ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—In our advertising column Mr. Henry Cunningham acknowledges the prompt payment of the loss he sustained by the fire last evening, and also of the gallant and efficient services rendered by the Fire Brigade.

BURSTING OF BOOM.—By the bursting of a boom at Trenton seventy thousand logs escaped into the bay between Prince Edward and the mainland. It is not known whether they are entirely lost or not. Unless checked up the Bay we will be having a few of these strips of timber visiting Kingston harbour.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—The Brockville Enterprise relates that while the steamer 'Spartan' was lying at that port one of her employees had a narrow escape from drowning. While he was coming off with a truck load of hams the steamer suddenly swung out from the wharf, precipitating the man, truck and hams into the water. The man was rescued, but the truck immediately sank.

FAST AND ORNAMENTAL TRIPS.—An almost incredible number of froes have been received here by farmers and others during the past week, the majority of them being, of course, fresh-made, and these the larger number were apple-trees. On Saturday next there will be an auction sale of a large and varied collection of fruit trees by Mr. Hutcheson. Those who wish to invest in few or many trees this year cannot find a more favorable opportunity for purchasing.

FIRE.—At 11 o'clock the fire alarm was sounded and the brigade directed to all fire reported from box 8, corner of Ear and Barrie streets. It was located in the stone stable of Mr. Henry Cunningham, on the line of William street. The engine was out and in operation with remarkable promptitude. Under the attack of a good stream of water, pumped from a hydrant two blocks off, the fire was confined to the roof of the building, hence the damage is not very consequential. Loss about $250; covered by insurance.

CORNER STONE.—It was determined this morning by the Worshipful Master and Wardens of Minden Lodge to invite the M. W. Grand Master to lay the corner stone of the new Masonic Hall, on the corner of Brock and Wellington streets, on the Queen's, beg pardon, the Empress' birthday. The ceremonies will be impressive, no doubt, and be shared in probably by a number of the lodges of the district.

THE 'CALABRIA'.—The prop 'Calabria' arrived here yesterday morning, and as we indicated in last evening's issue, had the break in her hull caulked in such a manner as to give assurance of her being able to reach Port Dalhousie, where it was intended she should be hauled out on the Mill's dry dock and repaired. She left in the afternoon for that point, but after proceeding up the lake some distance returned, her leakage being too great to warrant her proceeding in the condition in which she was then running.

DOCTORS DISAGREING.—One W. D. Monk, of Napages, has been charged by a physician with practicing as a medical man without a license. The defendant was fined $25 and costs, and this leads the Standard to remark that the people only ask protection from those whose experiments kill, who are not slow in encouraging those whose experiments cure. Until some one can show where to draw the line, we had better have the law as it is, and draw on that with a licensed experimenter killing is no murder, but with an unlicensed one curing is a crime.

P. M. DISTRICT TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The temperance meeting held in the Primitive Methodist Church Tuesday evening was an unusual success in the way of the advocacy of this all-important question. There was a very important absence of those temperance people who are not connected with this Church, which suggested to us that a more evident interest of temperance men in meetings where their peculiar pass-word is not used would give the outside public a better impression of their earnestness in this work. The chair was occupied by Mr. John Ashley, and the addresses were delivered by the Rev. Messrs. Wydenham, of Colinsay, and Amey, of Wellwood. Mr. Wellwood's speech was based on our obligations to aid this movement for the co-operations of personal, social, religious, patriotic and philanthropic interests. Mr. Amey's speech was well sustained by statistical statements, and throughout was intended to secure the alliance of all with the movement, and especially to secure sympathy for the victim at the hands of those whose influence might produce innumerable results for good upon those who shunned and abandoned. He made a strong and clear point against tipping Church people, showing how in the ratio of their standing was the influence for evil in any example of tipping which they set before young men. The addresses were excellent and well calculated to further the progress of the great temperance movement in which the dignity of this section of the Christian Church are taking an active part.

The water in the Bay of Quinte is five feet higher than at this date last year. Mr. J. O. Moyle, Inspector of Penitentiaries, has been very ill for several days. The Picton A. S. opened before Mr. Justice Burton on Tuesday. One criminal and six civil cases. It is proposed that war prices may be expected for the crops that will be raised this year, 1876. The directors of the Odessa Cheese Factory are running that institution by steam this year.

Napages leads off in the excursion line. The school teachers have an excursion to Oswego on the 'Oswego Belle' on the 24th.

Quite a number of new buildings are being erected in Marysville, Wolfe Island. They will give the village a prosperous appearance.

Oswego is to have a paid fire department. The present company organizations are preparing to divide their property and disband.

In a few days the regulations for the performance of the volunteer annual drill will be published. The Minister of Militia has then now under consideration.

Preparations are being made for a gala day at St. Lawrence Park on the 24th inst. There will be boat races and games of various descriptions, and excursions from Watertown, Syracuse, &c.

