THE FIRST MISS.

How delicious is the winning Of a kiss at love's beginning, When two mutual hearts are sighing, For the knot there's no untring.

Yet remember, midst your wooing.

Lave has bliss, but love is ruing ; Other smiles may make you fickle, Tears for other charms may trickle. Love he comes, and Love he tarries, Just as fate or fancy carries, -

Longest stays when screet chidden, Laughs and flies when pressed and bidden. Bind the sea to slumber stilly, Bind its odor to the lily, Bind the aspen ne'er to quiver, -

Love's a fire that needs renewal Of fresh beauty for its fuel; Love's wing moults when caged and captured, -Only free he soars enraptured.

Or the ring-dove's neck from changing No ! nor fettered Love from dying In the knot there's no untying. -THOMAS CAMPBELL.

The Massacre of the Masons.

A letter, of a portion of which the following is an accurate translation, has just been received in this city by a gentleman, a well known broker of South street, from an acquaintance in Santiago de Cuba. gives one of the most revolting pictures brutalism ever presented to any civilized community, and will lead to but one conclusion. The names of the writer and recipient are withheld, as it would imperil the writer's life if it should be traced him by the Spanish authorities. writer is a magistrate of justice in that blood-loving city, and is a Free Mason also, as is the gentleman who received it. know you will pardon me for not answering your letter of last April, in which you desire "full information in regard to the massacre of the Grand Lodge of Santiago de Cuba, and the present condition their widows and orphans." . . . This act created considerable excitement at the time, as it was imprisonment to speak of it, it was soon hushed up. The families of those men thus shot were placed on trial for the acts of the heads of those families, and as a result their property was confiscated. they were declared paupers, and at the same time the populace was forbidden, unen of home and shelter, food and means of obtaining it, forbidden to leave the jurisdiction of Santiago de Cuba, these poer, helpless creatures sought shelter the woods near here and became one comfamily. R. WHEELER'S ELXIR OF PHOSphates and Calisaya - After having used your Compound Elixir of Pheaphates and Calisaya for over two years in my daily practice, I must give it my unqualified approbation. Duing a practice of over tmenty years, I have used many scientifically prepared compounds, made to fulal the same therapeutical indications as your elixir, but none of them proved with me as valuadle as yours. To the medical profession, and to the public, I would especially recommend it as the best remedy with which I am acquainted for the successful treatment of the laege and constantly increasing class of cases of over-worked and nerve-exhausted women.
