London, Feb. 1 .- The Home Rulers de dded to abstain from voting on the Govern ment motion for a credit vote. Mr Forster, in moving his amendment in brought forward his amendment were he not convinced of its absolute necessity. If it was the duty of the House to vote money when wanted, it was the duty of the Government to say what it was wanted for. The only information the House had was that the Government intended to flourish the vote in the face of the forthcoming Congress on the Eastern Question. If Russia desired to take advantage of her victories to alter the existing treaties concerning the Dardanelles, the wish was only natural. Mr Forster arraigned the recent foreign policy of the Government, and declared they were not entitled to this vote as a vote of confi dence, and did not need it for any interest of the country.