That detective has not been engaged. If he could prevent fires from breaking out at midnight, when we are snug in bed, we should be pleased to advocate his appointment.

A son of Mr. Alkenbrack, near Napages, who went in search of a stolen horse, has missed himself, and now the excitement is tenfold. Can the boy be rescued, too?

The Bay of Quinte and Oswego Navigation Company intend running the steamer Kincaidine between Toronto, Oswego and Belleville every Thursday, and if the enterprise proves profitable they will place a companion boat on the route.

A 'live Fenian,' from Buffalo, armed with a knife and a horse pistol, attempted to take Belleville on Tuesday night single handed and alone. He didn't succeed, and the police punished him for his failure, as he certainly deserved to be, by putting him in jail.

Farmers begin to study the wool market, with a view to selling at the proper time to secure the largest return. The prices in Montreal are merely nominal, and the business dull. Unassorted 20 1/2 to 28; pulled super 27 to 29; fleece 30 to 32; but these prices are as likely to decline as improve.

There is something wrong. The story about the little girl who jumped the rope 250 times, and then took a long leap 250 times beyond the skips, has not yet appeared in the newspapers, and nearly two months of spring have already passed. Life will be a burden to us unless the story comes along soon.

It is supposed that the Sergt.-Major of Police, who can't bear the sight of a cockroach, has been around the drill shed, inasmuch as the D. A. A. G. in his recent inspection, took cognizance of the sergent's skill, and requested its removal. It's all right, we presume; but for the life of us we can't see what great harm a dozen or so of small spiders could do in a den of smalling!

The weather continues very chilly, and vegetation is backward. Nevertheless the swallows have come; and water fountains are getting ready for the swallows; the man with the pogan has appeared on the market; Thomas cats and bullfrogs have commenced their nocturnal orgies, and there are other signs and tokens that blue-eyed Summer will soon be here.

Just so! There is to be a match between the Belleville and Oswego volunteers, and already the newspaper men of the former place have decided—before a shot is fired—that the victory is decided in their favour. One of them gravely hints that it is out of the power of their sanguine American friends to win. That is to say, by the rule which Belleville has latterly observed, no outsider must advance any credit which they can be 'jewel' out of by the Belleville thimble riggers.

We have often been irreverently styled the 'Wig,' but to-day we wept over the address of a Belleville letter addressed to the 'Wig.' Why would Webster die so soon!

This is the latest Centennial ode received: 'Here's to the American eagle, May the power of his wings never fail; He's the bird that no one can invade Or put out on his lightning tail.'

A company of 100 persons from Vermont passed through Canada on Saturday en route to Manitoba to settle down. If they had been Canucks a series of Tory articles would have risen up in judgment against the Grit Government.

'RECORD OF THE YEAR.'—The June number of this most excellent magazine is out, replete with historical sketches, incident, romance, prose and poetry. It opens with a fine steel engraving of Mark Twain, America's eminent humorist; and besides the unique and valuable diary of important events and occurrences throughout the world, this number contains two hundred other articles in such attractive variety that it forms the richest amount of valuable and entertaining reading almost ever embraced in a magazine. This capital new periodical, which has already reached such an enormous popularity, is something entirely new and original in the way of a Monthly Magazine, being a sort of a reference scrap-book, or monthly record of every event of any nature that happens in any part of the world, together with a selection of the choicest current miscellany, prose and poetry, foreign and domestic. Edited by Frank Moore, of the 'Rebellion Record.'

POLICE.—John Spence, drunk, was dismissed. Andy McVey, James Reilly, and Edward Gallagher, three young men of depraved nature, whose only ambition is to hang about the streets, and show to what a depth man can descend in their immorality, were charged with loitering on the streets. They made a very 'thin' excuse, and escaped punishment this time, but future offences will not be treated so lightly.

