THE Y. M. C. A. FESTIVAL will take place in the Ontario Hall and the concert in the City Hall this evening.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES for the next 24 hours : For the lower lake region, moderate to fresh winds, increasing cloudiness and possibly light rain towards morning.

THE ICE. - The fine weather which has prevailed for the last few days has had a very bad effect on the ice. Crossing in the early morning is accomplished with comparative ease, but as the sun gets higher the ice becomes quite soft. A competent authority informs a News Reporter this morning that he thought the ice would not last four days.

JACKSON SOCIETY, VICTORIA COLLEGE. This Society is composed of the theological students of the College, and is called after his wife devised a large sum to the Theological Faculty. At a meeting a few evenings ago Mr S. D. Chown was elected Secretary. The Society's new hall, just timished, is to be formally opened to-morrow evening.

THE REV. WM. STEPHENSON'S CASE. -The result of the sitting of the Commission in the case of the Rev. William Stephenson, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Detroit, formerly of the Methodist Church of Canada, has resulted in the recommendation of a severance of the relationship and the resignation of Mr Stephenson. It is said that those who supported Mr Stephenson will form a new congregation.

RE-OPENED. - Messrs McNaughton & Co, having obtained a satisfactory settlement of their business, have re-opened their clothing store on the corner of King and Princess streets. The difficulties into which the firm fell were generally regretted in the city, and much satisfaction is expressed that a settlement has been obtained. A new cutter has been engaged, and as a fresh start has been made we hope everything will go on well in future.

THE CHRONICLE AND NEWS for the present week is out to-day, fresh and bright. Among its contents will be found a sketch of Pope Leo 13th, with illustration; officers of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East; North Frontenac Orange Lodge; True Blues' concert; continuation of "The Admiral's Second Wife." Births, deaths and marriages. The Chronicle may be purchased at any of the bookstores, or in wrappers for mailing at the counter. Price five cents.

THE SEPARATE SCHOOLS. Examinations at the Christian Brothers' School.

Yesterday afternoon the examination of the pupils of the Christian Brothers' School was begun in the large school-room, in presence of Bishop O'Brien, Fathers Higgins, Corbett, Twohey and Kelly, several of the Board of Separate School Trustees, and a large assemblage of parents and friends of the boys. The room was prettily decorated with streamers and evergreens, and one end was occupied by a large platform on which regularly, owing no doubt to the bad crossthe exercises of the different classes were ing on the ice. gone through. The examination began at It is reported that a prisoner escaped from class, consisting of a number of small boys. learned particulars. One of them, quite a little chap, delivered an address of welcome, after which the class was exercised in Catechism, Sacred History, reading, tables and writing. These were all well done, the specimens of writing being especially good for such small lads. During the exercises, J. Moodie recited "Little by Little," and a dialogue entitled "Guessing" was performed by W. Kilcauley and E. Meagher. Both of these little pieces were received with applause.

The third class was then called up, which numbered between 50 and 60 boys of a more advanced age than the previous one. On each of these subjects the boys were thoroughly examined, both by the Brothers and the Bishop, the latter putting a number of impromptu questions in geography, spelling and arithmetic, which were promptly anthe late Mr Jackson, of Hamilton, who with swered. The reading of the boys, as a rule, was very good. Proper attention was paid to stops and the meaning of the words read well brought out. At intervals between the different studies the following exercises took place: Recitation, "The Drowning Fly," by F. Hanley, well done; a short composition on the "Goldfinch," written and read by J. E. McTague; a dialogue, " Playing School, by P. Scanlan, W. Brophy and P. Devlin; a specimen of a letter written, by a boy to his brother, by F. greater diligence in the future. In the evening there was a very large at tendance of ladies and gentlemen to witness | Huntington, in reply to some remarks by the examination of the second class, including the Bishop, Vicar-General Farrelly, His Worship the Mayor and others. The proceedings were opened by an address of welcome delivered by Master W. Cunningham, after which a number of exercises were gone through. The boys were examined in Christian doctrine, reading, arithmetic, spelling, geography, grammar, &c., in all of which they displayed great efficiency. A number showing that this department had not been neglected by the Brothers. The boys were also examined in Canadian and Irish history. He spoke on the 13th Feburary, and referring to the mines which he first sold in Scotland, known were the mines that were represented to be a sham. He sold those mines in England, and from that day to this he had never had any difficulty or controversy about them with the parties who purchased them." And yet the Glasgow Herald of the 7th Feburary, had the summary of the cese instituted against Mr Huntington and his associates in respect to these very mines. If any one can believe that Mr Huntington on the 13th of the month had never heard any complaint in relation to transactions which are described as fraudulent - and in relation to which facts are given justifying that turm, in an action, the particulars of which appeared in the Glasgow papers six days before, he is at liberty to do so. We venture to think that the general verdict will be that Mr Huntington had not only heard of the complaints, but knew of the suit that had been entered against him, when he made his speech in the Commons.
