THE ELECTORAL DIVISION SO-

We call attention to the report in another column of the Directors of the City of Kingston Electoral Division Sociey. This Society has done much in past years towards creating a taste for the cultivation of flowers, but it is to be port from the citizens to which it is onitled. Particularly was this the case last year, the subscriptions received, being barely mufficient to cover the amount given for prizes at the two shows. This regularly appointed places where bunches of flowers can be left for distribution among the various Hospitals, Theæsthetic value of the cultivation of flowers need not be urged either, as they inculcate a taste for that which is beautiful in a mantherefore, that the claims of the City of Kingston Electoral Division Society will be more fully recognized than they have been, and that a good exhibition will be the result of the efforts of the Directors.

THE TURN COAT QUESTION. The Whig again returns to the subject which it was the first to start, and of which its proprietor is such a striking illustration. There is not, however, the slightest attempt to meet the charge that journal, in 1871, this windy gentleman was not a blue-blooded Tory, or that, as a consequence of that sale or purchase, he became a Grit. That a contemplated Reform paper, for which the cash was aubscribed, was then abandoned, was aurely evidence enough that certain ne- days,) and in favour of Sir John Macdon- be useful to others besides the writer for the Manchester Guardian's London des- and situated about eighteen miles from King. gotiations had taken place by which the Whig became the Reform organ, and its sub-editor and manager a Grit and its proprietor. We say that not the slightest gates who were authorized to attend. attempt is made to meet this charge, which is really the subject which we have to lay a report of what was done before been trying to discuss. Whether the Whig was purchased by the Grits or in their interest, the fact remains uncontradicted that the proprietor of the Whig was purchased. Perhaps, after all, the excuse made by "the relative with the Conservative leanings" yesterday is correct, viz., "that he had no coat to turn." Well, if, after managing a Tory paper like the Whig for several years and voting the Conservative ticket, he had no coat to turn, we would regard it as very singular, and a more severe censure the young man than anything the NEWs marked, the Whig is discreetly silent on | donald in the resolutions moved by him this point. BUSINESS ADVERTISING.

The local Reform organ returns to the subject of "advertising" and dites the London Free Press as adding to such advertisements as lately appeared in the NEWS for the Mayoralty candidates the Naws had the "index" or "fist" prefixed, which is well understood by publishers as indicating an advertisement Whether a paper editorially opposed to a ments appears to be an unsettled question. The London Advertiser (Grit) says "As a rule, it don't get a chance." Very true, but when it does get the chance, the question arises, is there any impropriety in accepting it, especially in such this city, where both candidates declared were accepted from Mr Gildersleeve without a second thought, and not a line appeared editorially on his behalf. It probably, however, would have looked better had they been excluded until the question had been settled one way or the other.

THE CONSERVATIVE CONVEN-

The Convention of delegates of the various Liberal-Conservative Associations of the Province met in Shafteabury Hall, Toronto, on Monday and adjourned yesterday. The Convention was very largely attended, and the sessions were characregretted that it does not obtain the sup- terized by the utmost harmony. Delegates were present from all parts of the Province.