The Ottawa Free Press, which is generally correct in its official news, understands that two appointments have been made: 'Lieut.-Colonel Duchesneau, Brigade Major of Quebec, to be Deputy Adjutant General of Military District No. 7; vice Lieut.-Colonel Cassin; and Major B. Von Straubenzien, late 100th Regiment of Foot, to be Deputy-Adjutant General of Military District No. 3, Kingston, vice Col. S. P. Jarvis, resigned.' The appointment of Major Von Straubenzien, for which we labored somewhat, will give satisfaction to nearly everybody in Kingston, and with all due deference to the military tact and knowledge of Col. Jarvis, will increase the popularity and efficiency of the first office in the military district. The new appointee is both a soldier and a gentleman, and will enter upon his office with a full capacity for the ready discharge of all its duties, and a kindly feeling towards the Volunteers and their officers, which is reciprocated so heartily as to give promise of a most agreeable connection. The sole noticeable objection which, so far, has been made to this new appointment has arisen from a few retired officers of the militia service, who put on airs of superiority because they dangled a sword between their legs in Kingston streets in the calm serenity of a nineteenth century peace. As a body the officers are satisfied with the choice, and we can safely repeat to Major Von Straubenzien not being a member of the Volunteer Force, the objection, while good in theory, has practically little weight under the circumstances. A retired field officer of the army has very few opportunities to join the Volunteers, as it is not reasonable to ask him to serve in a subordinate capacity; and, further, the Major has always been ready and willing to take command in local corps, and would have done so had he not been prevented by political considerations which are well understood by the Colonel of the 47th Frontenacs. And though he cannot plead service in the militia, he has a very great experience in many capacities in the army to appeal to, and when it is remembered that in times of emergency the D. A. G. has had the forces of his District that varied experience of active service would be much more valuable than a connection with the Volunteer Force. In times of disturbance what the men look for in a commander is not merely so many years service in a drill shed on a parade ground, but a cool head and a firm hand, a soldier who has met powder and knows how to act. Lt.-Col. Worsley, who has discharged the duties temporarily, is a graft from another district, and cannot feel himself ungrateful.

Happy they, the happiest of their kind, Whom gentle stars unite, and in one fate Their hearts, their fortunes, and their beings blend.

Thus thought a poet whose soul has long since been wafted over the river, but whose spirit seems still to live, and whose memory is revived by the frequent occurrence of cases to which the lines penned by him, quoted by us above, have a special application. What we think of the blending of hearts and beings it is unnecessary to question; what we propose to do is to show by example what York Street raises thinks of the sentiments so sweetly expressed in poetic fancy. For him, married life must have its charms, as it is only a day or two since that he embraced his shapely form in his finest vestments and hid away to the shrine at which for the fourth time he entered the bonds of holy matrimony, and again straightened his bending shoulders and moved about with a feeling of solid content. He seemed to live and move in what is called the 'oilyum of love.'

She moved among the pots and pans and seemed to live correspondingly happy since she is no longer the petted babe of a past generation. Thus has Cupid consummated another union, which has been instrumental in serving two very useful purposes—gently transplanting an old maid from the country to the city, the old man's pet rather than the young man's slave, while he has apparently regained his youthful ardour, and in gentility and thrift feels capable of playing the lover with more assurance than he who is just budding into manhood, and first experiences the impulses of the divine passion.

TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS FOR TOLK. The County Judge, two Associate Judges, twelve jurymen, two lawyers and five witnesses, have been engaged for nearly two days at the court house determining the value of tolls. There also enters into this important case one shot gun, one cook stove, one crack in the wall, one cat, the sex of which has not been determined; and a boy, who we presume is a male, although no evidence to that effect was introduced. The scene of the tragedy is laid on one of the far-famed thousand islands in the St. Lawrence river. Benjamin Calhoun, the plaintiff, is a resident of Walls Island; George Ellis, the defendant, is a young man who resides at Clayton. Some time since the defendant was out hunting on the island with several other boys, and being near the plaintiff's house they went in. They were acquainted with the plaintiff, and whether they went in of their own accord or were invited in does not clearly appear from the evidence. When they got into the house they placed their guns in the corner, the defendant's gun leaning in a crack in the wall, about two feet from the cook stove. Very soon after, while they were all talking, and the lawyers omitted to put in evidence that they were all talking about, but while the conversation was going on a rat ran against the defendant's gun, knocked it down and off went the gun, and with it the plaintiff's tolls. There being no established market price for tolls, his action was brought for damages, and the jury caused the young man to 'toll the mark' to the tune of $200.—Dispatch.

VISITING CARD.—In the practice of turning card corners the upper left hand corner denotes 'visitae,' and is used for an ordinary call; the upper right hand corner turned down means 'familiaris,' and is a sign of congratulatory; the lower left hand corner, 'congratulatory,' represents a farewell call; and the lower right corner, 'condoleo,' expresses a desire to sympathize with bereavement. The rule most generally observed after Constantine and of course of the card, which denotes a wish to see the ladies of the family.

CHURCH, BELLEVILLE.—From a printed minute of the proceedings of the three last Vestry meetings of the congregation of this church, received to-day, it seems very clear that the pastor, Rev. R. S. Furner, is nearly unanimously sustained, the late war in the vestry being waged by a small, though very unflattering opposition. At a meeting last September a resolution was carried by 27 to 73, expressing satisfaction with the arrangement of prayer desk and communion table, and a unanimous expression was given to the confidence felt in Mr. Furner's soundness of doctrine and faithfulness to his charge. At the annual meeting last month, a resolution was passed by 73 to 25 male votes, reproving the 'unwarranted agitation' of the past nine months and re-affirming the September resolutions. At the adjourned meeting two weeks later the churchwardens reported financial prosperity and deprecated the agitation. A resolution of adoption coupled with a request to petitionists to submit or retire, was passed by a few overwhelming majority. A renewed expression of regard for and confidence in Mr. Furner met with no opposers.

