup that is bitter,

Forgetting the one that is sweet. We mourn o'er the thorn in the flower, Forgetting its odor and bloom; We pass by a garden of blossoms. I'm weep o'er the dust of the tomb. There are blessings unnumbered about us, Like the leaves of the forest they grow And the fault is our own - not the Giver's.