ST. JOHN'S, PORTSMOUTH.—At an adjourned meeting the following gentlemen were elected Lay deacons: Charles Grass, three years; Major Bowen Von Straubenzien, (vice W. C. Evans, resigned), two years; Major E. B. Wilson, one year.

SYNOUDAL.—Already homes are being provided here for the clergymen who will be called here to Synod next month. After the adjournment, His Lordship Bishop of Lewis leaves to spend the summer months at Lacine. He will return West about the 15th of October. The Synod of Niagara is to meet on June 6th.

KEYNOTE OF PUNISHMENT.—The Rev. Dr. Jeffers preached upon this interesting and practical subject in the Cobourg Methodist Church last Sabbath. He strove to prove from Scripture and reason that the punishment of the wicked shall be eternal, wherein he differs from several correspondents of the BRITISH WHIG. The sermon was an eloquent one, and a great congregation assembled in anticipation of it.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH, INGERSOLL, is to have a $2,000 organ and a $3,000 paragon.

The sum of $141 towards the fund for the widow of the late Rev. Geo. McDougall was raised at the memorial service in St. James Street Church, Montreal, on Sunday.

The pass of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, the Rev. D. J. Macdonnell's, are being rented. A subject of remark is that they are only being let for a half-stand of a whole quarter.

MARINE NEWS. The steamer Corinthian passed down, and the steamer Oswego Belle up the Bay of Quinte on Wednesday.

The schooner St. Lawrence, from Walden, with timber, arrived at Garden Island this morning.

The schooner Anglo Saxon cleared for the Welland Canal, light, yesterday afternoon.

Arrived at McNeil's—Schr. Marie Anne, from Hamilton, 5,992 bushels wheat; Acadia, from Toronto, 12,302 bushels wheat; Picton, from Toronto, 9,697 bushels wheat.

At the Montreal Transportation Company's dock the prop. Armenia arrived from Port Dalhousie, lighted 4,837 bushels wheat yesterday, and passed down the river for Montreal. The tug Glide left with the following barges: Kingston, 11,300 bushels and peas; Detroit, 21,002 bushels and peas; Energy, 10,665 bushels wheat; Cayuga, light, for Gananoque, to load stone for Montreal.

The schr. White Owl arrived at Cleveland with 300 tons of coal for Holcomb & Stewart's. The Captain of this vessel reports having had a difficult passage through the ice on Lake Erie, on his way from here to Toledo. Even now, he says, there is a deal of ice in Erie and on this Lake below the Falls.

The schooner Wanaush, lumber laden, has gone ashore on Sand Point, Lake Huron, and is in a dangerous condition. Aid has been sent her from Detroit. She is timber laden from Bay City to Kingston.

As to lake freights a couple of transactions in Toronto are reported: 400 lbs flour per str. Spartan, from Toronto to —, at 90 cents. The schr. Acadia and Picton, Toronto to Kingston, loaded with wheat at 1 1/4 per bush.

PORT COLBORNE. Port Colborne, May 10. Up—Schr. Eva Stewart, Welland, Cleveland, light; Snow Bird, Thorold, Erie, do; E. H. Rutherford, Hamilton, Ft. Huron, do; Perry White, Ft. Colborne, Ashabuh, do, large Hula, Ogdenburg, Cleveland, do.

In Harbor—Schr. Garibaldi, Erie, Stewart, Russian, Farewell, Ellen Theresa; steam barges Germania and tow, Pittsburg and tow, Mary Mills.

Old Times.—The Elizabeth (N.J.) Journal says that on Wednesday one of the oldest trains that ever passed from New York to Philadelphia—some say the very first one—passed over the Pennsylvania road en route to the Centennial. It consisted of a locomotive and two cars, the oldest, strangest, and queerest looking thing imaginable—that is in comparison with the great locomotives and passenger-traveling coaches of to-day. The locomotive was, it is said, the first ever used on the road. It was brought to this country from England in 1836. It had no cab on it, and was very unreliable. It passed through this city at one o'clock and did not get to Frankford Junction, about ten miles this side of Philadelphia, till about five o'clock. Then it had no more steam, and had to stop. Imagine travelling at that rate to the Centennial!

Salonica.—The scene of the fatal riot between Christians and Turks, reported in our cable telegrams, is a city and support of European Turkey, the next place in commercial importance after Constantinople. It is situated at the north-eastern extremity of the Gulf of Salonica, and is the seat of an Ottoman departmental government. The population numbers about eighty thousand persons, the leading proportion being Christians. The remainder Turks, Greeks and Franks. The city has a very imposing appearance.
